

QUINCY PATRIOT.

smallest emotion, as if to rest itself, for a full hour, when it again crept under the earth. The next morning the bird was an inch and a half under ground, and the trench remained open the whole day, the corpse seeming as if laid out on a bier surrounded with a rampart of mould. In the evening it had sunk half an inch lower; and in another day, the work was completed and the bird covered.

M. Giedtisch continued to add other small dead animals, which were all sooner or later buried, and the result of this experiment was that in fifty days four beetles had interred, in the very small space of earth allotted them, twelve carcasses—namely, four frogs, three small birds, two fishes, one mole, and two grasshoppers, beside the entrails of a fish, and two morsels of the legs of an ox. In another experiment a single beetle buried a mole forty times its own weight in two days. It is plain that all this labor is incurred for the sake of placing in security the future young of these industrious insects along with a necessary provision of food. One mole would have sufficed a long time for the repast of the beetles themselves, and they could have more conveniently fed upon it above ground than below; but if they had left thus exposed the assassin in which their eggs were deposited, both would have been exposed to the imminent risk of being destroyed at a mouthful by the first fox or ravenous bird that chanced to spy them.—Country (N. Y.) Gentleman.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

"BORN TO NO MASTERS, OF NO SISTERS, WE."

TOWN MEETING. The annual March meeting stands adjourned to next Monday afternoon, and as there are several important subjects to be considered, a general attendance should be the consequence.

NEXT WEEK. The communication of "Vasa," in reply to "Excelsior" came too late for this week's publication. Writers send their favors by Tuesday evening to insure an insertion the following Saturday.

DANCING. The terms of instruction to Miss Richmond's school for dancing, which was published last week as being one dollar, (owing to the blind manner in which it was written,) we are requested to state is four dollars. It is well worth the latter price, as we are satisfied that it will be an orderly and good school.

GOOD MEATS, ETC. We wish to call the attention of those among our readers, who are fond of good living, to the new Provision Store, lately opened by Mr. Henry A. Ransom. We consider ourselves pretty good judges of such things as pertain to the "inner man," and we must say that we have not for a long time enjoyed such exquisite pleasure, as we did when dining of a savory piece of sirloin beef which we had from this store; and we thought that we would not be doing justice to our friends and patrons, if we did not inform them where they can procure the best provisions, at the cheapest rate. Mr. Ransom is the Prince of good fellows, and our readers will find it to their advantage to "just drop in."

CHOWDER.—There will be an excellent Chowder served up this evening to the customers of the Granite Saloon, in the basement of Goodnow's Building. Go early, or you will be disappointed as many were last Saturday evening.

AFFLICTIVE DISPENSATION. Drowned, in the South Atlantic, and near the mouth of the Rio La Plata, on the 13th of December last, Mr. Moses R. Carver, second officer of the Ship Louisiana, and brother of Mr. Charles Carver of this town. He, with others, was in pursuit of a whale, when supposing he whale was about to strike the boat, he jibbed overboard and immediately disappeared. He sailed from New Bedford, on the 9th of July last, leaving a young wife, to whom he had been united but a few weeks, full of hope and expectation; having followed the sea but a short time, his promotion had been rapid, and his integrity, usefulness, and worthy conduct had obtained for him the promise of the command of a ship on his next voyage. But while man proposes, it is God who disposes; and it is a satisfaction to his surviving relatives and friends to feel that "the issues from death" come when and where, it may "belong unto the Lord."

For the Patriot.

ARTHUR AUSTERFIELD MORTON. What is there in the death of a little child, that should call forth more than a passing thought? What lessons can a life of seven short Summers teach? Why are there so many sad and tearful faces? Little Arthur is dead—the loved and the lovely, is stricken down and the home that was made bright by his presence, shall know him no more forever. His parents mourn for him and cannot be comforted because he is not—his brothers, sisters and relatives, sigh sadly for the little one that has been taken away, and even the stern man, as he steps to listen to the sad story of the bright boy that he has met in his daily walks, wipes away the unbidden tears.

His parents loved him for he was affectionate and gentle; his companions loved him for he was kind and generous—his teachers loved him for he was truthful and diligent,

"None knew him but to love him,
None named him but to praise."

Then may not a lesson be learned even from the life of a little child? Tender feelings, gentle manners, kind dispositions and pure hearts, will win love even in this cold world.

To his studies and school exercise he was ever attentive; and the last time he attended school, which was on the examination day, five weeks previous to the day of his burial, he was publicly alluded to, in the address of the Chairman of the School Committee, for the promptness and accuracy of his responses to questions, where larger and elder pupils had failed.

Through his whole sickness he avoided giving trouble to those who watched over him, and repressed as far as possible his complaints, that he might spare their feelings, so that the last act of his life, but a few moments before his departure, was beautifully consistent with his whole earthly career. He clasped his little arms around his mother's neck and pressing with his cold lips a last kiss on her cheek, said "Don't cry, mamma, I'm most well," and so with love in his heart and with words of tenderness on his lips, at last died, without once a sign of pain or trouble, just as he died.

The lecture, on Tuesday evening of last week, was delivered by Rev. T. Starr King, of Boston, and it was one of the few really eloquent, and instructive lectures I have heard this season. He commenced by saying, that it would be his privilege to address the audience on a somewhat anomalous subject—"The Laws of Disorder." The idea he seemed to wish to impress on the minds of the audience, was that nothing in nature was the result of chance, but that what seemed to be a system of confusion, was controlled, and ruled by fixed laws, infallible and unalterable. He spoke of the planetary system as a proof, saying that its intricacies were almost beyond comprehension, and yet so regular were the planets in their motion, that astronomers could calculate their revolutions with the greatest precision. The earth that traverses so many millions of miles in its yearly course, and no two years by the same path, whatever may be its oscillations and vibrations by the way, is sure to be in its proper station in the system, at the regular second of time. He instanced several kinds of fruit trees on which thousands of persons depended for the necessities of life which were themselves dependent on the migrations of birds and insects, for the natural assistance to sustain their fruitfulness, and those seeming accidental agents never fail, but appear regularly at the right time to fulfil their appointed duties. This earth which exercises a vast influence on the planets near its orbit, and has power by its gravity to attract other celestial bodies towards it, has not power to draw the smallest flower that blooms upon its surface, beneath it, nor to prevent the necessary nutrition to ascend from its roots which enable it to expand and blossom. This world is governed by laws so fixed and immutable, that everything in it can be calculated upon by science, with almost certain accuracy. The temperature of the globe, the currents of the air, the course of the tides, the proportion of the sexes, which he stated to be about 106 males, to 100 females and accounted for the excess of males by some very amusing theories; the number of marriages and the average ages of the parties, the amount, and descriptions of crime, are found by statistical tables to vary very little in one year, from another.

These facts were conclusive arguments, against the theory of the Atheists, that every thing came by chance, and he illustrated it by saying that their doctrine was like throwing a lot of type in the air, to see if they would fall down in the form of words, and sentences, and paragraphs, and finally in the chapters of a book, with all its nice distinctions, and all its strokes of genius, which instruct or amuse the reader.

Mankind too though resembling one another in general appearance, had such distinct peculiarities that no two men could be found among the countless millions on earth, exactly alike, and yet differ so slightly as no one could point it out with any degree of exactness. Nations also had their character which partook of the character of individuals, each man helped to make up the national character, and still it was the different nationalities though resembling each other in general, still differed on many points which appear trifling at first sight. In all countries there was about an equal proportion of radicals and conservatives, the latter were like a train of cars on the track full of passengers without an engine; the radicals resemble a train of engines without any cars attached, but each man an engineer, or fireman, and going on with no object or caring where they end, and grow young again.

"Mine Host," will accept our thanks for "great beef," a slice of which melted in our mouths, and last but not least, the father of the young lady we escorted home can give us a thrashing, just as soon as he finds out who we are, if he can.

But we are spinning this out to a greater length than we intended, and will close by saying that the party was the party of the season, every thing passed off in a good manner, joyous way, to the satisfaction of all present.

The music by that "funny duck," Bassell, was of the "tip top" kind.

As the snow-flake melts in the sun shine, so in the beautiful spring time passed away the spirit of the gentle boy.

"Leaves have their time to fade,
And flowers to wither at the north winds breath,
And stars to set; but all—
Thou has all seasons for thine own, Oh! Death."

Poetry.

The Breeze of Spring.

Dull winter hastens to be gone—
He's disappearing fast;
The sunny hours are coming on—
The stormy time is past.
The ice no longer binds the rill,
Nor knows their mantle fling;
For every bleak and barren hill,
Has kissed the breeze of spring.

I bear its music in the wood—
It sighs along the vale;
Where summer flowers in beauty stood,
It lingers to the date;
It plays upon the primrose banks,
And rests its merry wing;
The drooping snow drop kindly thinks
The western breeze of spring.

All I well it knows where violets grow—
In the lone and shady bower;
It bids the sweet, wild winds blow,
And onward sweep again;

It wakes the flowers of the field,
And they their offerings bring—
The flowers their sweetest incense yield,
To scent the breeze of spring.

The blackbird from the hawthorn bush,
Renews his lively strain;
On topmost branches stands the thrush,
And tunes his throat again;
At close of evening, calm and mild
He makes the forest ring;
With native wood-notes, clear and wild,
He loves the breeze of spring.

The robin leaves his winter friends,
For hedgerows far away—
Above his noisy nests he bends,
And pipes his plaintive lay.

The lark, uprising with the light,
On every mounting wing,
Strains all his might till out of sight,
And hails the breeze of spring.

A hundred voices fill the air—
The sun shines warmly down;
Away with each returning care,
And leaves the gloomy town;

Come, round along the wavy green—
Hear Nature's favorite song,
Enjoy the soul-enlivening scene,
And woo the breeze of spring.

They Will Be Done.

BY GEO. P. NORRIS.

Scourer of hearts!—from mine erase
All thoughts that should not be,
And in its deep recesses trace
My gratitude to Thee.

Blessed of Prayer!—O, guide aright
Each word and deed of mine;
Life's little teach me how to fight,
And the victory Thine.

Giver of all! for every good
In the Redeemer came;
For rainfall, shelter, and food,
I thank Thee in His name.

Father and Son! and Holy Ghost!
Thou glorious Three in One!
Thee knowest best what I need most,
And will Thy will be done.

The Little One is Dead.

Smooth the hair, and close the eyelids,
Let the window curtains fall,
With a smile upon her features,
She hath answered the call.

Let the children kiss her good,

As she lies upon the bed,

God hath called her to His bosom,

And the little one is dead.

Memory.

When Time, which steals our years away,
Shall steal our pleasures too,
The memory of the past will stay,
And half our joy renew.

Anecdotes.

"Mister, will you just lend pa your news paper? We only wants to send it to his uncle." "Oh! certainly. And ask your father if he'll just lend me the roof of his house? I only want the shingles to make the kettle boil."

Impressions at first sight was the subject, at the supper table, when the lady who presided, over the cups and tea, said that she always formed an idea of a person at first sight; and that idea, she found, was generally a correct one."

"Mamie," said her youngest son, in a shrill voice that attracted the attention of all present.

"Well, my dear," said the fond mother, "what do you want?"

"I want to know," said young America, "what you thought when you first saw me."

"Why, Ben, I am astonished," said a worthy deacon, "didn't we take you into our church a short time since?"

"I believe so," hiccupped Ben; "and, between you and me, it was a little the damndest 'take in' you ever saw or heard of!"

In a very thin house, an actress spoke very low in her communication with her lover.

The actor, whose benefit it was, exchanged with a face of woful humor; "My dear you may speak out, there is nobody present to hear you."

"Sammy, my son, how many weeks belong to the year?" "Forty six, sir." "Why, Sammy, how do you make that out?" "The other six are Lent." "Mother, put this boy to bed. He's getting too far'd."

A green 'un, who had never before seen a steamboat, fell through the hatchway down into the hold, and being unhart, loudly expressed his surprise—"Well if the darned thing ain't hollow!"

A traveller stepping in at an inn down east, was asked, how the business men in New York were getting along? "Oh," answered the traveller, "many of them have got upon their legs again." "How so; but many who rode in their coaches have been obliged to learn to walk."

DR. H. W. KIRK'S MEDICAL MANUAL,
Medical and Hand Book for the Afflicted—

Containing an outline of the origin, progress, treatment and cure of every form of disease, contracted by promiscuous sexual intercourse for their prevention, written in a plain, simple style avoiding all medical jargon, and everything that would confuse the ear of decency, from the result of some twenty years successful practice, exclusively devoted to the cure of diseases of a delicate or private nature.

Testimony of the Professor of Obstetrics in Penn., College of Philadelphia. "DR. H. W. KIRK'S MEDICAL MANUAL" is the best work unlike the majority of those who advertise to cure the diseases of which it treats, is a graduate of one of the best Colleges in the United States.
Therefore I pleasure to recommend him to the unfortunate, or to the victim of malpractice, as a successful and experienced practitioner, in whose honor and integrity they may place the greatest confidence.

QUINCY PATRIOT.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, April 8th, 1854.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

Perhaps it may not be done very learnedly, but I am satisfied in being able to do it so you can arrive at no other conclusion than this—that the Catholic religion has been the cause of more bloodshed, in the last three and a half centuries, in the territory where it has been attempted to make it the supreme power, than all other causes combined.

The first great and cold-blooded massacre, to annihilate Protestantism, occurred in Sweden, Christian II, being the reigning prince. He, receiving orders from the Pope, Leo X, assembled all the nobles and senators of the country at a banquet, and there murdered them with but one exception. This bloody act had the effect to convert all Sweden and Denmark to the reformed religion.

Cast your eye over the history of the reign of Queen Mary of England, if you would see persecution of conscience. That Queen burnt eight hundred Protestants at the stake. The wrongs inflicted upon the reformers in her reign, would make the blood run cold in your veins.

The reign of James II, from the invasion of the Duke of Monmouth to the accession of William, Prince of Orange, will show you something of the character of the Catholics.

The history of France will give you as much knowledge on this point, if we had time to go through with it, as that of any other country; but we must leave it, by saying that one half a million of souls perished in defense of the reformed religion in that country.

The writer charged our ancestors with theft, robbery and murder. It is answer, all I shall say, is that the first cruelty exercised upon the "red man" was that of Cortez, who stole a ship load of natives and sold them in Europe as slaves; Gary done the same;—both Catholics. De Soto was the first to burn them, he was a Catholic; he also was the first to hunt them with blood hounds.

Voted.—That the Selectmen be instructed to take the three lots of land, named in the report and which they were instructed to purchase at the annual meeting, by process of law, if they cannot obtain them by purchase.

Chose William S. Pattee, John Glover, Jr., William S. Morton, George H. Locke, Ensign S. Fellows, Eldad Worcester, Joseph G. Brackett, Lewis Bass, H. N. Glover, William Ellison.

Voted.—That said Committee be authorized to draw on the Selectmen for an amount of money not exceeding three hundred dollars.

Voted.—To accept the report on New School Houses, presented at the meeting in March.

Voted.—That the Selectmen be instructed to take the three lots of land, named in the report and which they were instructed to purchase at the annual meeting, by process of law, if they cannot obtain them by purchase.

Chose Noah Cummings, Solomon Willard, George H. Locke, Bryant B. Newcomb, William B. Duggan, a Committee to build a School house in the West District.

Thus you will see that Catholicism has been at its bloody work in this country, and young man do you doubt that it will be again, only give it the opportunity. You cannot doubt it, and in the action you take in the government of this country you must always have it uppermost in your mind.

Voted.—For the Patriot.

A Generous Act.

Mr. EDITOR:—The annexed extract from the Lynn Weekly Reporter deserves a wide circulation, for the novelty of the transaction rendered, and also for the liberal and just views of the relations of the employer and the employee, which Mr. Hovey entertains, and has expressed therein. I hope, Mr. Editor, you will give place to the same.

Voted.—To increase the appropriation of money made at the meeting in March, by eleven hundred and twenty dollars, for the New School House in the West District.

Voted.—To increase the appropriation of money by three hundred dollars for the proposed New Cemetery.

Voted.—To increase the appropriation of money by one hundred and seventy seven dollars for the North District School House.

Voted.—That the above named sums be assessed upon the Polls and Estates according to law, in addition to the sum voted to be assessed at the meeting in March, which will make in all the sum of seventeen thousand eight hundred and forty-two dollars.

Mr. W. French, having declined to serve as Collector of Taxes, it was Voted.—That the collection of Taxes be put up, at auction, to the lowest bidder.

Bid off by Stephen Morse, Jr., for one cent and three fourths of a mill per dollar.

Chose Stephen Morse, Jr., Collector of Taxes.

Voted.—That one or more Constables be provided, upon application, to any persons using the Town Hall or Lyceum Room, said applicants bearing the expense.

Chose George B. Nightingale, Surveyor of Wood and Bark.

County Treasurer.

Whole number of votes, 33. George Ellis, of Dedham, 31. W. M. French, of Quincy, 1. G. Marsh, 1.

Voted.—That the Cemetery Committee be instructed to report at the next Annual March meeting, upon the expediency of enlarging the Cemetery and also for laying out the same in lots, for sale or privilege.

The meeting was then dissolved.

UNION OF RAILROADS. It is pretty certain that the arrangements to consolidate the Old Colony and Fall River Railroads will be consummated. It is to be hoped that by this union the management will be of such a character as to afford the best accommodations to the travelling public and thus give general satisfaction.

SOUTH SHORE RAILROAD. This came under the direction of its own officers on Monday last. Two new engines and eight new passenger cars were put on. Each of the latter will accommodate sixty-four passengers.

RODE ISLAND. The Whigs have succeeded in this State, at the recent election, securing both branches of the Legislature, in place of Zeno Scudder, resigned, on account of ill health.

Seth T. King has lately been Holden in one thousand dollars for stabbing Augustus Burrell, in West Randolph.

Poetry.

Make Your Mark.

In the quarries should you toil,
Make your mark;
Do you do upon the soil?
Make your mark;
In whatever path you go,
In whatever place you stand,
Moving swift or moving slow,
With a firm and honest hand
Make your mark.

Should opponents hedge your way,
Make your mark;
Work by night or work by day,
Make your mark;
Struggle manfully and well,
Let no obstacles oppose,
None right shielded ever fell
By the weapons of his foes—
Make your mark.

What though born a peasant's son,
Make your mark;
Good by poor men can be done—
Make your mark;
Peasant's garb may warm the cold;
Peasant's words may calm a fear;
Better far than hoarding gold
Is the drying of a tear.
Make your mark.

Life is fleeting as a shade,
Make your mark;
Marks of some kind must be made,
Make your mark—
Make it while the arm is strong,
In the golden hours of youth;
Never, never make it wrong;
Make it with the stamp of truth—
Make your mark.

Saturday Evening.

How sweet the evening shadows fall,
Advancing from the west,
As ends the weary week of toil,
And comes the day of rest,

Bright o'er the earth the star of eve
Her radiant beauty sheds;

And myriad sisters calmly weave
Their light around our heads,

Rest, man, from labor! rest from sin!

The world's hard contest close.

The holy hours with God begin—

Yield thee to sweet repose.

Bright o'er the earth the morning ray
Its sacred light will cast,

Fair emblem of the glorious day

That evermore shall rest.

Give Me the Hand.

Give me the hand, that is warm, kind and ready,
Give me the clasp that is calm, true and steady,
Give me the hand that will never deceive me,
Give me its grasp that I may believe me.
Soft is the palm of the delicate woman!

Hard is the hand of the rough sturdy yeoman?

Soft palm, or hard hand, it matters not never!

Give me the grasp that is friendly forever.

Give me the hand that is true as a brother.

Give me the hand that has harmed not another,

Give me its grasp that I may adore it.

Lovely the palm of the fair blue veined maiden,

Friendy the hand of the workman o'er laden!

Lovely or ugly, it matters not, never,

Give me the grasp that is friendly forever.

Anecdotes.

"Doctor," said an old lady, the other day, to her family physician, "kin, you tell me what is some folks are born dumb?"

"Why, hem! why, certainly, madam," replied the doctor, "it is owing to the fact that they came into the world without the power of speech!"

"La me!" remarked the old lady, "now, just see what it is to have physic education."

"I've asked my old man more than a hundred times that are same thing, and all I could ever git out on him was 'kase they is."

"Well, I'm glad I axed you, for I never should a died satisfied without knowin' it."

"I am afraid, Frederick," said Mrs. Smith to her husband, "that Betty is dishonest."

"Ah! what makes you think so?"

"Why, I gave her seven apples to prepare a pudding, and will you believe it, I counted over the quarters, and only found twenty-seven!"

"Are you sure you counted right?"

"Yes, for I counted them over three times, carefully. The world is full of inquiry!"

Betty was discharged without a character.

A boy had a colt and a dog, and his generosity was often tried by visitors asking him just to see what he would say—to give them one or both of his pets. One day he told a gentleman present he might have his colt—reserving the dog, much to the surprise of his mother, who asked:

"Why, Jacky, why didn't you give him the dog?"

"Say nothin', say nothin', mother, when we goes to get the colt, I'll set the dog on him!"

"Is he alive?" inquired a little boy, as he gazed on a large turtle crawling in front of a restaurant.

"Alive!" exclaimed a fat gentleman, who was looking at the monster with intense interest, "sartainly, sartainly boy. He acts like a live turtle, don't he?"

"Why, yes, he acts like one," answered the little querist, "but I thought perhaps he was making believe."

"In short—ladies and gentlemen," said an over-powered orator, "I can only say—I beg leave to add—I desire to assure you—that I wish I had a window in my bosom that you might see the emotion of my heart."

"(Vulgar boy from the gallery)—Wouldn't a pane in your stomach do this time?"

Miscellaneous.

The Widow.

Mine has been a troublesome and perilous life in matters of love—no sooner have I emerged from one ocean of sighs and tears, than I have plunged headlong into another. It is passing strange that I never fell into matrimony in my very early days; my father did so, and so did my mother, and also my respected grandmother. She, good soul, originally Miss Metitia Simpson, at fifteen married her first husband, a Mr. Jeffrey Wilson; at sixteen, gave birth to my mother. Her husband then died without any other issue, leaving her more than well provided for. At seventeen, she espoused a Mr. Winckworth, who, in his turn, consigned her to single blessedness and a fat dower; after which, having quarrelled with all her race, or all her race with her, she abjured them and the realm, betook herself to the Continent, and was barely heard of afterwards. My mother, following one part of her example, married at sixteen, and enriched the world with me at seventeen. Fate, however, I suppose, for I am a believer in fate, destined me to such common wares. But vanity! vanity! Can the rich, beautiful, sought, and at an age when prudence has mastered passion, think of such an one as I?—Yet, she seemed very kind! But kindness never marries, said a still, small voice. Yet she oftentimes gives birth to love, I thought in answer.

But she is wealthy, has a wide range for choice, is a widow, and has the whole town after her, replied my monitor. True, true, I whispered; but she has interested me, and by—I'll try it!

Again we met—El je contais encore quelques fleurilles. The widow smiled at them, and threatened, if I persisted to reprove me. Cela va bien; said I to myself, and I retired for my vanity, or little else, was as yet interested.

A third time we met. Now then, Ephraim, said I, for the coup d'essai—this time you must be serious and distant, and if she has thought upon you, the result will tell. I approached her with a low and most respectful reverence; inquired after her health; without giving her time to answer, made some dry remarks on the wet weather; broached a recent murder; remarked to the Almanac, and the last new frounce; and was retiring when she said—

On my arrival on the Continent, I had been a short time at —, when my health visibly and seriously declined, and the medical men who attended me advised a visit to — for its restoration. In accordance with their directions, I, nothing loth, (for a seat at the desk never was a desideratum with me,) sat out; and, as I was alone, and was not over-enamored of my monosyllabic patronym, assumed one suited to the euphony of a billet-doux; and having, therefore, re-baptized myself, I made my appearance at my journey's end as Augustus Montagu, with, moreover, a dash of black-down on the upper lip, which I dignified, to my own mind, with the title of moustache. Thus yept, and thus accounted, I began my way at —, and, by dint of my modest looks, a little foppery, and my good name, I shortly won my way into a circle of acquaintance.

At a party to which I had, through these means, been asked, I one night met Madame Perollet, whose appearance, and more, her sufferance of my attentions, made some impression upon me. She was an extremely fine woman, and English, seemingly about five and thirty, though less-favored fair ones spoke of her having numbered fifty years. Her hair and eyes were of the blackest; her eye lashes of the same color, and long, thick and silky; her complexion fair, but not ruddy, such as best contrasts with, and best becomes, the raven lock; her features were more beautiful in their expression than in their individuality, although then even they were beautiful; her teeth were the finest I ever saw; and I opine no woman can lay claim to beauty who cannot show, nay, even display her teeth. She bore an easy, dignified, and placid smile: her figure was of the strictest proportions, and her carriage most graceful; moreover, she was rich, and consequently amiable. She was a widow, too; and, with all these qualifications, of course was greatly sought after by the men. But she had sense and caution; and while she smiled on all, and enamored many, she never gave more than hope, and preserved all her own freedom. The women, who wished her dead or married, consequently called her a coquette, and some of the vieux garçons agreed with them—but this was suspicious evidence; while the younger men, whom the aunts and mothers of standing spinster admonished to beware of the widow, only bowed, and then turned on their heel to laugh.

In the morning having dressed myself with more than ordinary care, I found myself about two o'clock with a very unsettled pulse, at Madame Perollet's door; and being announced, was ushered into the drawing-room where the widow was seated on a couch, at a small and elegantly carved writing-table, drawing her small white hands over some invitation cards. The usual inquiries made and answered, our conversation turned on the previous night's party, and she told me she was busy when I entered, writing cards for one of her own.

'But do you know?' said she, 'I write so little lately that my hand is quite stiff, and I am so awkward. See,' said she, laying it over the table to me, 'see how I have blacked my fingers with the ink.'

'Indeed,' said I, rising and advancing to her table, and with the affectation of short sight, taking her hand in mine to examine it. 'This ink of yours is a most sacrilegious violator. Would you permit me,' I added, as she drew her hand away, 'to finish your task?'

'Oh, indeed,' she answered, rising and vacating her place to me, 'you will oblige me much, if you will undertake that kind office for me.'

'Rather say for myself,' I said; 'for I fear I am selfish in seeking the pleasure I ask.'

She made me no reply, but smiled, and placed herself opposite, with a list of names to dictate.

'What is this?' said I, taking up the last she had finished. 'This is my name. Am I the only Mr. Montagu of your acquaintance?'

She nodded acquiescence.

'And am I to have the honor of attending you?'

'If,' she answered, 'no better, no more agreeable engagement.'

'Heavens!' said I, 'what better, what more agreeable engagement is it possible I could have? what other engagements could induce me to forego —'

'Indeed!' said I. 'I am sure it is in a very venial one.'

'It is so, indeed; but it is necessary I should now explain it to you—my name is not Matilde Perollet.'

'Indeed?' said I, at the same time thinking to myself how easy a way this confession would make for my own on the same subject.

'That name I assumed to escape the importunities of relatives in England. Listen, and you shall soon be made acquainted with the brief story of my life. My maiden name, you must know, was Simpson.'

'Indeed!' said I, 'we have that name already in our family.'

'On my first marriage with Mr. Wilson—'

'Who?' I cried.

'Wilson!' she answered.

My hair stood on end—'Were you married a second time?'

'I was.'

'To whom?'

'To Mr. Winckworth.'

'Winckworth!' I exclaimed, 'Simpson, Wilson, Winckworth! Heavens! you are my grandmother!'

Young America.

American history presents many remarkable instances of young men taking prominent and commanding stations at an age which would be thought very young in other countries. A few striking examples will be given.

Then there is one, Mr. Montagu? but pray remember my cards. I fear you will make a very negligent acquaintance.'

'There is indeed one, Madame, if I dared reveal her.'

'Well, pray,' she replied; remember, if you write for me only, how many damsels will die for lack of the elegant food of your billet-doux!'

'Not one, I assure you Madame; if I have polluted paper with a line to woman since my arrival or dared to harbor thoughts of more than one, the one to whom I can never presume to aspire —'

REVISION OF THE JURY BOX. The following list of gentlemen were selected by the Selectmen and accepted by the town, at the adjournment of the March meeting, and have been deposited in the jury box.

Wyman Abercrombie, Josiah Adams, Nathan Ames, Abram M. Alpaugh, Lewis Bass, Joseph G. Brackett, Daniel Baxter, James Baxter, William W. Baxter, Joseph S. Beals, John A. Billings, James Bradford, Joel Clements, Elihu S. Chapin, Gideon F. Denton, Horatio G. Dearborn, John K. Dustin, John M. Dexter, Joseph Ewell, Edwin Everard, William Field, Ebenezer Ford, Richard Fisher, Jacob Flint, Dudley Folson, Thomas G. Fenn, Horatio N. Glover, John Glover, Jr., Lorenzo Goodrich, John Hall, James M. Hardwick, Samuel V. Hardwick, John Hardwick, George W. Hardwick, William Hobart, Trueworthy C. Horne, Peleg F. Jones, Jonathan Jameson, Perez Joyce, John Jacobs, George W. Kenison, George H. Locke, Frederic A. Lapham, Thomas M. Marsh, Alexis W. Moore, Israel W. Monroe, Edmund Marsh, Bryan B. Newcomb, Richard Newcomb, George Nightingale, Jeremiah Nightingale, Albert C. Nash, Micajah C. Pope, Caleb Packard, Charles D. Pierce, William Pratt, William Parker, Jr., Abram Prescott, Joseph W. Robertson, Horace B. Spear, Edward A. Spear, John Savil, 2d., Moses Sleeper, Charles P. Turrell, Edmund B. Taylor, William S. Underwood, Henry Wood, Nathan H. White, John Whicker, Harrison O. Whitney, Abel Wright, Shadrach Wade.

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY. C. S. Rafinesque of Philadelphia, "Professor of many Sciences, Architect, Draftsman, &c." has announced to the public, the discovery, by himself, of a new mode of erecting buildings of all kinds, so as to render them entirely incombustible. He denominates this discovery by the term Incombustible Architecture, and alleges the following as the advantages of the new style, all which he offers to warrant, viz.:

1. Buildings will be fire proof.
2. They cannot be set on fire on purpose.
3. They cannot catch fire from neighbors.
4. They will last longer.
5. They can be warmed in winter, at one third the actual cost.
6. They will be insured at a mere trifle.
7. They will be warmer in winter.
8. They will be cooler in summer.
9. They will require no expense of fire engines and firemen.

10. They will save the lives of a hundred thousand persons doomed to be burnt alive.
11. They will save a hundred millions of property doomed to be burnt.
12. They will look neater and more convenient inside, with more space, &c., &c.

The above is from the Philadelphia Gazette, published in the Spring of 1853, and is copied for the purpose of asking the question what becomes of the thousand "important discoveries" that are made every year. The idea of erecting tenements, that cannot be consumed, is one that the world could not and would not disregard, and yet notwithstanding the incombustibility was warranted by the scientific professor, houses are still built in the old fashioned way and "millions" of property are annually destroyed.

The question "what becomes of the fire," which has so much engaged the public mind, had better be suspended awhile, and an inquiry into the history and fate of important discoveries, might with much advantage, occupy the attention of the reading and thinking community.

Liquor Laws. Hon. Roger B. Taney, Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court, thus expresses his views on the Constitutionality of a law prohibiting traffic in intoxicating liquors:

"If any State deems the retail and internal traffic in ardent spirits, injurious to its citizens, and calculated to produce idleness, vice or debauchery, I see nothing in the Constitution of the United States, to prevent it from regulating or restraining the traffic or from prohibiting it altogether; if it thinks proper."

RAILROAD TO BARNSTABLE. The Barnstable Patriot congratulates its readers that, in a few days, if the weather is favorable, the rails will be laid as far as that village, and soon they will have a daily through train to and from Boston.

A COLD BITE. The proprietor of the Granite Saloon, has constantly on hand all that the hungry man might crave, such as cold ham, sausages, etc., at all hours of the day and evening.

OYSTER CHOWDER. This dish will be served up, this evening, at the Granite Saloon. The epicure can here be satisfied.

PCB. DOC. We are under continued obligations to Hon. Charles Sumner for Congressional documents, for which kindness and attention renewed thanks are tendered.

Poetry.

From the New York Evening Post.
The Old Chimney Place.

A stack of stones, a dingy wall,
O'er which the branches cling and creep,
A path on which my shadows fall,
A door step where long dock leaves sleep,
A broken rafter in the grass,
A sunken hewn stone, stained and cold,
Nought left but these, fair home, alas,
And the dear memories of old.

Around this hearth, this sacred place,
All humble household virtue knew,
The mother's love, the maid's grace,
The son's instincts deep and true.
Here first sweet words were lisped; here broke
Life's morning dream, and yet more dear,
The love that life's best impulse woke,
Grew warmer, gentler, year by year.

How cheerful, while the storm without Muffled the earth and jaded the night,
The ruddy glow gushed laughing out
On merry gods and faces bright;
How chinned the crackling, frenzied flame
With rosy mirth or thoughtful ease,
Or may be, syllabled the name
Of one rocked o'er the shivering seas.

What fairy scenes, what golden lands,
What pageants of romantic pride,
In the weird deep of glowing braves,
Saw the fair boy, the dreamy eyed,
Till musing here, his spirit drew
Strong inspiration, and his years,
By beauty's subtle nurture, knew
The paths of nature's inner spheres.

Here, as the swooning embers sent
A faint blush through the quiet gloom,
In the warm hush have loves been
The fragrance of their hearts' fresh bloom;
And veiling in soft-drooping eyes,
Her tremulous joy, here blushed the bride;
Here, o'er pale forms in funeral guise,
Farewells from broken hearts were sighed.

This spot the pilgrim, 'neath strange skies,
Saw in his wayward dream; here stood
Old friends with gladness in their eyes;
Here grew the beautiful and good—
Sweet friendship—faith serene and sure—
Manhood's strong purpose, warm and bold—
Courage to labor and endure,
And household feelings never cold.

Here, leaning in the twilight dim,
All round me seems a haunted air;
I hear the old familiar hymn,
My heart goes upward in the prayer
That made the night so full of peace;
Kind lips are on my brow—my ear
Hums with sweet sounds—they faintly cease
And night o'er all broods calm and clear.

Happy Days.

Come back—come back—thou youthful time
When joy and innocence were ours,
When life was in its vernal prime,
And redolent of sweets and flowers,
Come back'; and let us roam once more,
Free-hearted through life's pleasant ways;
And gather garlands as of yore,
Come back—come back—ye happy days!

Come back—come back—'twas pleasant then
To cherish faith in Love and Truth,
For nothing in dispraise of men
Had soured the temper of our youth;
Come back—and let us still believe
The gorgeous dream romance displays,
Nor trust the tale that men deceive.
Come back—come back—ye happy days?

Come back, oh freshness of the past!
When every face seemed fair and kind,
When sunward every eye was cast,
And all the shadows fell behind.
Come back! 'twill come, true hearts can turn
Their own December into May;
The secret it is ours to learn,
They come—they come—those happy days!

Anecdotes.

"How rapidly they build houses now," said Cornelius to an old acquaintance, as he pointed to a two-story house—they commenced that building only last week, and they are already putting in the lights."

"Yes, rejoined his friend, and next week they will put in the liver."

"Did you mean to settle this bill at all, sir, when you made it?" said the creditor, in a passionate manner.

"Humph! Keep cool my good friend," said the debtor, puffing a cigar with admirable sang froid. "I want a settlement?"

"To be sure I do, sir."

"Well my dear sir, I assure you I mean to settle, and when I meant to settle that was clearly a settle ment! Ha, ha, ha! Good morning, my friend; I'll see you again in the fall!"

It is customary, among business people, to square up their books, and take account of stock. A well known business man recently met a fellow merchant. "Ay, how are you?"

"O, busy, busy, very busy taking account of stock."

"Are you?" was the response; "well, it's a great bore, aint it? but, thank God, I'm saved the trouble—the Sheriff came and took account of all my stock last week!"

A Cincinnati editor, being asked "what is the news?" replied;

"Sir, I sell my news at ten cents a week! don't bother me."

"Father," said a roguish boy, "I hope you won't buy any more gunpowder tea for mother."

"Why not?"

"Because every time she drinks it, she blows me up!"

"Wife, I don't see for my part, how they send letters on them 'ere wives without tearin' 'em all to bits."

"La, ma they don't send the paper—they just send the writin' in a fluid state!"

"Pa," said a little fellow, "the other day, wasn't Job an editor?" "W'y, Samny?"

"Because the Bible says he had so much trou"ble, and was a man of sorrow all the days of his life."

QUINCY PATRIOT,

in the chimney corner to fret and worry and get up a little comfortable misery, will it change the heart of the deceiver? or tie the slanderous tongue? Be sure your right; do your whole duty as you know it, and then if deception or calumny assail—hold your head higher, walk with a firmer step, and greet all your trials with a universal "don't care." That's about the only way to get along comfortably, and keep two all important blessings in a state of preservation—xpect health and spirits.—Olive Branch.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

Granite and Marble Business.

Quincy Granite is becoming famous throughout the length and breadth of the country. Neither marble or free stone, or any other building material, can compare with it, in the qualities of strength, durability, beauty and grandeur. As the wealth of the country increases so will the demand for granite increase. Fortunately, for our town, the supply will prove equal to the demand for ages to come.

Our purpose at this time, however, is to call attention to C. R. & C. Mitchell, two young men engaged in the working of granite, and to their proposed enlargement of this business, by connecting themselves with Mr. M. P. McGrath, an artist of high merit, in what they term the Quincy Marble works.

The Mitchells are ever ready to furnish fronts for buildings, monuments, tomb fronts, and granite, in all its forms, whether for use or ornament. They have a quarry of the best granite; and are skilled in working it, as numerous monuments and other works of theirs attest, and especially a large granite obelisk now in their yard, near the South Quincy Depot. And they are industrious, faithful and worthy men.

Mrs. Messrs McGrath, Mitchell & Co., for that is the name of the firm, propose to engage solely in monumental work. Mr. McGrath is spoken of by the press as "a sculptor" and an "artist for whom there is a brilliant future"; as having sculptured an angel with such "delicate finish and expression, so like that which distinguishes the Greek Slave, that we without hesitation pronounce it superior to anything else of the kind we have seen in the Old or the New World."

"There is probably, says the Boston Museum, no more lovely spot in the Western Hemisphere than Mount Auburn, that famous Cemetery in which so much of the sculptural skill of Boston has been displayed. Among the most eminent of our carvers and designers for cemeteries, is Mr. P. McGrath. We have witnessed some remarkably beautiful specimens of his genius as a sculptor."

With such recommendations Mr. McGrath comes among us, and we trust he, and the company of which he is a member, will be generously patronized. Our readers, who contemplate rearing some memorial to departed loved ones, will do well to call at their establishment.

Quincy Point.

In a recent number of the Patriot, we spoke of the facilities of the Point for ship-building and for commercial operations. We learn that a large number of ship-builders, with their families, have already arrived; and that the keel of a clipper ship of 1800 tons will soon be laid. Many owners of houses at the Point, have parted with them, to meet the sudden and great demand for residences.

There is every reason to believe, that the present high rates of freight and demand for shipping of every kind will continue during the war in Europe, which will not be very brief. We hope, in the meanwhile, our friends at the Point, will reap a rich harvest from whatever enterprise they may undertake. They have all the requisites but that of a railroad connection with a large city, to become a thriving and wealthy commercial place. We confidently expect to see, at a no remote day, the Point connected with Boston by railroad, but also with the quarries on the western limits of the town.

Lady's Book for May. The ever prompt Godey's Lady's Book for May has been received. This number contains the usual one hundred pages, the reading matter being furnished by seventy-four contributors, and the engravings amount to fifty-one. It is indeed a perfect Spring Number—contains everything that a lady may desire to complete her Spring Toilet. The latest and most beautiful Fashions—Under-sleeves, Mantillas, Bonnets, Dresses and Diagrams, Night Dresses, Recipes, Working Patterns of Crochet, &c., Embroideries, &c. For Gentlemen, we have Farm Houses, New Revelations of an Old Country, Cottage Furniture, &c. For Juveniles, Drawing Copies, Watch Pockets and Slippers, and Good Reading for everybody.

This number will be furnished to any person by L. A. Gedey, Esq., of Philadelphia, the enterprising proprietor, upon the receipt of twenty-five cents.

Gill & Co., Agents, at Quincy Bookstore.

THE EPISCOPAL CHURCH. The Fair, which it is in contemplation to hold in aid of the Episcopal Church in this town, is certainly deserving of notice, and we hope a generous effort will be made to contribute to the welfare of this venerable religious society. A meeting of ladies for this commendable purpose is soon to take place, as will be observed by the notice in to-day's paper, which should be well attended.

SUSPENDED. The Cochituate Bank of Boston, suspended business a few days since, and the Supreme Court has placed its affairs into the hands of three gentlemen to make investigations. The Stockholders, by law, in their individual capacities, are liable for the payment and redemption of all bills.

DEATH OF HON. JOHN DAVIS. This eminent citizen died at his residence in Worcester, on Wednesday last, after a brief illness, at the age of sixty-seven years. He had been a member of both branches of Congress, and several years Governor of this State. He was a gentleman greatly beloved for his many virtues, and the State has sustained a great loss in his death.

THE WEATHER. The late storm was very severe in some parts, and extended generally through the country. It snowed in Washington City, stormed furiously in New York, and at Buffalo it was quite disastrous. Snow fell on an average to the depth of four or five inches, in all sections from which accounts have been received.

EXPLANATION. Our friend of the Dedham Gazette is informed, that we received a copy of his paper with the Proceedings of the Norfolk Agricultural Society marked, and supposing that it came from the Secretary was led to believe that he had furnished the same from his minutes for all the papers in the County. What say you of the Norfolk Democratic Depot. And they are industrious, faithful and worthy men.

APPOINTMENT. We learn that George White, Esq., has been appointed Attorney to the Quincy Mutual Loan Fund Association, vice John M. Gourgas, Esq., resigned.

FIVE CENTS SAVINGS BANK. We notice in the Legislative proceedings, that Rev. William P. Lunt, D. D., and others, of this town, have petitioned for an act of incorporation as a Five Cents Savings Institution in this place. The project is a good one, and we have no doubt of its success and usefulness. It is to be hoped that a charter will be obtained.

THE MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT. By referring to our advertising columns, it will be seen that the performance of the Cantata, entitled—The Flower Queen—which has been in preparation for some time past, is to take place on Thursday evening next. The author of the music (Mr. Root) we understand, is a teacher of music in several Young Ladies' Seminaries in New York, at which this was first performed—and it afforded so much gratification that it was repeated severally.

MAD DOGS. We learn from good authority, that several dogs in this town, have been affected during the present week; and in one instance, an individual at Quincy Point was bitten, but has exhibited no signs of hydrophobia. Should not immediate steps be taken to guard against this dreadful malady.

FOREIGN. War has been formally declared by England and France against Russia, and news of much interest may now be expected by each arrival. By the last accounts, none of the other Governments had decided to take part in the war, thus Russia alone will contend with England, France and Turkey combined. Immense preparations are being made by the several powers engaged.

AN INTERESTING BOOK. We have just received a copy of a work, entitled—"Narrative of the Imprisonment and Escape of Capt. Charles H. Brown from the Chilian convicts,"—but have had no time to read it. The seizure of the Bark Florida, Capt. Brown of this town, was well known to our citizens at the time; and this volume is a recital of all the facts connected with the affair. It is doubtless full of interest and will well repay a perusal.

Charles A. Cummings will call upon the citizens of this town, in a few days, for the purpose of selling them the work.

IMMENSE STOCK OF GOODS. Ladies, most decidedly there is a great advantage to the purchaser in being able to select an article from an immense variety of different prices, qualities, colors, &c. But when we can find in the same house this advantage, connected with an extensive and well deserved reputation for low prices, we should unhesitatingly give this place the preference.

F. A. Jones & Co., 1, 2 and 3 Tremont Row, Boston, combine these two, immense stock and very low prices.

See advertisement in another column of an Infant Private School. An excellent opportunity for young children during the spring and summer.

TAKE NOTICE. Correspondents must send their favors by Tuesday morning to insure insertion.

Advertisements should be sent to the office by Thursday evening.

For the Patriot.

Remarks of "Vasa" Examined.

MR. EDITOR:—In your paper of the 8th inst., there is a communication, over the signature of "Vasa," which requires some comment.

What motive a man could have in writing such an article is not for me to say; his object is stated plainly enough, and it is to excite the prejudices of the people of this town, against the Catholic portion of their fellow citizens.

Now, Mr. Editor, I always thought that it was the intention of the founders of this Republic, that no one should be persecuted for his religion: this was their principle, and it has continued to be the principle of this country since. Relying on the justice of America, Catholics have emigrated here, complied with the requirements of the law, and become American citizens; if such men as "Vasa" succeed in their foolish and wicked designs—if secret societies and mob law, overthrow Constitutional government, I, for one, would prefer to live somewhere else; it is easier to live under one tyrant than under a thousand, even though that tyrant was a Queen of England.

"Vasa," in stating his case, says—perhaps it may not be done very learnedly. In this, and in this alone, he is correct; he must learn a great deal, before he will be fit to speak or write on those subjects which he has tried to handle. Those stale calumnies are infinitely better told by Lord Shaftesbury and the Bishop of Exeter, and many much worse.

"Vasa" could copy from the ravings of Lord Roden, the head of the Irish orangemen.

When he tries to connect the "Nero of the North," with Leo X, he states what is contrary to the historical fact.

His statement with regard to Queen Mary is also incorrect.

He says nothing definite about James II, nor the history of France, so I cannot know what he means exactly.

If "Vasa" wishes to convince your readers of his accuracy, let him state his authority; the bare assertion of any man is seldom received as proof in these days, and when a man makes such statements as "Vasa," he is bound in honor to substantiate them.

MR. GREEN.—Will you gratify many readers by publishing the following simple, touching and beautiful lines: they have been prettily extensively copied by the newspapers, and attributed to a great variety of sources. They were written, a few years since, by Mr. Joshua D. Robinson, a young man of Newburyport, and appeared originally in the "Evening Union" of that city. J. C. R.

I am all alone in my chamber now,
And the midnight hour is near;
And the fagot's crack, and the clock's dull tick,
Are the only sounds I hear.
And over my soul in its sooth,
Sweet feelings of sadness glide,
For my heart and my eyes are full when I think
Of the little boy that died.

I went one night to my father's house—
Went home to the dear ones all—
And softly I opened the garden gate,
And softly the door of the hall.
My mother came out to meet her son—
She kissed me and then she sighed,
And her head fell on my neck, and she wept
For the little boy that died.

And when I gazed on his innocent face,
As still and cold he lay,
And thought what a lovely child he had been,
And how soon he must decay;
"Oh! death, thou lovest the beautiful,"
In the woe of my spirit I cried,
For sparkled the eyes, and the forehead was fair,
Of the little boy that died!

Again I will go to my father's house—
Go home to the dear ones all,
And sadly I'll open the garden gate,
And sadly the door of the hall.
I shall meet my mother, but never more
With her darling by her side;
But she'll kiss me and sigh, and weep again
For the little boy that died.

I shall miss him when the flowers come,
In the garden where he played;
I shall miss him more by the fire side,
When the flowers have all decayed.
I shall see his toys and his empty chair,
And the horse he used to ride;
And they will speak with a silent speech
Of the little boy that died.

I shall see his little sister again
With her playmates about the door,
And I'll watch the children in their sports,
As I never did before;
And if, in the group, I see a child
That's dimpled and laughing-eyed,
I'll look to see if it may not be
The little boy that died.

We shall all go home to our Father's house—
To our father's house in the skies,
Where the hopes of our souls shall have no blight,
And our love no broken ties.
We shall room on the banks of the river of peace,
And bathe in its blessed ride,
And one of the joys of our heaven shall be
The little boy that died.

And therefore, when I am sitting alone,
And the midnight hour is near,
When the fagot's crack and the clock's dull tick
Are the only sounds I hear,
Oh sweet o'er my soul, in its solitude,
Are the feelings of sadness that glide;
Though my heart and my eyes are full when I think
Of the little boy that died. J. D. R.

Auroras.

Two young ladies were once singing a duett in a concert room. A stranger who had heard better performances, turned to his neighbor, saying: "Does not the lady in white sing wretchedly?"

"Excuse me, sir," replied he; "I hardly feel at liberty to express my sentiments, being not impartial in the case; it is my sister."

"I beg your pardon, sir," answered the stranger in much confusion; "I mean the lady in blue."

"You are perfectly there," replied the neighbor, "I have often told her so myself; it is my wife!"—Dedham Democrat.

There was once an old man who believed that 'twas he, would be. He lived in Missouri, and was once going out through a region infested at that time by very savage Indians. He always took his gun with him, but this time he found that some of the family had taken it out. As he would not go out without it, his friends tantalized him, saying there was no danger of the Indians—that he would not die till his time anyhow. "Yes," said the old fellow, "but suppose I was to meet an Indian and his time was come, it would not do to have my gun!"

A negro in Boston, had a severe attack of rheumatism, which finally settled in his foot. He bathed it, and rubbed it, and swarthy it, but all to no purpose. Finally, tearing away the bandages, he stuck it out, and shaking his fist at it, exclaimed:

"Ache away, then old fellow, ache away; I shant no' duff more for ye—die chile can stan' it as long as you can, so ache away."

A young miss accepted the offer of a young man to gallant her home, and afterward, fearing that jokes might be cracked at her expense, should the fact become public, dismissed him when about half way home, enjoining secrecy. "Don't be afraid," said he, "of my saying any thing about it, for I feel as much ashamed of it as you do?"

"Mr. mayn't I lick some of that 'ere molasses?" asked a nice lad, just from the 'rural districts' of a merchant, who was superintending the landing of a cargo of molasses.

"Yes, lick and be darned," replied the owner abruptly.

"I won't now," returned the youth, "kos you swore."

"Mother, I heard Sissy swear."
"What did she say?"
"Why, she said she wan't going to wear her 'darned' stocking to church."

QUINCY PATRIOT,

again. Ploughing and harrest-time give him something to do for a little while, and, when these are over, he has no notion how to kill the day. He has but three books, the Bible, Psalm-Book and Almanac. But he knows the almanac by heart, and can't sing psalms all day; so he takes his foot in his hand again, and smokes twelve more pipes, and then he eats and sleeps, and smokes and spits, again. And then—for one must have a little variety—he sharpens a pen-knife on the sole of his shoe, and cuts with it little bits of wood—an occupation with which he can amuse himself for hours. The female of this intelligent and interesting animal of course passes her time in a more pleasant and lively manner, and—by twelve hours of sleep and eleven of sitting on a chair—she encloses so much the tendency to plumpness, that she becomes at last a mere pile of flesh, and is usually carried off by dropsy."—Home Journal

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, April 29th, 1854.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

THE LEGISLATURE. This body has voted to adjourn to-day. It has been a working body, and has had to pass upon the most important measures that could come before it. The call for the late Constitutional Convention and the sixty thousand votes given in favor of Constitutional reform, at the last election, demonstrated the necessity for organic change so unmistakably that the opponents of the new Constitution have been compelled to offer a substitute for it.

A resolution to distract the Counties into representative districts has passed both Houses by the requisite majority of two thirds.

A resolution against expending money for sectarian or denominational schools also, is offered as a Constitutional amendment.

The bill to indemnify the proprietors of the Ursuline Convent received only twenty votes, against one hundred and fifty votes in the last legislature.

The resolution to appropriate money for the erection of a permanent memorial to Daniel Webster has received the approval of both Houses. An amendment in favor of like testimonial to John and Samuel Adams was voted down.

THE FLOWER QUEEN. This entertainment on Thursday evening, was of the most brilliant and interesting character. We have seldom if ever seen so many fair flowers gathered together—and we think with the re-cluse, that it was hard to choose—each and every one of the young ladies personated their parts well. The Duet, "wherefore does thou enchant me," by Miss C. E. Bartlett, as the Rose, and Mr. G. Lincoln, Jr., as the Nightingale, was much admired. The Sunflower, by Miss S. A. Stevenson was of the highest order. In short, the whole passed off brilliantly, reflecting great credit on Mr. Felt, and all others connected with it.

ALL DROWNED ON BOARD. It is ascertained that the ship Powhatan, which was lost near Egg Harbor, (N. J.) left Havre with three hundred and eleven passengers, but no cargo. The total number of bodies picked up is one hundred and thirty. Not one person was saved, although within speaking distance of the beach, on account of the breakers.

A MAMMOTH STEAMBOAT. Steamer Metropolis, built for the New York and Fall River line, has been launched. She is three hundred and fifty feet long, forty-five feet beam, fifteen feet hold, and twenty-three hundred tons burthen.

RESIGNATION. F. B. Crowninshield, Esq., has resigned the presidency of the Old Colony Railroad Company, having been elected Treasurer of the Merrimack Manufacturing Company.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE. We have missed on our table, for two or three numbers, this valuable periodical. We prize it above all others, and shall esteem it a great loss not to receive it in future. What Littlell does not publish in his weekly of the stately Reviews is hardly worth reading.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS. The April term for Norfolk County is now in session at Dedham, Judge Hoar presiding. Judge Briggs was expected to hold Court this term but sickness prevented. Joseph T. French, Patrick O'Leary and Capt. Peter Brackett, of this town, were indicted for selling spirituous liquors.

THE COCHITUATE BANK, in State Street Boston, has gone the way of all misdirected institutions, "caved in." How many more of them will find "Jordan a hard road to travel" remains to be proved. We hope for the sake of the poor bill holders that no more will prove bad, but that like Savil & Co.'s Furniture business they may all prove good. It is astonishing what an amount of furniture the Savil & Bass sell. It proves to our mind three things—that they sell low—that they have first rate articles,—and that Goodnow's Building is situated in just the right place for trade.

Congressional Doings. Mr. Benten has made a crushing speech against the Nebraska Bill. That iniquitous scheme, a sort of mad dog, seems to be dead. Mr. Benten was denied the privilege frequently granted to members of speaking more than one hour. Through the courtesy and tact of John Wentworth, Col. Benten was enabled to finish his remarks. It is no marvel that the friends of the Nebraska bill were desirous of stopping his mouth—for his words to them were like the mandrakes' groans—killing. Another reason, probably was, that he was the oldest member of the House, the most honored, and the last of Gen. Jackson's Marshals. Jacksonian Democracy is at a discount. The age of calculators, economists and sophisters has come.

Gadsden's Treaty has passed. The power of Santa Anna at Washington is greater than Junius' was at Rome in the days of her corruption. The South have acquired territory for building a rail-road to the Pacific by this treaty. Santa Anna will get ten million dollars to aid him at his coronation as Emperor of Mexico. That is certainly very democratic.

VENIA.
For the Patriot.
Corporate Punishment.

It is not about time for corporal punishment to be banished from our schools? Is it not about time for School Committees to employ teachers who can control their own tempers and passions? Is it right, and proper for teachers, whether males or females, to strike children over their heads—oftentimes prostrating them upon the floor? Is it not time to begin to rule by love rather than fear and violence? We believe children can be governed without the passions. We believe it is time to hire Christian teachers—teachers who can control their tempers. We think that a teacher who strikes a child on the head does it in temper, and does a brutal act—does act that is outrageous to all Christian principles.

VENIA.
For the Patriot.

With a rich assortment of ribbons, flowers and materials, the proprietors are confident of securing the very best patronage of the ladies of Boston and vicinity. J. L. Crosby and J. W. Cover, proprietors, White's Bonnet Rooms, 93 and 99 Hanover street—Boston Olive Branch.

SPIRIT MANIFESTATIONS EXAMINED. What comes here? Is it so, that some one has at last taken it upon himself to expose the "Spirit Rappers?" Yes, we make the bold assertion that the whole subject has been exposed in such a manner as to be at once understood by the most illiterate. It is, beyond a doubt, the very thing which the public mind is anxiously waiting for. The author of this volume has done his duty; he has gone into the hidden mysteries of the human frame, the effect which mind upon matter has over the many actions of the animal economy. The application of the knowledge which medical men have of the great moving power, and director of action—the brain—has enabled the author to fully expose every point relating to "spiritualism." The tipping of tables, the rappings, the writing mediums—in short, everything has been explained, and turns out to be one of the most simple things in nature. Who would not pay three times the price of the book, to have everything so beautifully laid open to the human understanding? It is all now robbed of its "spirit-like" appearance, and made to appear as plain as the brightness of noon day. The author, instead of calling the whole affair a "humbug," and then stopping, goes on to show how easily any individual might be led into a belief in the existence of something more than human in the rappings: but before he finishes the subject, he shows it to be the greatest piece of imposition ever palmed off on an enlightened people. We think that the work may be read by every person in the land, and if so, down goes the "rapping's" stock at once. This is a work worthy the attention of the entire community. Let no one longer plead ignorance on the subject of Spiritualism, but get this book, and he will find everything "shown up" in its proper light.

DeWitt & Davenport, 160 and 162 Nassau Street, New York City, are the publishers, to whom orders should be addressed.

A LUXURY. Green peas appeared plentifully in the Boston markets on Saturday last. We feasted liberally on Peas and Asparagus during a visit this week to New York City.

THE BANK FAILURE. As regards the Cochituate Bank, (says the Boston Post) those continue, to be widely different opinions. But acarful weighing of all the evidence we can gather, indicates that, at the worst, the assets will be sufficient to pay the bills and deposits, and return forty to sixty per cent to the stockholders.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING. The dwelling house of Thomas Newcomb, in this town, was struck during the severe tempest last Wednesday evening—the fluid passing down the chimney and throwing off the stove covers. The family escaped without injury.

FIREMEN KILLED. At a fire in New York City, last Wednesday night, eleven firemen were killed and as many more seriously injured, by the falling of the walls.

ANNUAL MEETING. The Tiger Engine Company are to have a good time at their annual meeting, next Monday evening, at half past seven o'clock, when Clam and Oyster Chowders will be served up, and Fine Members are requested to be promptly on hand.

OYSTER CHOWDER. This much admired luxury will be "served up" to customers this evening, at the Granite Saloon.

For the Patriot.

Congressional Doings. Mr. Benten has made a crushing speech against the Nebraska Bill. That iniquitous scheme, a sort of mad dog, seems to be dead.

We are told, we know nothing of them—all we want to know is that when a man goes to the ballot box, and does not vote openly; or when in a community like ours, in an association founded on the most liberal laws, a man is conversant on all topics but that which is of the most vitality. He is in favor of a law without a why or wherefore, because he is bound to do so by a secret society.

Then, I say without equivocation, he is a know nothing, he dares not show his colors or is not fit to stand on American soil.

George Gillespie, convicted at Troy, (N. Y.) and sentenced to the State Prison for ten years for burglary, is but seventeen years old, and has two brothers, aged twenty-three and twenty years, in the State Prison, and another brother, aged fifteen years, waiting trial for daring burglaries.

That there is on the very face of this secret society something wrong, is what every sensible man must admit; even allow the cause to be just in the abstract, it is cowardly.

We are told, we know nothing of them—all we want to know is that when a man goes to the ballot box, and does not vote openly; or when in a community like ours, in an association founded on the most liberal laws, a man is conversant on all topics but that which is of the most vitality. He is in favor of a law without a why or wherefore, because he is bound to do so by a secret society.

Gov. Stevens, of Washington Territory, has written a letter to a merchant in New Bedford, recommending the new territory as the best place on earth for the location of the whaling business.

The Great Southern Convention, like those which have preceded it has adjourned after passing a string of resolutions.

Mr. Benten has made a crushing speech against the Nebraska Bill. That iniquitous scheme, a sort of mad dog, seems to be dead.

Mr. Benten was denied the privilege frequently granted to members of speaking more than one hour. Through the courtesy and tact of John Wentworth, Col. Benten was enabled to finish his remarks. It is no marvel that the friends of the Nebraska bill were desirous of stopping his mouth—for his words to them were like the mandrakes' groans—killing.

Another reason, probably was, that he was the oldest member of the House, the most honored, and the last of Gen. Jackson's Marshals. Jacksonian Democracy is at a discount.

SATURDAY, APRIL 29.

Special Notices.

TO THE LADIES OF QUINCY. There will be a meeting of the Ladies at the residence of Ezra Walker, Esq., (Sea Street,) THIS AFTERNOON, (April 29th,) at two o'clock, for the purpose of choosing Officers and Committees for the Fair which is in contemplation, for the benefit of the Episcopal Church of this town.

It is hoped that all who are desirous of lending their aid, will be present at the meeting.

A punctual attendance is earnestly desired. Per order of the Foreman.

SETH CRANE, Clerk.

Quincy, April 29. 1w

In writing this we know it will seem foolish to those who are willing to abide by the laws of the United States at all hazards, which gives the greatest liberty and beckons to the oppressed of all countries, yet I do it because there are seemingly respectable people who countenance such actions, but who refrain from selfish motives from joining such a society.

We know that the leaders are corrupt, and the Society is based on no solid foundation, and must meet an early doom. Yet I do it because its injurious effects have been felt already in our community, in our own local institutions. I am well aware that the mottoes that actuate me in writing this will be called a selfish one. That I shall be called a liar! a traitor! and the perverted history of mankind of barbarous ages—ages that those who use such language are only fit to live in—will be brought to bear to controvert and make dark, facts! which none but the most bigoted and depraved of society, under the existing advance state of civilization, must sooner or later admit.

With these remarks and appealing to the sense of justice, and candid sober judgment of your readers, I close.

EXCELSIOR.

QUINCY READING ROOM. The subscribers to the Quincy Reading-Room are hereby informed—that the Room over Mr. Gill's Bookstore has been fitted up for their accommodation, and is now opened and ready for use.

The following papers have been procured: Daily Advertiser, Post, Commonwealth, Courier, Atlas, Evening Journal, Transcript, Traveller, Pilot, of Boston; the Courier and Enquirer, Evening Post, Herald, Tribune, Home Journal, and Christian Inquirer of New York; the United States Gazette, of Philadelphia; the Union, National Intelligencer, and National Era of Washington; the Maine Farmer; and the Quincy Patriot.

Additional subscribers are needed that we may increase our list of papers. The terms are $50 per annum, payable in advance. All who may feel disposed to lend their aid to the support of such a Reading-Room, the purpose of which is to diffuse intelligence, without regard to political or sectarian distinctions, are invited to call upon the Treasurer, Mr. Henry Barker, and subscribe for the current year.

By order of the Executive Committee.

Death.

In this town, on the 23d inst., Oliva E., daughter of Mr. Alfred and Mrs. Mary N. Farnald, aged 6 months.

Twenty-one German country girls, from fourteen to seventeen years old, were taken on board a steamer on the Rhine, which they were descending in company with three men, who were taking them to New York, to be placed in houses of ill-fame.

I do it with a sincere hope that while I do no injury to any one, that I shall be the medium of saving many young men from being dupes of designing and unprincipled men.

I am no traitor—no breaker of covenants—and no agitator for temporary political purposes.

The European difficulties has made the demand for Colt's Pistols large. The British Government have already ordered five thousand for the Baltic fleet, and declare that more will be wanted.

Poetry.

Without and Within.

My coachman in the moonlight, there,
Looks through the sidelong of the door;
I hear him with his brethren swear,
As I could do,—but only more.

Flattening his nose against the pane
He envies me my brilliant lot,
And blows his aching fits in vain,
And wishes me a place more hot.

He sees me to the supper go,
A silent wonder by my side
Bare arms, bare shoulders and a row
Of bounces for the door too wide.

He thinks, how happy is my arm
'Neath its white-gloved and jewelled load,
And wishes me some dreadful harm,
Hearing the merry corps explode.

Meanwhile I only curse the bore
Of hunting still the same old coon,
And envy him, outside the door,
In golden quiet of the moon.

The winter wind is not so cold
As the bright smiles she sees me win,
Nor our host's oldest wine so old
As our poor gabble—watery—thin.

I envy him the angry prance
By which his freezing feet be warms,
And drag my lady's chains and dance
The galley slave of dreary forms.

O? could he have my share of dia
And his quiet!—past a doubt Twould still be one man bored within,
And just another bored without.
—Putnam's Monthly.

Hollow.

I stood beneath a hollow tree—
The blast it hollow blew—
I thought upon the hollow world,
And all its hollow crew;
Ambition and its hollow schemes,
The hollow hopes we follow,
Imagination's hollow dreams,
All hollow, hollow, hollow!

A crown it is a hollow thing,
And hollow heads oft wear it;
The hollow title of a King,
What hollow hearts oft bear it!
No hollow wiles, or honeyed smiles
Of ladies fair, I follow;
For beauty sweet still hides deceit,
Tis hollow, hollow, hollow!

The hollow leader but betrays
The hollow dupes who heed him;
The hollow critic vends his praise
To hollow fools who feed him;
The hollow friend who takes your hand
Is but a summer swallow;
What's ear like this tree?
All hollow, hollow, hollow!

Moonlight.

The silver moon into that winding dell,
With slanted glam alwaist the forest tops,
Temper'd like golden evening, feebly fell;
A green and glowing light, like that which
From folded ilies in which glow-worms dwell,
When earth over her face night's mantle
Wraps;
Between the sever'd mountain's lay on high
Over the stream, a narrow rift of sky.

Anecdotes.

A raw down-caster was hired by a cabinet maker and, like a true Yankee, managed to pass for more than he was worth. One day, the proprietor showed him a very pretty mahogany veneered bureau, and told him to "smooth it off," as the purchaser would call for it, in the course of the morning. Shortly after Johnny Raw made his appearance in the workshop.

"Well, John, have you made that bureau shine well?"

"Well, I guess it don't look bad; but 'twas a tarnal job, though. I couldn't get at it any other way, and I took the fore-plane and peeled the darned bark off on't."

A gentleman at a public table, who had exercised his jaws for some fifteen minutes upon a single morsel of steak, turned to his neighbor and said,

"What a pity to kill this animal!"

"Why?" responded his friend.

"Because," said the other, "it would have made such a good working critter!"

"Father, I see a man laying drunk down at the market-house."

"You shouldn't say laying, my son—he's lay!"

"But I've seen men lay too."

"Oh no, my son."

"Yes, but I have seen 'em lay brick!"

"Go and split your kindling—I can't talk to you now."

A reverend gentleman being invited by a young friend to take a private drink, agreed to dispose of a lemonade. By some mistake he drank his friend's whiskey punch, and the young man informed him that he had taken the wrong horn. The minister smiled affably, and remarked:—"Ah! my young friend, the horn of the ungodly shall be put down."—Psalm xix. 19.

"Julius why didn't you oblong your stay at the Springs?"

"Kase, Mr. Snow, dey charge too much."

"Howo, Julius?"

Wd. de landlord charged dis colored individual wid stealing de spoons.

A minister's wife was asked the place of her nativity, replied—

"I am so unfortunate as not to have any native place; I was the daughter of a circuit minister."

When a certain minister "down East," once preached, a bystander observed—

"He did better last year."

"He did not preach at all, last year," replied another.

"The very thing I meant," answered he.

QUINCY PATRIOT,

people in reference to our undertaking. All seem to manifest the most earnest interest in its success, and all are anxious for an opportunity to aid us in its popularization. We may confidently depend, therefore, upon a very extensive selection of gems of Art from private and domestic sources, worth in the aggregate several hundred thousand dollars, and in point of intrinsic merit approached by no similar exhibition upon this continent.

The amplest facilities will be extended to Exhibitors, among which will be the important right to affix the price to any article of which they may wish to dispose, to direct Visitors where duplicates may be obtained, and remove their contributions, at any time, by giving only one week's notice in advance.

The Machinery Department will be much fuller and more effective than hitherto. There will be operating specimens of nearly every great invention, and in some instances the entire process of manufacturing various fabrics will be exhibited.

As Steam Power and space will be gratuitously furnished for the most interesting processes in Art and Industry, and as Inventors and Exhibitors will be permitted, under certain judicious regulations, to run the machinery for their own benefit, this branch of the Exhibition is expected to become especially interesting.

Allow me to recommend, in this connection, that the Board of Directors announce, at an early day, its determination to award Medals and other marks of merit to those who may be, by competent judges, pronounced worthy of the distinction. The Medals and Diplomas awarded for 1853, will be ready for delivery in the beginning of May.

Under the new organization every article will be classified to facilitate inspection. Those of the same kind, as far as practicable, will all be grouped together, no matter from what quarter of the world contributed. The visitor may thus at a single glance, institute a just comparison between the different developments of taste and skill in different countries. A novel and useful plan of rearrangement has been decided upon that will nearly double the space previously appropriated to Exhibitors throughout the entire building. We need not hesitate to publish, therefore, our ability to find room for anything pleasing or useful that may be entrusted to us, and to invite every man and woman in the world to originate something for this concentration of the "Industry of all Nations," that may redound to their credit and benefit our common humanity.

Among the accommodations arranged for visitors to the Crystal Palace, will be found two Telegraph Offices, Letter Boxes for the Mails, Express Boxes, a Police Station, an Office for Property Lost and Found, and two spacious Refreshment Saloons, where everything will be provided of unexceptionable quality at unexceptionable prices.

Arrangements have been completed with some, and are in progress with other Steamboat and Railroad Companies connecting this City with various portions of the Union, agreeably to which visitors will be conveyed to the Crystal Palace from the remotest spot, at greatly reduced rates of travel. Nothing else shall remain undone, on my part, to conduct this magnificent enterprise with that liberality which is due to the public, and that energy and economy which are due to the interests of the Association.

To conclude, I cannot help reiterating my firm impression, that the Crystal Palace has before it a brilliant and enviable future. All litigation has ceased. Every suit against either the Directors or the Shareholders, has been withdrawn, as untenable, or as now superfluous. The recent extension of the Charter by the Legislature, with power to increase our capital to a million of dollars, has opened to our choice, should it ever be expedient to avail ourselves of it, the most unlimited field of public usefulness. It has given our philanthropic ambition room to work as events may dictate, for the best interests of production both at home and abroad. It has inspired us with a solid confidence in the manifold resources of our gigantic enterprise. It has taught us to believe that, when the Crystal Palace shall have been re-opened on the 4th of May with a grand Coronation of Labor and Art, and as a stable and homogeneous Institution for the People, it will present itself in a form that must command the sympathy of Skill and Industry throughout the world, and deserve as well, receive, a success at once gratifying to our patriotism, and consoling to our perseverance.

I have the honor to be, Gentlemen,

Very respectfully, Yours &c.,

P. T. BARNUM,
President of the Association for the "Exhibition of the Industry of all Nations."

An Emigration Convention is to meet at Worcester, in this State, on the 10th inst., for the purpose of settling Nebraska and Kansas territories with freedom-loving farmers, mechanics, laborers, etc.

The 26th of April was appointed to be observed as a national fast day throughout Great Britain and her colonies, with reference to the war.

The FLOWER QUEEN. This performance will be seen by a notice in another column, will be repeated on Wednesday evening next. Let one and all attend, as this will be if possible better than the last.

Always look out for No. 1. It is the only figure that will enable you to eat a figure. This principle refers also to getting a rich wife, a good dinner, and a reasonable hat. Where's our say-het?—Ex. Pa.

Take care, however, of your hats, as they are not to be worn in the theater, unless you are to be seen in the audience.

The citizens of Fall River have voted to accept the city charter recently granted by the Legislature. The Commonwealth now contains thirteen cities, and as the law requires that a town shall have a population of twelve thousand to entitle it to a charter, a city in Massachusetts is something of a place.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, May 6th, 1854.

BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

THE ACQUITTAL. Matthew F. Ward, on trial for the murder of Professor Butler, has been acquitted. Butler was a school-master from the North, poor and dependent on his labor for living. Ward belonged to a high and wealthy family.

Ward's child was whipped by the schoolmaster, as he undoubtedly deserved to be. For this Ward and his brother proceeded to the school-room, armed with bowie knives and pistols, and after provoking Butler by the most villainous abuse, and applying to him the foulest epithets, in the presence of the pupils of the school, on the least movement of Butler to a attitude of self-defense, Ward shot him. Ward was tried for murder and acquitted. Money, and unprincipled lawyers, and unscrupulous jurors, were too powerful for law or justice.

ADJOURNMENT OF THE LEGISLATURE. The General Court of this State adjourned on Saturday last, after a session of nearly seventeen weeks. The Boston Journal enumerates the important acts of the session as follows:

An act loaning the credit of the State to the amount of two million dollars in aid of the Hoosac Tunnel; changing the mode of electing members of Congress, making a plurality elect on the first trial instead of the second, as heretofore; establishing the city of Fall River; providing for the annexation of Charlestown to Boston subject to the ratification of the people of the two cities; establishing tolls on Charles River and Warren bridges; appropriating one thousand dollars in aid of the erection of a monument at Philadelphia in commemoration of the declaration of independence; to apportion and assess a tax of three hundred thousand dollars, and to authorize the business of loan and fund associations.

And, says the Journal:-

"Resolves have been passed, protesting against the passage of the Nebraskabill, and in favor of cheap postage. And Resolves have been initiated providing for the amendment of the constitution by districting the State for the choice of Senators and Representatives; prohibiting the appropriation of any portion of the school fund for the support of sectarian schools; making plurality elect in all cases; changing the day of election so as to make it conform to the day of Presidential election, viz., on Tuesday after the first Monday in November; making the councillors elective in single districts, and making the Attorney General, Secretary and Treasurer, Sheriffs, Registers of Probate, Clerks of Courts and District Attorneys, elective by the people."

NIAGARA ENGINE. At the annual meeting of this company, the following gentlemen were elected Officers for the ensuing year:-

Foreman—Washington M. French.
First Assistant—Seth Crane.
Second Assistant—Charles E. French.

Clerk—Benjamin F. Merservey.
Standing Committee—John Hall, Jr., John B. Bass, Adams Whitney.

Leading Hosemen—Foreman, Charles E. French; John Hall, Jr., Adams Whitney, Isaac Bass, Francis W. French, O. T. Crane.

Suction Hosemen—Foreman, Charles White; Benjamin F. Page, Charles Pope, Charles H. Pray, Harvey French, Charles H. Kimball.

CHOWDER. To-night, at the Granite Saloon, there will be prepared an excellent clam chowder, to which admirers of this far-famed New England luxury are invited to be on hand in season.

REAL ESTATE SALE ADJOURNED. On account of the unpleasant state of the weather, the sale of the Real Estate of John Mullin, in the west part of this town, has been adjourned, as will be noticed by the advertisement in to-day's paper. This property is favorably situated, and presents to purchasers a good opportunity to secure land in a thriving section of the town. As the owner leaves for the West, the sale will be without reserve to the highest bidder.

COUNTY TREASURER. By a statement of the votes given at the late election for Treasurer of Norfolk County, as published in the Dedham Gazette, it appears that George Ellis, Esq., has been re-elected, having received 2224 votes to 168 scattering.

The 26th of April was appointed to be observed as a national fast day throughout Great Britain and her colonies, with reference to the war.

The FLOWER QUEEN. This performance will be seen by a notice in another column, will be repeated on Wednesday evening next. Let one and all attend, as this will be if possible better than the last.

Poetry.

Robin's Come.

From the elm-tree's topmost bough,
Hark ! the Robin's early song !
Telling one and all that now
Merry Spring-time hastens along.
Welcome tidings thou dost bring,
Little harbinger of Spring.
Robin's come !

Of the Winter we are weary,
Wearry of its frost and snow,
Longing for the sunshine cheer,
And the brooklet's gurgling flow ;
Gladly then we hear thee sing
The reveille of the Spring.
Robin's come !

Ring it out o'er hill and plain,
Through the garden's lonely bowers,
Till the green leaves dance again,
Till the air is sweet with flowers !
Wake the cowslips by the rill,
Wake the yellow Daffodil !

Robin's come !

Then, as thou wert wont of yore,
Build thy nest and rear thy young,
Close beside our cottage door,
In the winding boughs among.
Hurt or harm thou need'st not fear,
Nothing rude shall venture near.
Robin's come !

Swinging still o'er yonder lane,
Robin a-swers merrily !
Ravished by the sweet refrain,
Alice clasps her hands with glee,
Calling from the open door,
With her soft voice, o'er and o'er,
Robin's come !

Father Land and Mother Tongue.

Our Father land ! and world'st thou know,
Why we should call it Father land ?
It is, that Adam here below
Was made of earth by Nature's hand ;
And he, our father, made of earth,
Hath peopled earth on every hand,
And we, in memory of his birth,
Do call our country " Father land."

At first in Eden's bower they say,
No sound of speech had Adam caught,
But whistled like a bird all day—
And then he turned from thought of thought :
But Nature, with resolute laws,
Made Adam soon surpass the birds,
She gave him lovely Eve—because
If he'd a wife—they must have words.

And so, the native land I hold,
By male descent is proudly mine ;
Thy language, as the talk hath told,
Was given in the female line ;
And thus, we see, on either hand,
We name our blessings whence they've sprung,
We call our country Father land,
We call our language Mother tongue.

Weep for Those.

*Ch. weep for those who careless go
Adown the stream of vice and woe,
Who will not heed wist-who's voice,
Which says, "make now my ways thy choice."

Oh, weep for those who fondly dream,
That joy is found on "pleasure's" stream ;
And who, regardless of their fate,
Will still sail on until too late !

Oh, weep for those who cross life's sea,
Not dream of dark Eternity !
Oh, weep for those—they need our tears—
The thoughtless ones, who nothing fears.

Anecdotes.

"I never was so beat in all my born days!" said old Polyglot, with real emotion. "That one of my boys should come to this! Josh, Josh," he groaned with anguish, "why didn't you drink modrit?"

"Don't you say a word, old man," said Joshua, through his mad set teeth. "You learn't me to drink. It's all your doing."

"No, Josh, cried Jared, weeping, "taint all my doing. I allstid'd ye 'twant no harm to drink—a little whiskey regular every day 'ad do you good that 'ud only use it in the right way—says I, time and again—says I, Joshi, drink modrit. That's respective. If you go to being a drunkard, says I, you're no son of mine. Yes, Joshi, says I drink modrit, and, twill do you good."

A Persian merchant complaining heavily of some unjust sentence was told by the Judge to go to the Cadi.

"But the Cadi is your uncle!" urged the plaintiff.

"Then you can go to the grand Vizier."

"But his Secretary is your cousin!"

"Then you may go to the Sultan!"

"Well, then you may go to the devil!"

"Ah, that is a still closer family connection!" said the merchant, as he left the court in despair.

Husband, do you believe in special judgments or Providence upon individuals in this life?"

"Yes, my dear."

"Do you indeed? Did one of the judgments ever happen to you?"

"Yes, my love?"

"When was it husband?"

"When I married you, my dear."

A man who marries a rich wife must expect occasionally to have it flung in his teeth.

A gentleman who had the misfortune to marry a fortune was once exhibiting the fine points of his horse to a friend.

"My horse, if you please," said the horse,

"my money bought that horse."

"Yes, madam," replied the husband, bowing,

"and your money bought me."

"Mike, are you into them sweetmeats again?"

"No, marm; them sweetmeats is into me."

"Out of darkness cometh light," as the printer's devil said when he looked into the ink pot.

"Are you a christian Indian?" asked a gentleman of one of the Catawbas tribe.

"No," was the reply—"I whiskey Indian."

QUINCY PATRIOT,

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, May 13th, 1854.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

Town Meeting.

The meeting of the citizens on Wednesday afternoon last, was organized by the election of George Marsh, Esq., Moderator.

On motion of Capt. Cummings, to reconsider the vote of the Town at a previous meeting, whereby it was voted that the Selectmen should take or purchase a certain lot of land in the West District for a school-house, an excited debate arose. Capt. Cummings, Capt. Lewis Bass, Joseph W. Robertson, Esq., and Mr. Benjamin Bass, spoke in favor of reconsideration; Edwin W. Marsh, Edmund Marsh, Gideon F. Thayer, Esq., Hon. C. F. Adams, James White and George H. Locke, spoke against the motion to reconsider. Mr. Edwin W. Marsh moved the previous question, which was sustained, and on the main question there were two or three votes in the affirmative and about as many hundred in the negative.

There was one reason urged for changing the locality of the School House which ought itself, in our opinion, to have induced every voter to vote against it—that was that if the Town should select another locality farther North it would become necessary to form a new District, taking part from the West and part from the South Districts. School Districts of few inhabitants are the great evil in our school system, against which Horace Mann and Barnes Sears have for many years been endeavoring to remove.

Quick Matrimonial Alliance.

A marriage recently took place in South Weymouth, which the correspondent of the Boston Herald graphically describes in his usual easy and peculiar style:

"A wealthy pork merchant, who formerly occupied a stall in Quincy Market, in Boston, but now retired from business, feeling somewhat tired of the blessedness which attends bachelordom, and desirous of meeting with some fair and virtuous dame, to whom he could offer his heart and fortune, determined to make an effort to change his lonely condition. While ruminating over the matter, and thinking how he could best succeed in his wishes, a friend called upon him, and he, desiring the visit an opportune one, forthwith solicited the friend's assistance in the matter. Now this friend happened to be the very man whose services could afford him the desired introduction to a proper partner in the matrimonial line, and it seemed as if he had been expressly to help him to the fruition of his hopes. After giving the merchant a full description of the lady, and satisfying him that she was an eligible match, he became so impatient to see her, that the friend proceeded with him to the residence of the lady in South Weymouth. Arriving at the house where dwelt the lady, all unconscious of the fortune that was ready to fall into her arms, the friend entered first to procure the way for the merchant, who waited outside, swayed by hope and fear.

The friend soon finding that the lady (a widow) would listen to honorable proposals from the merchant, went out and bade him enter and plead his own case. This he did without any further loss of time, and the result of the interview was, the wealthy merchant obtaining the consent of the lovely widow to become his honored wife, as soon as the preliminaries could be arranged. To bring the story to a close, on Tuesday last, the following announcement appeared, which is the sequel of the matter:—

Married, in South Weymouth, Mr. Thomas Hill of Boston, to Mrs. Eliza Loud of South Weymouth."

The gentleman who acted for the parties was Mr. C. S. Howe, an express man; and we trust good success may attend him in all his enterprises, as he certainly deserves it.

BAVARIAN ALE. At the late term of the Court of Common Pleas, at Dedham, Joseph T. French of this town, was indicted as a common seller of intoxicating liquor, and for a single sale. The government testimony proved a single sale of gin and a great many sales of ale. A close examination, says the Boston Post, disclosed the fact that it was Bavarian ale. After the evidence was all in, and the case had been argued on both sides, the counsel for the defence moved the Court to instruct the jury that, if they were satisfied it was Bavarian ale which was sold, and no other,—and if they did not know whether Bavarian ale was intoxicating or not,—or if they were entirely ignorant of its nature and effects,—they must presume that it was not intoxicating liquor, and find for the defendant. The Court did so, and the jury, in about an hour, returned a verdict of not guilty on the first count, but guilty on the single sale. The defendant was fined ten dollars and costs.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE. The May number of this excellent monthly publication has been received, which closes the fourth year and completes the eighth volume. The temporary obstacles placed in the way of its progress by the late destructive fire have now been removed, and the Magazine appears in its usual beautiful typographical style, liberally embellished with finely executed engravings, and its pages replete with reading matter of interest and value.

THE FROST AND THE FRUIT. The editor of the Worcester (Mass.) Spy, who is an experienced horticulturist, thinks that generally the pears and cherries escaped serious injury by the late frost. The peach buds which were open, and the apricot blossoms, he thinks, were so much injured, as to promise but little fruit. The new quince, May fruit, is also injured, and the peach blossoms are not yet open. The pears and cherries have suffered less than the peaches and apricots.

WATCHES AND JEWELRY, ETC. As will be noticed by advertisements in to-day's paper, B. F. Meservey has made additions to his already well selected stock of rich and beautiful watches, jewelry, fancy articles, etc. Having a neat and convenient store, in a central and conspicuous location, with a new and choice selection of most beautiful goods, and always manifesting a desire to please and accommodate his numerous patrons, we know of no establishment in our pleasant village more deserving of a generous support.

Let it be the aim of Quincy people to sustain Quincy trade in all its branches, and especially in the line of business now under consideration. We know of no excuse for going abroad when so good an assortment, exhibited by person of Mr. Meservey's taste and promptness, and to be had at such reasonable prices, can be found "always ready" for purchasers.

NEW MEETING-HOUSE IN WEYMOUTH. The edifice at South Weymouth, which has been occupied by the Orthodox Society, is about to be demolished. "In a few months" says a gifted writer in the Boston Herald, "will be erected upon the time-honored site Temple, whose beauty and architectural proportions, the most devout disciples of the living God will delight to honor, and where the unredeemed will bow in reverential awe."

The building committee for the new church is composed of Maj. General Appleton Howe, Nathaniel Shaw, Esq., &c., which is a sufficient guarantee that everything when done will be artistic and "in order." The church is to be of wood, will cost some fifteen thousand dollars, and in dimensions will be the largest in Weymouth."

THE THREE-DOLLAR GOLD COIN. It will be recollect that an act of Congress of February, 1853, directed the coinage of three-dollar gold pieces at the mint and branches. These coins will be immediately put in circulation. The Washington Union thus describes the coins:

"The obverse of this coin represents an ideal head, with the feathered cincture symbolic of America, the word "liberty" appearing on the band encircling the head, the inscription "United States of America" surrounding the whole. On the reverse is a wreath composed of some of the staple productions of the United States, viz., wheat, cotton, Indian corn, and tobacco; the denomination and date being in the centre."

GRAND HISTORICAL EXHIBITION. There is now on exhibition, at the Town Hall, Mather's Magnificent Diorama of the Conflagration of Moscow. It will be opened this afternoon, and children admitted for six cents. This evening's exhibition will commence at eight o'clock, and the admission fee most nearly in value. It is 16-20th of an inch in diameter, and weighs 77.4 oz.

UNITED STATES AND SPAIN. Reports from Washington concur in stating that our government has received official intelligence from the American Minister that the Spanish Government refuses compliance with his demands made in our behalf in the Black Warrior affair.

The Washington Union says, if ample satisfaction be not given for the seizure of the Black Warrior, it will advocate the immediate blockade of Cuba.

Under the present aspect of affairs, our relations with Spain are in a precarious state, and energetic measures will doubtless be taken with the difference in the diameter of the piece, will make it readily distinguishable from the quarter-eagle, which approaches it most nearly in value. It is 16-20th of an inch in diameter, and weighs 77.4 oz.

In connection with the other gold coins the devices and arrangement are novel, but perhaps not less appropriate, and, together with the difference in the diameter of the piece, will make it readily distinguishable from the quarter-eagle, which approaches it most nearly in value. It is 16-20th of an inch in diameter, and weighs 77.4 oz.

RAILROAD UNION. The Old Colony and Fall River Corporations, at a special meeting held on Thursday last, accepted the act passed by the Legislature for their consolidation. The Old Colony meeting was unanimous in favor of the measure. At the Fall River meeting, after some discussion, the question was taken by a stock vote—4250 went for union, and 489 against it. The terms of the union are to be determined by referees whose award will be binding upon all parties.

THE SLAVE SHIP. The persons found on board the brig Glanmorgan, captured by the United States brig Perry on the coast of Africa and sent to Boston, have had a preliminary examination and been fully committed for trial. The penalty against the captain, if convicted of the charge, is death; of the men not exceeding two years' imprisonment and fine not exceeding two thousand dollars.

EXECUTIONS IN MASSACHUSETTS. Since the adoption of the Constitution of the State in 1780, there have been eighty-seven individuals hung on the gallows, viz.; twenty-seven for murder, sixteen for burglary, nine for highway robbery, six for rape, four for arson, two for robbery, and one for piracy—total sixty-five under State authority; and under that of the United States, fifteen for murder, and seven for piracy and murder.

THE FROST AND THE FRUIT. The editor of the Worcester (Mass.) Spy, who is an experienced horticulturist, thinks that generally the pears and cherries escaped serious injury by the late frost. The peach buds which were open, and the apricot blossoms, he thinks, were so much injured, as to promise but little fruit. The new quince, May fruit, is also injured, and the peach blossoms are not yet open.

For the Patriot.

Spatters of Mud.

Procrastination is the thief of time.—Jim.

Mr. EDITOR:—After an absence of two or three weeks from town, we have returned safe, sound, and hearty as a buck, and, with your permission, will tread lightly upon the horns of some of the ducks and goslings.

First, your correspondent, who styles me Sir Thomas Muddie, will please receive our thanks for the honor he has conferred, in speaking of us in so respectful a manner; his communication, we must say, was done up brown, and contained more wit than a DEPARTURE. Among the passengers, who sailed from Boston, on Tuesday last, by the Star of Empire, for England, was our young and enterprising friend, Benjamin W. Monroe, son of Israel W. Monroe, Esq., of this town, who intends making Liverpool his place of residence. He carries with him the best wishes of a host of friends.

CLAM CHOWDER. So excellent and palatable was this preparation at the Granite Saloon, last Saturday evening, that at an early hour it had been "used up." Another one will be served this evening, and we shall call early in the evening to see if the Town would reconsider a vote passed at the March meeting, to see if the Town meeting whereby the slow coach Board of Selectmen were instructed to purchase a lot of land in the West District for a School-house.

Now, we all know, that the gentlemanly committee, who reported that it was best to purchase a certain lot, had held meeting after meeting during a whole year, and given the subject a thorough investigation; we know they were as nearly disinterested as a committee could be, and we are bound to believe that they done what they considered for the best of the Town and the welfare of the District;—in a word, they done well and the Town was satisfied.

Where were the sixty or more voters who called the meeting? Which is best—to have the School-house in the bog-hole, about a quarter of a mile from the Engine-house, (bugbear) or where rocks would blow through the roof?

Again, when will Summer street be widened? When will the High School grounds be ornamented with trees and the fences built? When will the road over Edwards' Hill be done? When will Eaton's bridge be fixed? When will School street be properly repaired, especially the west end of it; and last, but not least, when will Young America come into power and do the Town business up brown.

Yours, TOM MUDDIE.

For the Patriot.

Street Obstructions.

MR. EDITOR:—In my perambulations through our pleasant town the other evening, I noticed that the head of Canal Street was about to be closed to public travel by the erection of a fence and the placing of huge stone posts.

Upon inquiry, I learnt, that a large part of the Highway is claimed as private property, and thus the infringements made to the great injury of the travelling public. The fathers of our town should immediately attend to this matter, before an accident occurs and the town is mired in heavy damages.

I would ask if encroachments have not been made upon the public streets, especially at the head of Granite Street and also at the commencement of Coddington Street.

Do not the buildings erected in these localities encroach upon the streets.

We hope to see this cause of complaint removed, or will it be left for Young America to put things through at the next municipal election.

"K—N—"

little. When we spoke of the "meek and lowly follower of our Savior," and his sermons on the "peculiar institution," we intended to tell the truth in a very few words and stir up a little breeze. It had the desired effect—our end was accomplished.

Now, for a few words on the doings of the Town meeting, which was held on Wednesday afternoon, to see if the Town would reconsider a vote passed at the March meeting where the slow coach Board of Selectmen were instructed to purchase a lot of land in the West District for a School-house.

Now, we all know, that the gentlemanly committee, who reported that it was best to purchase a certain lot, had held meeting after meeting during a whole year, and given the subject a thorough investigation; we know they were as nearly disinterested as a committee could be, and we are bound to believe that they done what they considered for the best of the Town and the welfare of the District;—in a word, they done well and the Town was satisfied.

Charles H. Brewer, late paying teller of the Suffolk Bank, (Boston,) who was sentenced to the State Prison for three years for embezzling the funds of the bank, after remaining about half the time, has been pardoned.

The largest steamboat ever built in New York, has lately been launched. She is three hundred and fifty feet long, and twenty-three hundred tons burthen, and justly named the Metropolis. Instead of the usual hog frames, her timbers go nine feet above the main deck. Her engine has a one hundred and five inch cylinder, and twelve foot stroke. She is to go on the Fall River line.

Hydroscopia is the name of a new species of humbug introduced into France; it is the art of evoking phantoms by means of a nail of water. It is quite popular in Paris, and has caused the degeneracy of Spiritual Rappings into mere divination.

Seven hundred men, women and children, have been already admitted to the new State Almshouse, at Tewksbury.

If the news via China be correct, the Japanese have agreed to the Russian demand to open trade after the expiration of a year. The Russian squadron seems to have followed up Commodore Perry's visit, to some purpose.

The late municipal election in Fall River resulted in the election of the "Know Nothing" candidate for Mayor.

The number of deaths in New York City, last week, was four hundred and one—a decrease of seventy-six from the previous week.

JOHN RUSSELL & CO.

Quincy, May 13.

To the Honorable Judge of the Court of Probate for the County of Norfolk.

THE Petition of NOAH TORREY, Administrator of the Goods and Estate of

DEBORAH PORTER,

late of Weymouth, in said County, single woman, deceased, respectfully represents that the said deceased had at the time of her death, Real Estate, consisting of seven undivided ninth parts of one half of an old dwelling house and the land under the same, with certain privileges in common; also, seven undivided ninths of about one half of an acre of land—all situate in the Town of Weymouth—the value of $116 66, and that the lawful claims against the Estate of said deceased, including funeral expenses, amount to $102 37, and that the charges of administration are $30, and that the whole claims $132 37, and that the value of her Personal Estate is $13 99, being insufficient to pay the sum of $118 38 to satisfy said claims; and that the persons interested in the Estate of said deceased, as heirs or otherwise, are Nancy Reed, Sally Withington, Samuel Porter, Richard Porter, Ruth Haines, and Naomi Atherton. The said Administrator therefore prays that he may be licensed and empowered to convey all of the Real Estate of the said deceased as will produce said sum of $118 38.

Partry.

"Lowest thou Me?"

Mother! bending o'er the cradle
Of thy earliest born,
Watching till the blue eyes open
To the light of Heaven,
Pouring forth its portal fountain,
Earth's idolatry :
Listen to the voice that murmured,
"Lowest thou Me?"

Sister! by the midnight taper,
Counting labor light,
For thy childhood's best beloved,
In his manhood's night ;
Still for him thine eye to Heaven
Lifting tenderly ;
Back to thee that whisper steals,
"Lowest thou Me?"

Maiden! with a deeper trusting
Than a sister's own ;
With the silent stars to watch thee,
Dreaming all alone !
Dreaming of the star that lighteth
Earth and Heaven to me,
Start no more another asketh,
"Lowest thou Me?"

Watcher! by the fainting night lamp
O'er a fainter gleam,
Flickering on the lips thon' lowest—
Love's last earthly beam—
With that last convulsive quivering
To think agony,
Come the comforter's still whisper,
"Lowest thou Me?"

Oh! our hearts by earthly loving,
Learn the love of heaven ;
Not to wean from the Creator,
Was his creature given,
He who tunes our spirits harp-strings
To such harmony,
Well may breathe upon them sweetly
"Lowest thou Me?"

Have Faith in one Another.
Have faith in one another,
When ye meet in friendship's name ;
The true friend is a brother,
And his heart should beat the same.

Though your paths in life should differ,
Since the hour when first ye met ;
Have faith in one another
Ye may need that friendship yet.

Have faith in one another
When ye whisper love's fond vow ;
It will not be always summer,
Nor always bright as now.

A'd when wintry clouds hang o'er thee,
If some kindred heart ye share,
And have faith in one another,
O, ye never can despair.

Have faith in one another,
And let honor be your guide ;
And let truth alone be spoken,
Whatever may betide.

The false may reign a season,
And, O! doubt not it will ;
But have faith in one another,
And truth shall triumph still.

Miscellaneous.

The Two Maidens.

BY T. S. ARTHUR.

"Good morning, Mrs. Hinton," said Martha Green, lifting her head, as a visitor entered the room in which she sat, busily engaged in sewing. "You see that I am full of work."

"So you seem to be" was the quiet reply. "But I suppose you can spare to-night, for a work of mercy?"

"How a work of mercy, Mrs. Hinton?"

"Poor Old Mrs. Bender is very ill—so ill that she cannot be left alone any length of time. I have been up with her two nights in succession, and am now looking for one or two young ladies who will take charge of her to-night. Can I depend upon you?"

"Not to-night, Mrs. Hinton. It would be impossible! It will take me till twelve to-night, and the most part of to-morrow, to finish this dress, which I must wear at Mrs. Corrie's party to-morrow evening. Any other time I would go with pleasure."

"I am really sorry for that, I have been to two or three this morning and all have declined on account of this party."

"Hannah Ball can go as readily as not. Mrs. Hinton. She had her new dress made at the mantua-makers."

"I have seen Hannah."

"Does she decline?"

"Yes."

"That's very strange. What reason does she give?"

"She says that if she were to set up to-night it would ruin her appearance to-morrow evening. That it would make her look dreadful."

"There is something in that you know yourself, Mrs. Hinton. Loss of rest has the same effect upon me. I don't look fit to be seen for two or three days after losing a night's sleep."

"Yes, I know that sitting up does not improve looks much," Mrs. Hinton gravely remarked—and then after pausing a few moments, got up and said as she moved towards the door.

"Well, I must bid you good morning, Martha, time is passing, and I must find some one who will relieve me, or I shall be sick myself."

"They certainly will not bear a companion," responded the friend.

"I hope you will," Martha said, in a tone of concern. "Were I not situated just as I am, I should go with pleasure."

And then the lady went away. After her departure, Martha Green sat thoughtful for some minutes. She did not feel altogether satisfied with herself, and yet, on reflection, she could not see any cause for self-condemnation. Sincerely did she pity the condition of poor Mrs. Bender, who was nearly seventy years of age, sick and without any one in the world upon whom she could look and claim, from consanguinity, a single kind office.

"But it was impossible for her to go," she reasoned, in the effort to quiet her uneasy feelings, "under the circumstances—utterly impossible."

Still she sat thoughtful, without resuming her needle. At length she aroused herself, with the half-arduous remark.

"Somebody will go of course, and that settled the matter.

It was perhaps, an half hour after, that a young friend and confidant, dropped in to sit an hour with Martha. The conversation ran, of course, on the party to be held at Mrs. Corrie's on that evening.

"You will look beautiful in this dress," the friend remarked, lifting a portion of the garment upon which Martha was at work, in her hand. "It suits your complexion admirably; besides being of a rich material, and attractive, yet appropriate and not too gaudy in color."

"You have nothing to fear to-night. Martha, just see! She has that old dress worn by her at the last half dozen parties. And instead of her usual brilliant complexion, her skin looks sallow, and her cheeks pale; and there will be anything half so elegant at the party."

"There will at least be one dress there that will fully equal it," the visitor said.

"Are you sure?" asked Martha in a tone of disappointment.

"Yes. As I came along this morning, on my way here, I dropped in a moment to see Ellen Willard, and found her at work as you are, upon her own dress. She has certainly selected it with excellent taste. Much as I admire yours, I really think I should prefer the one she has chosen. She will attract much attention, of course, you know she is a girl of a great deal of taste, and knows how to dress to the very best advantage."

This intelligence had the effect to change materially the tone of Martha's feelings.

As far as was in power, she concealed this change from her friend, but after she had left, her countenance expressed much concern. The reason was this: A young man, named Alton, had paid her a good many attentions in the last few months, and of such a marked kind, that she had suffered her affections to become a good deal interested. The extent of this interest had not become apparent to herself until within a week or two, during which time she thought she perceived a slight change in his manner toward her, united with on or two occasions, a perceptible preference for the company of Ellen Willard. One reason for her being unusually desirous of making, if possible, the very best appearance at the party of Mrs. Corrie, was to fix again the wavering regard of Mr. Alton. To learn, then, that Ellen was likely to equal, if not eclipse her, was no pleasant information, and it troubled her in spite of every effort to rally her feelings.

Time passed, and the evening came for the anticipated company. Martha was there early, dressed with the most scrupulous regard to effect, yet tastefully in every respect. Alton came in, perhaps half an hour after. The maiden's heart bounded as she saw him enter, while the soft tint of her cheek, delicate as the rose blossom, deepened its hue. The eye of the young man glanced around the brilliantly lighted room, evidently in search of some one, and then seated himself alone as if disappointed, and slowly surveyed the company.

"Well, what is the reason?" asked two or three of the ladies.

"It is a very plain case," resumed Mrs. Hinton. "Most of you know old Mrs. Bender. On calling in to see her a few days ago, I found her very ill, and in need of nourishment and attention. She is very old, and entirely by herself. In the condition I found her, it would have been cruel to leave her alone for any length of time. For two nights I remained with her myself, not wishing to trouble any one else, and being in the hope every day that she would get better. Yesterday I found myself so much fatigued from loss of rest, that I was compelled to seek for some one who would relieve me. Accordingly, I called upon several young ladies and asked their assistance. But some, like Martha Green, had their side of one of his most intimate friends.

"Did you ever see Martha Green look so beautiful?" he said to this young man.

"I have seen Hannah."

"Where is she? Oh, yes—I see. Really she is a superb looking woman."

"Isn't she? But there is one whom I expect here to-night, that, if I am not mistaken, will eclipse her."

"Who is she?"

"Ellen Willard."

"There she is now! Look at her, and then yield the palm at once to Miss Green. Really I never saw Ellen look so indifferent in all my life."

Alton turned his eyes towards the door, and sure enough there was Ellen plainly dressed, though neat, her face wearing the expression of weariness. It was a moment or two before he spoke, and then he said in a tone of disappointment:

"As you say, I never saw her look so indifferent in all my life. Still she is a sweet girl, even though eclipsed to-night in every way by Martha Green."

"They certainly will not bear a companion," responded the friend.

"Busy, too," I remarked, as I sat down by her side, with a feeling that my search for a sitter would prove fruitless.

"I am busy, Mrs. Hinton," was her reply, "but not so busy, I hope, but what I can oblige you."

"Instinctively, it seems, had she perceived, from my

QUINCY PATRIOT,

Betsey strides over it. The old man was on the watch, and the first salute the girl got was—

"Don't want you."

The girl stopped, and suddenly another bullet-headed Nancy appears; seeing the old broom in the way, she gives it a kick, and waddles up to the house.

"You won't suit me, that's certain, Miss Moseby!" bawls Peppergrass.

She disappeared in a hurry, and finally a third appears, opened the gate, and coming into the yard, she carefully closes the gate behind her, and walks up; the broom is still in the path, she picks it up and carries it up to the house, where she deposits it alongside the woodshed. Before the girl could explain her business there, Peppergrass bawls out—

"Yes, yes, come in, you'll suit me."

And she did, for that girl lived with Peppergrass seven years, and only quit living with him to go to housekeeping on her own hook, and a capital wife she made. Peppergrass was right.—Yankee Blade.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

THE NEW CEMETERY. What has become of the Committee for laying out and adorning the new burial ground? They must not be discouraged at the action of the town in giving only six or seven acres of land—and such land—land wherein weeds and thistles disdain to grow. Some of our public men have ideas of economy lower than the old farmer, who told the passers-by to eat as many pears as they pleased, (they were very bitter and unsavory) for if they did not eat them, he would have to give them to the pigs.

Our public men will not even give waste and barren land for burial purposes. They prefer to have the grave-diggers of one generation dig over the bones of the dead of the preceding, and occasionally make bonfires of their decayed coffins—provided they touch not the bones of their ancestors. This is public spirit.

But go forward Messrs. Committee, Young America will be installed in another year, and they will make room for the dead in spite of old Fugies.

"A TRUCE." The Selectmen and the Fernalds have suspended operations for a brief period, in relation to the disputed territory at the head of Canal street. We trust the matter will be settled amicably, and that the town will not be precipitated into expensive litigation. Now is the time to calculate all the costs. Ask for nothing but what is right, and submit to nothing wrong. We advise both parties to keep their tempers, and swear not at all. If they do, some of the boys standing round may hear them. And besides, it will not do a bit of good. It will hurt their own souls. If by mistake, accident, or any other than a bad intent, the rights of either party are put in jeopardy, there is no necessity for a law-suit. Let both parties submit the case to impartial referees.

MILITARY IN BRAINTREE. We learn that the Braintree Light Infantry, under command of Capt. Edward Potter, with forty-seven guns, made their first public parade on the first day of May, in their new and beautiful uniform, accompanied by the Braintree Brass Band. The company met at the Town Hall, received a detachment of the Somerville Light Infantry, paraded through the principal streets, and performed many evolutions highly creditable. Under the efficient discipline of such a good commander, the company cannot fail to become thorough in military tactics, and justly assume a position in the front ranks of the soldiery of this State. We hope the people of this town will have an occasion to witness their perfection and deportment as an organized corps.

TEACHERS' MEETING. The twelfth semi-annual meeting of the Norfolk County Teachers' Association will be held at Dedham, on Thursday and Friday, the 25th and 26th inst., at which interesting lectures will be delivered and discussion held on many subjects of vital importance to common school education. The lecture on Friday, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon, will be by Asa Wellington, Esq., Principal of the High School in this town, and his subject—"The True Principle of Teaching." School Committee-men and other friends of Education, are cordially invited to be present and participate in the exercises of the occasion.

THE ECLIPSE. On Friday, the 26th inst., will occur an annular eclipse of the sun, which will be visible in this State. It will commence here at twenty-six minutes past four o'clock in the afternoon, and continue two hours and twenty-one minutes—or until about thirteen minutes before seven o'clock.

NORTH BRIDGEWATER BANK. A meeting of the Directors of this Bank has been held, at which Martin Wales, Esq., was chosen President. It was voted that five per cent. upon the capital stock be paid on or before the first of June.

CLAN CHOWDER. This evening, at the Granite Saloon, will be "served up" one of these epicurean luxuries, which prepared in the Proprietor's excellent manner, have become a great favorite and are soon devoured. Call in season, or you'll be too late.

NORTH BRIDGEWATER BANK. A meeting of the Directors of this Bank has been held, at which Martin Wales, Esq., was chosen President. It was voted that five per cent. upon the capital stock be paid on or before the first of June.

VULTURE ENGINE OFFICERS. At the annual meeting of the Vulture Engine Company, No. 4, (Quincy Point) the following gentlemen were chosen officers for the ensuing year, viz.:—

Foreman— Thaddeus Churchill.

First Assistant Foreman— Albert Hayden.

Second " " A. L. Jones.

Clerk and Treasurer— Ezra Damon, Jr.

Steward— Wm. H. Sampson.

Standing Committee— Warren J. Vinal, A. F. Russell, Wm. H. Packard.

Leading Hosemen— James T. Sherburne, Charles Bicknell, Henry Hayden, Charles P. Carling, George F. Cleverly, T. H. Newcomb.

Suction Hosemen— Wm. H. Sampson, Geo. W. Packard, John S. Packard, Henry Burr.

MILITARY VISIT FROM BOSTON. The Mechanic Infantry of Boston, under the command of Cap: Adams, intend to visit this town, on Wednesday the 31st inst., for target practice and military discipline, and will afterwards dine at the Hancock House. As the heir of Hon. Thomas H. Perkins, is not publicly known.

The new Company was organized by the choice of Thomas Hollis, Jr. as President; O. E. Shelden, Vice President; J. B. Whitcher, Agent, and George Penniman, Esq., Clerk and Treasurer. Mr.

Penniman has already filled these two last named offices for many years past to universal satisfaction.

FOURTH OF JULY. The anniversary of our National Independence is drawing on, and what is to be done in this town? Is the day to pass without any act of commemoration of its origin? We hope not. Let the matter be talked about and some movement made to celebrate the seventy-eighth birth day of our liberties. It is many years since this honored day was noticed in a good old-fashioned way.

JUDICIAL APPOINTMENT. We are glad to learn that our respected friend and patron, Josiah Babcock, Esq., of Milton, has recently been appointed by the Governor and Council, Mr. Babcock is well known in this vicinity for his usefulness and enterprise, and this appointment is meritoriously bestowed upon a very worthy citizen.

A correspondent from Havana, writing to the New Orleans Delta, asserts positively, that in the event of a war between the United States and Spain, the Captain General has a decree ready to be issued at any moment, abolishing slavery and arming the slaves. Many Europeans, with their families, were leaving Havana in anticipation of trouble.

DEFERRED. "Vindictor," in reply to L. B., "came too late for insertion in this week's Patriot—he shall be heard next week. Correspondents must bring their communications before Wednesday morning to insure their appearance in the same week's paper.

SPED ON THE OLD COLONY RAILROAD. The order of the City Council of Boston, restricting the rate of speed on the Old Colony Railroad within the city limits, to five miles per hour, has gone into force. A violation will subject the company to the use of horse power.

SUMMER BEVERAGE. Dr. Marden has a pleasant and healthy drink—a medicated beer—which will be found, on trial, to be cooling and satisfying to the thirst this warm weather. The Doctor invites his friends to try it, at his expense.

For the Patriot.

GREAT SALE OF PROPERTY. The Quincy Granite Railway Company, incorporated March 4th, 1826, have recently sold their real estate, consisting of large tracts of land, ten dwelling-houses, including the Railway House; the Ledges, Railway Franchise, &c., to Messrs. Thomas Hollis, Jr., George Penniman, Joseph B. Whitcher and Oliver E. Sheldon, all of Milton. These gentlemen are favorably known in this vicinity for their high worth and enterprise, and we unite in the public sentiment of wishing them success and prosperity in their new undertaking.

The consideration for this great purchase, to the heirs of Hon. Thomas H. Perkins, is not publicly known.

The new Company was organized by the choice of Thomas Hollis, Jr. as President; O. E. Shelden, Vice President; J. B. Whitcher, Agent, and George Penniman, Esq., Clerk and Treasurer. Mr.

Penniman has already filled these two last named offices for many years past to universal satisfaction.

DR. CHARLES JEWETT. The well known temperance lecturer, has accepted a situation in an educational institution at Bavaria, Kane County, Ill., as Professor of Physiology and Agricultural Chemistry.

NOTICE. All persons having Uniforms, belonging to the Niagara Engine Company, are requested to leave them at the Shop of W. M. French before the 1st of June next.

Per order of the Foreman.

THE Petition of LEWIS BASS, Guardian

Benjamin F. Bass, Abby Bass, and Son

Bass, of Quincy, late of Quincy, in the County

Norfolk. Yeoman, deceased, respectfully resents that he and his wife were seized of real estate consisting of about one-sixth of an acre land in Quincy, bounded easterly on Gen-street, westerly on land of Lewis Bass, north on a private way; also about one-sixth of an acre in Quincy, bounded westerly on land

C. F. Adams, easterly and southerly on land

Lewis Bass, bounded on a private way;

about one acre of pasture land in Quincy bounded southerly, westerly and northerly on land of C. F. Adams, easterly on land of H. W.

Bass, of the value of $2000; and that it would be for the benefit of said minors to have their in-est therein sold, and the proceeds thereof paid and secured to them on interest, for the following reasons, viz: that the interest of the money it will bring is less than the interest of the land, and that the person interested in the estate said minor as next of kin, presumptive heir otherwise, are Isaac Bass and Horace Bass.

said Guardian therefore prays that he may be caused and empowered to sell and convey the real estate.

LEWIS BASS, Guardian

Poetry.

Marriage.

Not a sigh was heard, nor a funeral tone
As the man to his bride! we hurried;
Not a woman discharged her farewell groan,
On the spot where the fellow was married.

We married him just about eight at night,
Our faces paler turning,
By the struggling moonbeam's misty light,
And the gas lamp's steady burning.

No useless watch chain covered his vest,
Nor over dressed we found him;
But he looked like a gentleman wearing his best,
With a few of his friends around him.

Few and short were the things he said,
And we spoke not a word of sorrow,
But we silently gazed on the man that was wed,
And we bitterly thought of the morrow.

We thought as we silently stood about,
With spite and anger dying,
How the merest stranger had cut us out
With only half our trying.

Lightly we'll talk of the fellow that's gone,
And oft of the past upbraid him;
But little he'll reck if we let him live on,
In the house where his wife conveyed him.

But our heavy task at length was done,
When the clock struck the hour for retiring;
And we heard the spiteful squib and pun
The girls were sultry.

Slowly and sadly we turned to go—
We had struggled, and we were human,
We shed not a tear, and we spoke not our woe,
But we left him alone with his woman.

The Seasons of Love.

BY GEORGE P. MORRIS.

The spring time of love
Is both happy and gay,
For joy sprinkles blossoms.
And balm in our way;

The sky, earth, and ocean,
In beauty repose,

And all the bright future
Is couleur de rose.

The summer of love
Is the bloom of the heart,
When hill, grove and valley
Their music impart,

And the pure glow of heaven
Is seen in fond eyes,

As lakes show the rainbow
That's hung in the skies.

The autumn of love
Is the season of cheer—
Life's mild Indian Summer,
The smile of the year;

Which comes when the golden
Leaves are strewed

And yields its own blessings—
Repose and reward.

The winter of love
Is the beam that we win,
While the storm scows without,
From the sunshine within.

Love's reign is eternal,

The heart is thine,

And he has all seasons

Of life for his own.

A Child's Prayer.

Sweeter than the songs of thrushes,
When the winds are low;

Brighter than the spring time blushes
Reddening out of snow,

Where the voice and cheek so fair
Of the little child at prayer.

Like a white lamb of the meadow,
Climbs through the light;

Like a princess in the shadow
Of the temple bright,

Seem'd she, saying, "Holy One,

Thine, and not my will be done."

Auroras.

A youngster, who had just risen to the dignity of the first pair of boots with heels on them, laid himself liable, through some misdemeanor, to maternal chastisement. After pleading to get clear, to no effect, he ex-claimed:

"Well, if I've got to stand it, I mean to take off my boots."

"Why?" asked his mother.

"Because, I won't be whipped in them new boots, no how. That's so."

"Is your horse perfectly gentle?"

"Perfectly gentle, sir; the only fault he has got, if that a fault, is a playful habit of extending his hinder hoofs now and then."

"By extending his hinder hoofs you don't mean kicking I hope?"

"Some people call it kicking, but it is only a slight reaction of the muscles; a disease rather than a vice."

"Jenny," said a landlady to her help, "Jenny, was there any fire in the kitchen last night, while you were sitting up?"

"Yes, ma'am," said Jenny; "there was a spark there, when I went down, and I soon fanned it into a flame."

The landlady looked suspiciously at Jenny, but the innocent girl, went on scrubbing, and humming "Katy Darlin'."

An old bachelor geologist was boasting that every rock was as familiar to him as the alphabet.

A lady declared that she knew of a rock of which he was ignorant.

"Name it, madam," said he.

"It is rock the cradle, sir," replied the lady.

"Come, Bill, here you've been drunk for a week, and laying about the streets; what do you mean by such conduct?"

"Why, hic you see that 'experience is the best his school, and as I'm bound to his experience all I can, you see!"

"Mary, my love," said a not very attentive husband to his wife, at the dinner table,
"shall I help you to a piece of the heart?"

"I believe," said she, "that a piece of a heart was all that I ever got."

There was a commotion among the dishes.

another. No man ever did anything that way. When once fairly in a work, don't give it up. Don't disgrace yourself by being on this to-day, on that to-morrow, and on another next day. Fortune, success, fame, position, are never gained but by plausibly, determinedly, bravely sticking, growing, living to a thing till it is fairly accomplished.

You must carry a thing through, if you would be anybody or anything. No matter if it does cost you the pleasure, the society, the thousand pearl gratifications of life. Stick to the thing, and carry it through. Only once learn to carry a thing through in all its completeness and proportion, and you will become a hero. You will think better of yourself; others will think better of you. The whole world in its very heart admires the stern, determined doer. It sees in him its best sight, its richest treasure. Consider yourself amply sufficient for the deed. You'll be successful, never fear. But you must not begin till you are sure what you would do is thoroughly and incontestably just, fair and wise.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

Congress.

The Nebraska-Kansas Territorial Bill passed the House, on Monday last, by a vote of 113 to 100 against it. It has been before the country more than four months, and has occupied more of the public attention than any measure since 1820, when it was proposed to exclude Missouri from the Union because of a clause in her constitution establishing the institution of slavery. The Bill is now before the Senate, where a most determined effort will be made to reinstate the Clayton Amendment, which was struck out by the House. By the Clayton Amendment, it was provided that foreigners—not naturalized—should be denied the right to vote in the territories. This right they have always enjoyed in all other territories. It seems right to us to continue that privilege for the purpose of overwhelming the slavery propagandists, who will now invade Kansas, carrying with them their human chattels. Should the Senate adhere to the Clayton Amendment, the Bill will be returned to the House again. The fall elections may then come in like claps of thunder to finish this measure of bad faith and wrong. The Massachusetts delegation in the House have fought the good fight with a determination, constancy and fidelity worthy of the great cause in which they were enlisted. The speeches of Messrs Upham and Banks have elicited high commendation from their adversaries. It may not be uninteresting to our readers to hear what the Washington Star, a pro-slavery paper, says of the maiden speech of Mr. Banks, who but a few years ago graduated from a machine-shop in Boston.

Mr. Banks, of Massachusetts, made his maiden speech, which having placed him instantly, as it were, in the front rank of congressional orators, was such as to attract universal attention here. Mr. B. is a small and light made man, of perhaps thirty-four or five years of age, with iron gray hair, an expansive forehead, and one of the most intelligent and agreeable countenances worn by a member of the present Congress. His complexion is sallow, and his address in conversation, or 'on the floor,' is at all times exceedingly courteous and dignified, yet frank and agreeable. Such is the man, as he appears to the casual observer. Though very young for a Massachusetts public man, for the last eight or ten years he has been one of the most active and influential members of the Democratic party of his State, of late inclining to free soilism, having been badly bitten, we fear, with the anti-slavery mania. However, we have at present to deal more with his speech than with the man. It was replete with statesmanlike information. Though differing wholly from our conclusions, we can appreciate the laborious care and erudition manifested in his able effort. On the whole, no able speech against the bill has so far been delivered in either legislative chamber. In comparison with that of his senatorial colleague, it was far the abler of the two; Mr. Sumner's was a mere literary effort, graced with the flash figures of the day, classic, of course. The speech of Mr. Banks was an argument carefully fortified at all points, evincing not only literary attainments, but legislative and statesmanlike scholarship, which mark his author for a very superior man, intellectually, however he may have gone astray upon the question he was treating.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE. The last number is richly filled with choice articles. The Boston Transcript truly says—"There is no periodical which keeps the reader so well au courant with the facts of the times and the spirit of the age as Littell's judicious gleanings in the field of British and American literature."

We have not yet received Nos. 516, '17, '18, '19 and '20.

INCREASED FEES. At the annual meeting of the Norfolk County District Medical Society, a vote was passed recommending that where the professional fees have not been raised, they be increased to the extent of fifty per cent.

RESIGNATION. The Hon. Edward Everett, in consequence of ill health, has resigned his seat in the United States Senate, the resignation to take effect in June.

THE NEBRASKA VOTE. New England presented almost an unbroken front in Congress on the final vote upon the Nebraska bill. McDonald of Maine, Hibbard of New Hampshire, and Ingersoll of Connecticut, were the only New England members who voted for the bill.

A DESERVED COMPLIMENT. Several gentlemen, who constantly pass over the South Shore Railroad, as we learn from the Hingham Journal, have recently presented to Geo. H. Dean, an Engineer on said road, a handsome sum of money, "as some testimonial of their estimate of his services." We have frequently heard Mr. Dean praised for his strict attention to duty, and unwearied watchfulness to guard against danger. We have ourselves observed his care and assiduity while on duty, and have always felt safe in traveling when he managed the "steam-horse."

OYSTER CHOWDER. This favorite dish will be ready for its many admirers, this evening, at the Granite Saloon. The flavor and richness of this compound, as prepared at this place of entertainment, has gained for it a reputation as evidenced by the rush of customers.

SEVENTEENTH OF JUNE. It is stated that arrangements are in progress by the commissioned officers of the military companies of Boston, for a grand parade on the seventeenth of June next. There are about one hundred and sixty of these officers, and a fine display is anticipated.

MORE COALITION. The Whigs and Free Soilers, in the Connecticut Legislature, united and chose Francis Gillette (F. S.) for the unexpired, and Lafayette S. Foster, (Whig), for the regular term in the United States Senate. Coalitions are becoming quite popular, especially when they favor the right side. "All is fair in politics."

FUGITIVE SLAVE. Last Tuesday evening, Anthony Burns, a fugitive slave from Andover, (Va.) was arrested in Boston, and the case will be examined to-day. He is about twenty-two years of age, apparently shrewd and intelligent, and expresses a willingness to return.

APPOINTMENT. The Governor, with the advice of Council, has appointed John H. Clifford of New Bedford, Attorney General, in place of Rufus Choate, resigned.

GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK. The June number of this unrivaled periodical came promptly to hand, and contains almost every desirable for the first month of Summer. Eight full page plates—one line engraving—one colored fashion plate—one hundred pages—sixty-five engravings (including bonnets, caps, dress collars, mantles, riding boots, patterns for embroidery, &c.) and its pages enriched by choice reading from sixty-six contributors.

It is for sale at the Quincy Bookstore—price 25 cents per single copy.

Vindicator has been withdrawn by the writer.

[Communicated.]

Look at Home, First.

To JOHN A. GREEN, Esq.:—I acquiesce in what you say of the Burin Ground. I think it well and proper to lay out ample grounds now, while we can do it without any great expenditure of money. If trees should be planted now, in fit places, on the lot first recommended by the Committee, in a few years, it would become less repulsive as it is now, from its sterility and barrenness. The difference of cost to the Town, if the whole lot should be taken, or only half of it, would be the additional sum for fence, and expense of decorating the ground with trees and shrubs and walks. From the land, as it now lies, I do not think the income of the Town is increased one dollar.

It is about time for the Town to stop squandering money in supporting the Alms-house. It is worse than useless. The purposes of charity which it serves could be accomplished at far less expense.

But what I had in mind, when I began this communication, was the absurdity which you and I, and all of us, are guilty of in exhibiting any solicitude for the dead, and at the same time manifesting so little regard for the living. We have three burial grounds. To fill them, we have in full blast, night and day, a dozen furnaces, to say nothing of doctors, quacks, and Brandreth pills. We have a statute forbidding the sale of spirituous liquors. It is trampled under foot. We have

United States Senator. It is rumored that Hon. Otis P. Lord of Salem, will be appointed to fill the vacancy in the Senate, caused by the resignation of Hon. Edward Everett.

RATTLE-SNAKES. Lysander P. Holbrook of this town, is now exhibiting two live rattle-snakes, male and female, eleven and fifteen years old—one three and a half and the other four and a half feet long.

Wanted, a young man, in the Quincy Bookstore and Bindery. A person who has acquired habits of regular application to business, and who has some knowledge of trade preferred.

Poetry.

The Last Good Night.

Close her eyelids—press them gently,
O'er the dead and leaden eyes,
For the soul that made them lovely
Hath returned unto the skies;
Wipe the death-drops from her forehead,
Soverne dear golden tress,
Fold the icy hands all meekly,
Smooth the little snowy dress:
Scatter flowers o'er her pillow—
Gentle flowers so pure and white—
Lay the bair upon her bosom;
There—now so soft say "Good Night."

Though our tears flow fast and faster,
We wot not east her back;
We are glad her feet no longer
Tread life's rough and thorny track;
We are glad our Heavenly Father
Took her while her heart was pure,
We are glad He did not leave her
All life's trials to endure;
We are glad—and yet the tear-drop
Falleth; for, alas! we know
That our fireside will be lonely,
We shall miss our darling so.

While the twilight shadows gather,
We shall wait in vain to feel
Little arms, all white and dimpled,
Round our necks so softly steal:
Our wet cheeks will miss the pressure
Of sweet lips so warm and red;
And our bosoms sadly, sadly
Miss that darling little head,
Which was wont to rest there sweetly;
And those golden eyes so bright.
We shall miss their loving glances,
We shall miss their soft "Good Night."

When the morrow's sun is shining,
They will take the cherished form,
Tie it to their hearts, and bring
And comfort to the worm—
Well—what's matter? It is only
The clay dress our darling wore;
God hath raised her as an angel,
She hath need of this no more.
Fold her hands, and o'er her pillow
Scatter flowers all pure and white,
Kiss that marble brow, and whisper,
Once again, a last "Good Night."

Perseverance.

BY CHARLES SWAIN.

Take the spade of Perseverance,
Dig the field of Progress wide;
Every bar to true instruction
Carry out and cast aside;
Every stubborn weed of error
Every need that hurts the soil,
Tares whose very growth is terror,
Dig them out, what'er the toil!

Give the stream of Education
Broader channel, bolder force;
Hurl the stones of Persecution
Out where'er they block its course;
Seek for strength in self exertion;
Work and still have faith to wait;
Close the crooked gate to fortune,
Make the road to honor straight!

Men are agents for the Future!
As they work, so ages win
Either harvest of advancement,
Or the product of their sin!
Follow out true cultivation;
Widen Education's plan;
From the majesty of Nature
Teach the majesty of Man!

Moonlight.

The silver moon into that winding dell,
With slanted gleam athwart the forest tops,
Temper'd like golden evening, feebly full;
A green and glowing light, like that which drops
From folded lilles in which glow worms dwell,
When over her face night's mantle wraps;
Between the sever'd mountains lay on high
Over the stream, a narrow rift of sky.

Anecdotes.

A young gentleman was about making an excursion for fish, and on one of the thoroughfares to the lake he met and made the acquaintance of a lady, Mary Pike by name, with whom he became very much pleased, and with whom he could not part without some pangs of sadness. He expressed a hope that he might hear from her occasionally. To which she replied, that "if he was not successful in taking fish at the lakes, she had not any objection to his dropping a line to her."

A rich man once asked the poet Sadi why the learned were so often seen at the door of the wealthy, while the wealthy were never seen entering the portals of the learned. "It is," said Sadi, "because learned men know the value of riches, but the rich are ignorant of the value of knowledge."

A Yankee and Southerner were playing poker on a steamboat.

"I hav'n't seen an ace for some time," remarked the Southerner.

"Well I guess you haín't," said the Yankee, but I can tell you where they are. One of them is up your coat sleeve there, and the other three are in the top of my boots."

A very pretty young woman went to the post-office, with a letter and no direction, and said to the postmaster: "Send that to my sweetheart!" The postmaster took it, looked at it, and said: "What is his name, and where does he live?" The girl replied: "Ah, that is the very thing I don't want any one to know?"

Judge Jeffries, of notorious memory, pointing with his cane to a man who was about to be tried, said, "there is a rogue at the end of my cane."

The man to whom he pointed, looking at him, said—

"At which end, my lord?"

"I would advise you to put your head into a dye-tub, it's rather red," said a joker to a sandy girl. "I would advise you to put yours into an oven, it's rather soft," said Nancy.

"Ah, sir," said an usher, as he flourished the cane over a boy who struggled greatly, "you may shuffle, but I'll cut."

QUINCY PATRIOT.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, June 3d, 1854.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS. It has long seemed to us that a meeting of the fraternity of Norfolk and Plymouth Counties would be productive of advantage. Some general system may be hit upon and adopted whereby their interests may be advanced. Certainly there is no class of men so poorly compensated for the labor performed and good effected as printers and editors of country newspapers. It is well to try and mend our fortunes.

We would suggest, therefore, that there be such meeting called. As to the time and place of meeting we have no special preference. Quincy is as convenient a place as any that occurs to our mind at the present time. We wait for some suggestions from our co-temporaries.

CONCERT. In to-day's paper, there is a notice of a concert to be given, this evening, at the Town Hall, which should be well attended.

The school have taken this step in the hopes of getting some pecuniary encouragement for the expense they have incurred, and we think a liberal benefit should be extended to them, for their assiduous and successful efforts. Singing has been much neglected in this town, but it should be fostered, as it tends to throw a heavenly charm into every circle where it is practised. In order to have good singing, all engaged should be generously sustained by the public. The Club from Weymouth, which is to assist them, stands eminent in the rank of singing societies, and will perform many choice and admired pieces.

MILITARY. The Mechanic Infantry of Boston, Capt. Adams, a company of worthy mechanics, visited this town, on Wednesday last, being their annual May parade, for target practice, etc. The target was completely riddled, showing that they were good marksmen, as their evolutions evinced a thorough knowledge of military tactics. The first prize of a gold medal was won by Private William F. Alden, and the second, a silver one, by Private Ezra J. Perkins.

The company dined at the Hancock House, and the tables were sumptuously furnished with the choice delicacies of the season, and in the renowned style which distinguishes Col. French. They feasted to their entire satisfaction, and closed by remarks and sentiments from officers, past and active members, and others.

Under the efficient discipline of so good a commander as Capt. Adams, the Mechanic's Infantry cannot fail to become the best company in the Boston Brigade.

CLAM CHOWDER. "Tom Muddie" once made the remark, while busily engaged in the destruction of chowder: "What a fool I have been, to live so long as I have, and not know what chowder is till now!" The fact is, thousands have partaken of that which for the sake of a name, is called such, and yet have never had the felicity of enjoying the Simon Pure. Now, friend French of the Granite Saloon, serves up the 'real stuff' this evening, in a style not to be surpassed. It doesn't satisfy one's appetite, however; for the more a person eats of it the more he wants. Chowder is getting to be a fashionable dish.

GLEASON'S PICTORIAL. This favorite illustrated journal, forming sixteen octavo pages weekly, commences a new volume July 1st, being the seventh volume of the work. It comes to us regularly freighted with its foreign and home illustrations, and a fund of excellent original reading matter. It is edited by Martin M. Ballou, a gentleman long connected with the Boston press, and published by F. Gleason, Boston, at $3 per annum, or $1 50 for six months. Clubs of ten subscribers taken at the rate of $2 00 per annum.

FUGITIVE SLAVE EXCITEMENT. The slave, arrested in Boston last week, has been under examination up to the present time, amid much excitement and riotous proceedings. Several companies of United States marines have been quartered in the Court House, and a portion of the Boston Brigade have been on constant duty, to preserve order and prevent his rescue. On Friday night of last week, an officer, in the discharge of his duty, was killed, and several of the mob arrested for murdering him.

Yesterday afternoon, the Commissioner decided that the slave must be returned to his master, and to preserve order and prevent his rescue, the Boston Brigade were under arms.

PETERSON'S LADIES' NATIONAL MAGAZINE. The July number commences a new volume of this excellent publication, so that now is the time to subscribe. Terms, one copy for one year, $2 00, three copies for $5 00, and eight copies for $10 00, with a handsome premium to every person getting up a club. Address, postpaid, Charles J. Peterson, No. 102 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

While the Roman Catholic population of England is one out of every twenty-one of the whole people, it furnishes one-seventh of all the prisoners, producing three criminals where all other classes, religious or irreligious, produce but one.

TIGER ENGINE COMPANY. At the annual meeting, the following gentlemen were chosen to office:

Foreman—Edward A. Spear,
First Assistant—William Parker, Jr.
Second Assistant—George Crane.
Clerk and Treasurer—Franklin Curtis.
Leading Hosemen—William Curtis, Daniel Fish, Gilbert Blaisdell. H. A. C. Adams, George Hobart, Frederick Hardwick, Jr.
Second Hosemen—Samuel V. Hardwick, John Jacobs, Amos Litchfield, Albert Keating.
Standing Committee—Ensign S. Fellows, Franklin Curtis, George Crane.

Stevedore—Gilbert Blaisdell.
Members are notified that their monthly meeting takes place on next Monday, at sunset. A punctual attendance is requested.

HUNT'S MERCHANTS' MAGAZINE. The Hon. Charles Sumner, the accomplished scholar, orator and statesman, pays a just tribute to the character of the Merchants' Magazine, and its efficient editor, FREEMAN HUNT, in the following well-chosen and appropriate words:

Senate Chamber, 4th May, 1854.

MY DEAR Sir:—Too tardily, but sincerely, I offer my acknowledgements for the satisfaction afforded by your invaluable Magazine. To me it always comes with welcome knowledge diversified as the important subjects it treats, and tempered by that candor which is the companion of truth. For myself, I thank you; and I cannot doubt that all familiar with it—whether merchant, lawyer, public servant or artisan—will be ready to hail you as "guide, philosopher and friend."

Believe me, Dear Sir,
With much regard,

Very faithfully yours,
CHARLES SUMNER,
FREEMAN-HUNT, Esq.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE. No. 524 of this indispensable magazine contains a biography of Jenny Lind, illustrated with an excellent steel plate engraving, and other articles of merit and interest.

Boston: published weekly, by Littell, Son & Company, at $6 per annum, free of postage.

UNPROVOKED ASSAULT. By the annexed note, it will be perceived that peaceful citizens, while industriously pursuing their avocation, are not safe from brute molestation. What is the cause?

On Saturday afternoon last, a few minutes after five o'clock, as I was busily engaged in my work, painting fence for Mr. William Torry, I was seized by the shoulders and hurled into the street by a drunken Irishman.

Two others were in company. I inquired for his name, but could, nor did, get it.

I will give a reward of one dollar for information that will convict and punish the aggressor for the outrage. No serious damage was done, except the wall besmeared with black paint. This is the second time I have been insulted by that class of persons.

GEO. B. NIGHTINGALE.

CONGRESS. The Deficiency bill has finally passed Congress with appropriations to the amount of about $2,200,000.

SENTENCED. In Boston, on Monday last, James Wilson was sentenced to be hung for the murder of William Adams, a convict, in the precincts of the State Prison last July.

PROCLAMATION. The President has just issued a proclamation to the United States Marshals to prevent filibustering to Cuba, and warning adventurers of the consequences.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

Abel B. Munroe, Esq., a Native American, has been elected an Alderman of Boston, in the year 1850, and soon became a favorite beverage in the London coffee houses.

Capt. John S. Sleeper has retired from the Boston Journal, and his interest in the establishment passes into the hands of Henry Rogers, Jr., and Charles O. Rogers, heretofore partners therein. James A. Dix is to be his successor in the editorship.

Thomas Ritchie, Jr., one of the Editors of the Richmond Enquirer, and third son of Thomas Ritchie, Esq., died a few days since, in the thirty-sixth year of his age.

Government is now expending five thousand dollars in transplanting salt-grass on the shores of Cape Cod, in the vicinity of Provincetown. It is thought the grass will prevent the shifting of the beach sands by the action of the waves.

Eminent chemists assert that at least nine-tenths of all the liquor used in the United States is more or less drugged.

There are four hundred drug shops in the city of Providence, (R. I.) three fourths of which are kept by foreigners.

There are said to be seventeen thousand of the Jewish faith in the United States. Their churches number thirty.

While the Roman Catholic population of England is one out of every twenty-one of the whole people, it furnishes one-seventh of all the prisoners, producing three criminals where all other classes, religious or irreligious, produce but one.

A Cincinnati (Ohio) paper states that several thousand barrels of swine's blood is used in that city, every year, for the manufacture of sweet wine. That's an item for wine drinkers.

Sixty-two speeches were made in Congress in favor of the Nebraska Bill and seventy-six against it.

Russia is the greatest unbroken empire for extent that ever existed. It occupies vast regions of Europe and Asia, and forms nearly one-sixth of the habitable globe. It is forty-one times the size of France, and one hundred and thirty-eight times that of England.

Marshal Paskiewitsch, the commander-in-chief of the Russian army in the Principalities, is seventy years of age. He has seen many campaigns with France, Turkey, Persia, Poland and Hungary. It is said that he possesses unimpaired vigor of body and mind, and the firmest and most sedate spirit.

Members are notified that their monthly meeting takes place on next Monday, at sunset. A punctual attendance is requested.

Independent of the immense naval force

England has in actual service, there is a force in reserve at Portsmouth, Devonport, Chatham, and Sheerness of one hundred and sixty-one effective ships of the royal navy, carrying not less than 6,807 guns; and there are thirty-nine other vessels building, which are intended to carry 2,900 guns.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE. The June number has reached us, well filled with matter of sterling worth and illustrated by numerous beautiful engravings. It improves with each issue, and is now as brilliant as any publication of the kind.

Fetridge & Co., of Boston, are the Publishers' Agents, and it is for sale at the Quincy Bookstore.

FOREIGN NEWS. By the last arrival, we hear of some small battles which have taken place between Russia and her opponents, but no great action has been fought. Preparations for a decisive movement continue to be made.

CIRCUS. It will be seen, by reference to the advertisement in another column, that Spalding & Rogers' celebrated Circus Company will again visit this town on Saturday next and perform their wonderful feats. We predict a full house to witness them.

Special Notices.

A meeting of the Adams Literary Association will take place at their Hall, on MONDAY EVENING next, at 7-1/2 o'clock.

Have I Done What I Could?

I cannot draw the warrior's sword;
I would not if I could—
I may not give the thunder-word,
To drench the field with blood;
But I may act a warrior's part,
Within that listed field—the heart.

My path leads not through foreign lands,
O'er mountain, waste, or lea;
I wander not with pilgrim bands;
Nor can the world to see;
There may be gems of art in Rome,
But I have choicer gems at home.

I cannot plead with fervid tongue,
Nor strike the minstrel's lyre;
Or blend its magic tones with song,
To set the soul on fire;
But I may breathe a "still small voice,"
To make some aching heart rejoice.

'Tis not for me to paint the scene.
The artist's brush portrays—
The laughing hill, the meadow green,
The sun's cloud soft rays:
But, surely, I a sketch may paint
Of scenes to gladden lonely saint.

The sculptor's chisel is not mine,
Nor mine to mould the clay;
Or make the Parian marble shine
As with Promethean ray;
But is there no rude shapeless heart
On which to try the sculptor's art?

I am not skilled to heal disease,
To set the fractured limb;
I cannot stanch the crupper'd knees,
Or clear the eye-ball dim;
But I may play that art divine,
The art to pour the "oil and wine."

I have not wealth, or power, or skill,
To broadcast all around,
The world's wide field I may not till,
Nor sweep her fallen ground;
But little spots are here and there,
Which I may weep of grief or care.

The man of learning and of parts
Soars far above my path;
I cannot cope with stately hearts,
Who scorn my ember hearth;
Be mine while in this dreary wild
The lot to bless the poor man's child.

Bearing On.

Oh, never from thy tempted heart
Let thine integrity depart;
When disappointment fills thy cup,
Undaunted, nobly drink it up;
Truth will prevail, and justice show
Her tardy honors, sure, though slow,
Bear on, bear bravely on!

Bear on! our life is but a dream,
Though often such its maze seen;
We were not born to lives of ease,
Ourselves alone to aid and please.
To each a daily task is given,
A labor which shall fit for heaven;
When duty calls let love grow warm
Amid the sunshine and the storm,
With faith life's trials boldly breast,
And come a conqueror to thy rest—
Bear on, bear bravely on!

A Simile.

"A bee, while lay sleeping young Dolly,
Mistook her red lip for the rose;
There honey to seek were no folly—
No flower so sweet ever blows.
It tickled and waked her, when, clapping
Her hands on the impudent bee,
It stung her, and, by, a kick napping,
Came running and crying to me.
Said she, 'take the sting out I pray you,'
What way I was puzzled to try,
And a trifling wager I'll lay you,
You'd have been as puzzled as I.
I'd heard about sucking out poison—
A sting is a poisonous dart;
So I kissed her—the act was no wise one,
For the sting found its way to my heart!"

Anecdotes.

An Irishman discovered a part of the wood work of a chimney piece on fire, that endangered the whole house. He rushed up stairs to his master, and announced the alarming intelligence. Down he rushed with him. A large kettle of boiling water was on the fire. "Well, why don't you put out the fire?" "I can't, sir." "Why you fool, throw the water upon it." "Sure it's hot water, sir, and won't it make it burn the faster?"

"Annette, my dear, what country is opposite to us on the globe?" "Don't know, sir."

"Well, now," continued the perplexed teacher, "if I were to bore a hole through the earth, and you were to go in at this end, where would you come out?"

"Out of the hole, sir," replied the pupil with an air of triumph at having solved the great question.

"What shall I preach about?" inquired a clergyman, on a visit to a neighboring pastor, as they sat together in the pulpit. "Are the people who are here to-day, principally professors or non professors?" "Preach the gospel," was the reply; "they are all sinners, and they need it."

A gentleman finding his servant intoxicated, said:—"What drunk again, Sam? I scolded you for being drunk last night, and here you are drunk again." "No, massa," replied Sam; "same drunk! same drunk, massa!"

"Jake, did you carry that umbrella home that I borrowed?" "No, father, you have often told me to lay up something for a rainy day, and as I thought that it would rain before long, I have laid the umbrella up."

A young gentleman, feeling restless in church, leaned forward and addressed an old gentleman, thus—

"Pray sir, can you tell me a rule without an exception?"

"Yes, sir," he replied, "a gentleman always behaves well in church."

Miscellaneous.

The Three Homes.

It had been an uncommonly warm and sultry day, and as the cool air of evening swept onward, and fanned the brow of the heated laborers, they one and all thanked heaven that the toil of the day was over. But to none among the homeward bound did the evening breeze seem more refreshing than to those whose basket of tools denoted them carpenters. At the entrance of the village where they lived, Jones, Yates and Fields, separated, each to seek his own dwelling.

There was not a cleaner or neater abode in Bell Air than that awaiting the reception of Jones. Not a speck of dust dimmed the brilliancy of the windows; every article of furniture was polished till it shone like a mirror; fresh flowers breathed forth their fragrance from the chimney piece; a spotless cloth covered the little supper table, and Mrs. Jones and the children were as neat as it was possible to be.

"Well, Carrie," cried Fields, gaily, "here am I tired and hungry, wanting my supper, do you mean to give me any?"

"Why, if you behave yourself, I will!" she replied, in the same tone; and as it was all ready, you might as well have it now; I should think you needed it after so hot a day."

Far different was the scene that awaited Yates; his house was in disorder, his children untidy, and his wife absent. The last named evil was, however, soon remedied, for one of the children, despatched in quest of his mother, soon returned with her.

"You here already, Bill?" she exclaimed, rushing in breathlessly, in a dim and dirty gown. "I had no idea it was so late. Light the fire, that's a good boy, and we'll have supper."

"I am so tired, Mary, that I had rather do without supper," said Yates, throwing himself upon a seat.

"Are? Well, then, I'll make it," and as she hurried to light the fire, more than one piece of crockery was broken, having been put in an improper place.

"Where have you been?" inquired her husband.

"Just next door, to see poor Mrs. Brown's sick baby."

"Mother has been gone ever since two," claimed in a youngster.

"You abominable story teller, take that," and here the mother boxed his ears.

Time passed on, and Mrs. Yates grew more careless and fond of gossip; Mrs. Jones a more devoted house slave; and their husbands, as a necessary consequence, grew more attached to the ale-house company; while Carrie Fields pursued the even tenor of her way, contented, neat, cheerful and good tempered, working her house a heaven of peace and happiness, to which her husband ever returned with pleasure, and herself most happy in making him so.

One day Carrie was busily engaged in weeding her little garden, when Mrs. Yates passed by; and seeing her, paused to "chat a bit."

"You have not seen the new cloak Fields bought me on my birth-day," said Carrie.

"No, I've not, but I'll come in now," and Mrs. Yates entered.

"Upon my word, it's a pretty cloak—I wish I could afford such a one," said Mrs. Yates. "And how nice you have everything around you. I wish I could be as comfortable."

"And why should you not?" said Carrie; "your husband has the same wages as mine."

"Ah, your husband does not spend so much time at the public house."

"No, he never enters it."

"And yet, when we were first married, everybody said mine was the best match, because Yates was the steadiest man. I cannot think how you manage to keep him so much at home with you."

"By making it neat, clean and comfortable, by letting him find his supper waiting for him, and his wife and children ready to welcome him and keep him company."

But the affectionate tones of the last words exercised no softening influence upon the roused spirit of the indignant wife, and a quarrel ensued which ended in Yates taking his hat, and finding at the public house the comfort he could not find in his own.

Meanwhile Jones passed through his trim little garden, entered his pretty cottage home, and sitting down his basket seated himself by the window.

"Oh, Jones, you didn't wipe your feet when you came in," was his wife's salutation as she entered the room.

NUMBER XXIII.

Worth Makes the Man.

"Worth makes the man,
And want of it the fellow;
All the rest, is but leather, or prunello."

No matter how much the present age may seem to contradict the sentiment contained in the above lines, yet it is nevertheless true. Yes, "Worth makes the man," the world over. Well, who is the man of worth? Is he confined to a certain class, creed or system? Is he only found among the rich or always in indigent or moderate circumstances? We answer no. He may be as rich as Croesus, or he may not have a dollar, of what the world calls wealth. The man of worth, of all others, is free to act, possessing a spirit, free as the air he breathes, which chains, nor intrigue, nor intimidations, cannot bind. He despises alike every form of oppression, whether foreign or domestic, political or religious. Whatever circumstances may oppose him, he acts from a sense of duty—from a fixed principle of right. The man of worth, he is a man of soul—a man of feeling—such is he, who can feel for another's woes. He acts upon the principle that all mankind are brothers—is a fellow being in distress or degraded! it touches a chord in his heart, that he feels should vibrate through the whole family—He's a brother! he's a brother!! With him there is no high, no low, only as weighed in the scale of worth; he

The fact is, the true philosophy is, to help our own. To encourage our own mechanics is to give life to a home business. The money which is expended here, is re-invested, and kept moving. In some form, a portion of it comes back to us again, and individual advantage is promoted in the general prosperity.—Exchange paper.

"BORN TO NO MASTERS, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

COMMERCIAL EDUCATION. We have recently visited Comer's Commercial College in Boston, and have been much gratified to find that a thorough commercial education is there so successfully and systematically imparted. A youth can commence there at the lowest branches and be gradually instructed until fully competent for the duties of the counting-room or for professional life. In addition to Penmanship, Book-keeping, and the other English branches, Navigation, the higher Mathematics, Classics and Modern Languages, are taught by the best masters. Each student receives separate instruction, and is thus taught to rely upon himself. The rapid progress pupils make under this excellent discipline, is remarkable. We know of no better school at which to educate a lad—to those more advanced it is an essential benefit. The merchants of Boston have long been aware of the advantages of the Institution and resort there first for clerks, so that the young man not only receives instruction, but in all probability, a good situation, in which to put his knowledge into practice. Mr. Comer, the principal, is a gentleman and a scholar. We commend his establishment to the patronage of all persons seeking either education or employment.

HUNT'S MERCHANTS' MAGAZINE. The June number of this standard periodical completes the thirtieth semi-annual volume, and the fifteenth year of its existence. It maintains with singular regularity, the high character, it took from its commencement in 1839, and we are gratified to learn that its subscription list exhibits an annual net gain over preceding years. The leading articles in the present number relate to the Camel and its commercial value; Commerce of the United States, the eighth of a series of papers of a historical and statistical character; Pittsburgh—its Commerce, Products, and Manufacturing Resources; and the Maine Liquor Law—its results, as a new element in the commercial and industrial interests of our country, being a reply by the Hon. Neal Dow, late Mayor of Portland, to an article in a former number of the Magazine, on the Liquor Trade in the United States, and the Opium Trade in China, from the pen of Hon. F. O. J. Smith of Maine. The remainder of the number, more than one-half, is occupied with Mercantile Law Cases, the usual Commercial Chronicle and Review; Statistics of Banking, Finance, Currency, Mining, Manufactures and Insurance; Commercial Regulations; Nautical Intelligence; Statistics of Population; Mercantile Miscellanies, and the Book Trade. A new volume commences with July, and affords a fresh opportunity for new subscribers to commence a work of increasing value and interest.

THE SACRED CIRCLE. We have received the first number of the "Sacred Circle," a periodical just issued, having for its purposes to advance Truth in every form and shape; to discuss Radical Reform—the reform of the times—and besides many other things, "to form new relations, based on Spiritual Philosophy." Several distinguished men contribute to its columns. Judge Edmunds of New York, is one of its editors. This number of the Circle contains many interesting articles, setting forth the principles of Spiritual Philosophy.

"To advocate liberty, positively and unhesitatingly, in the full and in the abstract," is one of the objects of the proprietors. In looking around the circle we found no article in favor of liberty "in the full." No mention was made of the Fugitive Slave Law.

RIOT IN BROOKLYN, (N. Y.) A serious riot occurred in Brooklyn, on Sunday afternoon last, growing out of street preaching. A Methodist minister having delivered a sermon, procession of hearers from New York City was assaulted by the Irish, and a general rout took place, in the course of which two or three persons were dangerously, and severely wounded.

The street meetings now so rife in large places are occasions of more or less disturbance, although Catholic priests enjoin on their people to keep away from them.

CLAM CHOWDER. We are requested to state, that the Clam Chowder, prepared at the Granite Saloon, will be ready at ten o'clock this morning, and families supplied with dinners by sending their orders at that time. That it will be good, all who have partaken of previous ones, can bear testimony.

CHEERING. The wheat crops of Tennessee promise an abundant harvest. New wheat has already been gathered near Augusta, (Ga.) and is fully equal to the best Genesee. It never was ripe so early before.

From all parts of the country, cheering intelligence reaches us of the prospect of an abundant harvest.

THE SLAVE RIOTERS. In Boston, the examination of the dozen men charged with being concerned in the murder of Batchelder, an assistant of the United States Marshal, has been finished. Four were committed for trial, and two others were discharged. Five others, acquitted on the murder complaint, have been arraigned for trial.

NEW JUVENILE MAGAZINE. Wm. Guild & Co., 156 Washington street, Boston, have commenced the publication of an illustrated magazine for young persons. It is called "The Monthly Instructor and Fire-Side Companion." The editor is Mark Forrester, and the publisher is George Washington and Benjamin Franklin. Such men as George Washington and Benj. Franklin were not afraid to change their opinions when they saw that they were mistaken. They were truly great men. But that class of men who control the affairs of a town are often too big to change their positions. It was my misfortune, at the beginning of my first letter, not to know who the committee were. Had I ever heard, or had it been intimated to me, that they were great men, I should have hesitated long before I should have dared to call in question their rightness decision. I felt a little mortified that my notice was taken of my letter, but since a friend explained the reason why no reply was made, I feel a little relieved. It turns out that there are two on the committee who can write, and these two know nothing about the real merits of the affair. I excuse the others on the above ground.

AN EXCELLENT PUBLICATION. The first number of the "United States Magazine," devoted to "Science, Art, Manufactures, Agriculture, Commerce and Trade," has just been started in New York City, under very encouraging auspices, by A. Jones & Co., at the low price of one dollar per year, and is published on the fifteenth of each month. Its pages are richly stored with the best articles on various subjects, fully sustaining the object set forth in the prospectus, and with the neat and appropriate embellishments, render it a periodical well worth the support of the public who seek for the solid and instructive intelligence.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE. No. 525 contains several interesting papers, among which are "French Protestant Refugees," "Theodore Parker," and "The War between Turkey and Russia." The illustration—"Love's First Dream" is a fine steel engraving.

Subscribers to the Age, if we are to judge from our case, will find it difficult to get back numbers, if perchance they should fail to receive them regularly.

RIGHT VIEW. Hiram Fuller, Esq., the able editor of the New York Mirror, in some sensible remarks on the Nebraska bill, says that "Denuded of the 'Clayton Amendment,' it will prove a barren victory to the South. The Dutch and Irish aliens, who are the 'natural enemies' of negroes, will forever banish Slavery from the new Territories."

APPOINTMENT OF SENATOR. The Governor and Council have appointed Hon. Julius Rockwell, of Pittsfield, to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate, occasioned by the resignation of Hon. Edward Everett. He was Speaker of the Massachusetts House of Representatives for several years, and has served eight years in Congress.

GOT TIRED. Congress has taken a recess till after the twelfth of June, preparatory to the summer session. Senator Douglass has introduced a bill, providing that Congress shall hereafter assemble on the first Monday of October.

PUTNAM'S MONTHLY. The June number of this work presents an excellent variety of interesting papers,—"Stage Coach Stories," "Manners," "Dick Pastel's Story," and "Comte's Philosophy." The articles in Putnam generally evince good taste, and the spirit of the work is well sustained.

Ferrige & Co. of Boston, Agents for the Publishers, and for sale at the Quincy Book-store.

VACANCY FILLED. At a meeting of the Supervisors of the Adams Temple and School Fund, held on Wednesday last, Geo. White, Esq. was elected Supervisor in the place of Hon. Thomas Greenleaf, deceased.

THE CIRCUS. This day, about nine o'clock, Spalding & Rogers' celebrated Circus Company will enter the town, and locate themselves for an afternoon and evening exhibition of their truly novel and wonderful effects. Since their last visit, they have enlarged and added other attractions, rendering their company the best in the country. As their performances will excite any other exhibition of the kind, we can cheerfully invite all, who may wish to see many curious and interesting movements—yes, instructive illustrations of life, to visit their place of amusement.

The Circus will be located on the ground opposite the house of Mr. J. M. Beckford.

EDITORS AND PUBLISHERS. We are glad to notice that the Plymouth Rock approves of a meeting to talk over matters for mutual advantages.

We have not heard from the rest of our contemporaries, but have no doubt that they heartily concur in the movement.

If no objection is urged, we will next week name a place and time for said meeting.

For the Patriot.

West District School House.

MR. EDITOR:—In my last letter I endeavored to present the troubles of the West District in their true colors. I confess, however, that I was apprehensive that it was too late to open the question. I knew also, from some little experience in such matters, that it is very difficult to induce prejudiced men to change their opinions. The committee who recommended the locality are very respectable men, and of course they can't change their opinions. Such men as George Washington and Benj. Franklin were not afraid to change their opinions when they saw that they were mistaken. They were truly great men. But that class of men who control the affairs of a town are often too big to change their positions. It was my misfortune, at the beginning of my first letter, not to know who the committee were. Had I ever heard, or had it been intimated to me, that they were great men, I should have hesitated long before I should have dared to call in question their rightness decision. I felt a little mortified that my notice was taken of my letter, but since a friend explained the reason why no reply was made, I feel a little relieved. It turns out that there are two on the committee who can write, and these two know nothing about the real merits of the affair. I excuse the others on the above ground.

A meeting of the Adams Literary Association will take place at their Hall, on MONDAY EVENING next, at 7-1/2 o'clock. C. C. BRACKETT, President. G. P. HARDWICK Secretary.

A CARD. The Officers and Members of the Native American Engine Company, No. 5, take this method of presenting their thanks to the Niagara Engine Company, No. 1, for the assistance given them on Monday evening last;—also for the use of their Hall, on Tuesday evening. Per order. J. D. BARTLETT, Clerk. Quincey, June 10.

It is said there is no country in the world which consumes more soap in proportion to the number of its population than Hayti. About three million pounds of this article are annually imported from the United States alone.

After a contest of nearly a year, between labor and capital in the manufacturing districts of Lancashire, England, the operatives have exhausted their funds and will have to go to work.

A Grand National Cattle Show will be held on the 25th, 26th and 27th days of October, under the direction of the United States Agricultural Society, in the city of Springfield, Clark County, Ohio.

It is said that the Adams & Co. Express have over eight hundred thousand dollars in money, uncalled for, at their different offices.

Ninety-five columns of unclaimed letters are advertised for one month in the Melbourne (Australia) Post-office.

Gov. Bigler of Pennsylvania, has signed the bill submitting to the people the law prohibiting the sale of liquor in that State.

Beer is higher than ever in New York City. The best pieces are scarce at twenty-five cents per pound.

The extra appropriations for the War Department for Great Britain, asked for by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, amount to twenty millions dollars, and the cost of transporting each cavalry soldier from England to the seat of war on the Danube will be five hundred dollars.

It is stated that Burns, the fugitive slave, was a regular ordained and practising Minister of the Baptist persuasion.

Mrs. Emily C. Judson, widow of the late Dr. Judson, missionary, but, better known as "Fanny Forrester," died of consumption, in New York State, a short time since.

Three fugitive slaves lately passed through Syracuse (N. Y.) en route for Canada. Three more have passed through Worcester (Mass.) within a few days.

At a meeting of the officers of the first battalion of Light Dragoons, in Boston, a committee was chosen to confer with the other officers of the first division, for the purpose of obtaining funds for the purchase of Burns, the fugitive slave.

At the death of a man, his property descends to the Mormon Church, his wife and children not being recognized as heirs. The Church is the sole heir to all property.

MR. EDITOR:—I presume no one will deny that there is a clause in the Constitution, which requires the rendition of all persons escaping from one State to another, who owe service to claimants from the State whence they escaped. This is a duty imposed by the Constitution upon each and all of the States of the Union.

I presume to say, also, that no man, who has read the evidence given in before the Supreme Court has decreed a perpetual injunction upon the Cochituate Bank, of Boston, and ordered the Receivers to proceed according to law in forthwith winding up the institution.

Tolls have been imposed upon the Charles-ton bridges. It is said this measure is increasing the feeling in favor of annexation.

The first American vessel was launched in 1797. The first steamer in 1814.

On the day of the general Fast in England, a contribution was taken in the churches for wives, widows and children of the soldiers and sailors of the kingdom now at war. It nearly amounted to five hundred thousand dollars.

Marion, (S. C.) a boy of fourteen years having a slight quarrel with his cousin, aged twelve years, shot him dead.

A large elephant lately got away from a menagerie, between Pawtucket and Fall River, and before he was secured, killed three horses, smashed wagons, and seriously injured two men who were in the wagons.

De

Poetry.

For the Quincy Patriot.
Lady Franklin.
BY F. M. ADLINGTON—WEYMOUTH.

Not yet, not yet—he comes not yet,
My anxious prayers are all in vain;
With tears my cheeks are daily wet,
Which even hope cannot restrain.

Where is he? Where is my dear lord?

The idol of my trusting heart!

Gone to receive the great reward

Of those who nobly act their part?

Perhaps the last of all his crew,

He laid him on the wreck to die;

To home and country ever true,

For them he breath'd his latest sigh.

And well may home and country mourn,

And of their Hero still be proud,

If far on Northern Ocean borne,

The closing ice should be his shroud.

But hope still whispers trust again;

A gracious God is everywhere;

His mighty Arm may break the chain,

And free the sufferers from despair.

In some lone Bay he may be found,

Hem'd in with ice compact as steel,

Or girt with lofty icebergs round,

Cold as the heart that cannot feel.

He may be found—the thrilling hope

Is flitting through my fever'd brain,

While reason gives to fancy scope,

And brings him to my arms again.

Ye noble souls who freely sought

A rescue for your kindred braves,

May Victory, by your daring bought,

Bring you exulting o'er the waves.

Go Ahead.

Go ahead—and do not tarry,
Nought is gained by standing still;
What though you at times miscarry,
Let not fears your bosom fill.
Search the causes of your errors,
Gather wisdom from the past,
To the wind give the terrors,
And you'll get ahead at last.

Go ahead—in useful doings,
Let your motto be "I'll try;"
He whores is desiring,
Bankrupt hearts and hopes are nigh.
What though you and wealth be strangers—
Oward, onward be your aim,
And those real or fancied dangers
Soon you'll put to flight or shame.

Go ahead—the world reforming,
In civil, moral, freedom's name;
All those forts and outposts storming,
Which your enemies may claim.
Yield no bulwark, take no charter,
Compromise no cherished right,
Freedom's treaties never bate,
But stand forever with all your might.

Go ahead, then—don't defer it,
Life's short span soon flies away;
If you don't play your hand today,
Set the ball in motion.
To keep it going, strain each nerve,
Nor doubt that ultimate promotion
Will yield the laurels you deserve.

Anerdotes.

"Grandfather," said a saucy little boy, "how old are you?" The old gentleman, who had been a soldier, and was much under the ordinary size, took the child between his knees, and said: "My dear boy, I am ninety-five years old, but why do you ask?" The little fellow, with the importance of a Napoleon, replied, "Well, it appears to me you are remarkably small of your age?"

A gentleman, on parting with a lady, gave and received—as he supposed—a kiss of friendship. After the door closed, he overheard the following:

"Why, Lucy, ain't you ashamed to kiss a man, all alone with him?"

"No, ma, I am not," answered Lucy, "for I only kissed him to smell his breath, to see if he had been drinking."

"Uncle," said a young man, who thought that his guardian supplied him rather seldom with pocket-money, and felt a little hesitation in beginning to make a request on his relative's generosity, "is the queen's head still on the shilling piece?"

"Of course it is, you stupid lad, why do you ask that?"

"Because it is now such a length of time since I saw one."

"When a stranger treats me with want of respect," said a poor philosopher, "I comfort myself with the reflection, that it is not myself he slighted, but my old and shabby coat and hat, which, to say the truth, have no particular claim for admiration. So if my hat and coat choose to fret about it, let them; but it is nothing to me."

"I am going to the post-office, Bob; shall I inquire for you?"

"Well, yes, you may inquire for me if you have a mind to, but I don't think you will find me there!"

"A tuppenny, your honor," exclaimed a sturdy beggar, at a stage-coach door in Ireland, to a Scotchman with fiery ringlets, but who was quite insensible to the appeal; a tuppenny, your honor; a tuppenny, or a penny, or a halfpenny, please ye." Finding the Scot inexorable, the beggar altered his tone, and said—"Will your honor lend me a lock of your hair to light my pipe with?"

"I always think," said a reverend guest, "that a certain quantity of wine does no harm after dinner."

"Oh, no sir," responded the host, "it is the un-certain quantity that does the mischief."

"Why does father call mother honey?" asked a boy of his eldest brother.

"Can't think, 'cept it's because she has a large comb in her head."

QUINCY PATRIOT.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, June 17th, 1854.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

INFANTICIDE. A full grown male child, of healthy appearance, was found dead a few feet from the highway, in the wood, opposite the dwelling house of Mr. Thomas Pray, in Quincy, April 17th.

Which even hope cannot restrain.
Where is he? Where is my dear lord?
The idol of my trusting heart!

Gone to receive the great reward
Of those who nobly act their part?

Perhaps the last of all his crew,
He laid him on the wreck to die;

To home and country ever true,
For them he breath'd his latest sigh.

And well may home and country mourn,
And of their Hero still be proud,

If far on Northern Ocean borne,
The closing ice should be his shroud.

But hope still whispers trust again;
A gracious God is everywhere;

His mighty Arm may break the chain,
And free the sufferers from despair.

In some lone Bay he may be found,
Hemm'd in with ice compact as steel,

Or girt with lofty icebergs round,
Cold as the heart that cannot feel.

He may be found—the thrilling hope
Is flitting through my fever'd brain,

While reason gives to fancy scope,
And brings him to my arms again.

Ye noble souls who freely sought
A rescue for your kindred braves,
May Victory, by your daring bought,
Bring you exulting o'er the waves.

Go Ahead.

Go ahead—and do not tarry,
Nought is gained by standing still;

We're to sell again for one year.

John Doody of this town, was also fined ten dollars and costs for violation of the liquor law, and also recognized to the amount of one thousand dollars not to sell again for one year.

TACK-MAKERS' CONVENTION. The Tack-makers of Taunton, Abington, Braintree, Bridgewater, and other places, nearly one hundred in number, held a Convention at Bridgewater on the 9th inst., and adopted a scale of prices, making an average advance of ten or twelve per cent. upon the present prices of manufacture, and passed resolutions to adhere to and sustain the prices agreed upon.

FLORA LYNDSTAD; OR PASSAGES IN AN EVENTFUL LIFE. De Wit & Davenport, New York City, Publishers. Price 50 cents.

Mrs. Moodie acquired a most enviable reputation by her "Roughing it in the Bush," being a description of the trials, hardships, and privations that she underwent in a new and half settled country; both herself and husband being alike by education and habits ill qualified for the task which they had undertaken.

The simple, unadorned manner in which she described all their mishaps, took wonderfully with the public, and the book had a large run. "Flora Lyndsay" is, in fact, an auto-biography of our authoress, under the slight disguise of an assumed name; giving the history of her eventful life before she left England, and the causes which led her and her husband to leave the land of their birth and transport themselves to the uncultivated wilds of the western world.

The events that transpired prior to her leaving are intensely interesting, and the characters introduced most original, and some of them exceedingly humorous. Her account, also, of a long, tedious and perilous voyage, and the persons and actions of her fellow passengers, is decidedly graphic. We have never read any work of fiction that interested us half so much as these evidently truthful narrations.

There is a great deal of dry, quiet humor about Mrs. Moodie that keeps one in good spirits all through the book. All who have read "Roughing it in the Bush" will be desirous to know what transpired in the life of their excellent friend before coming to America, while all those also who are fond of a delightful story, will buy it. So we predict for the work a much more extended sale than is usual. There is also one feature in the case that is gratifying; the publishers have made an arrangement by which the authoress will receive a portion of the profits that may accrue from the sale of the work.

IMPORTANT ADJUSTMENT. The fishery and Canadian reciprocity negotiations at Washington are finally concluded. The navigation of the St. Lawrence is made free; the United States are allowed unrestricted participation in the fisheries, and free trade is established with Canada in all the natural products, excluding manufactures. The treaty must be acted upon by Congress and the British colonial government before it can be complete.

STUBBORN. Thomas Garity, fourteen years of age, on complaint of his father, Michael Garity, before Wm. S. Morton, Esq., for disobedience, was sentenced to the State Reform School at Westboro', during his minority.

Cities and Towns may appoint a Superintendent of Schools, to be under the direction of the School Committee, or rather cities and towns may require their School Committees to make such appointment.

Some material alterations have been made in the Militia Laws.

MILTON HORSE POWER RAILROAD. The persons incorporated under this title have held a meeting and organized. It was well attended, and the prospect now is that the project will be carried forward energetically.

The plan is to lay the rails over the Dorchester Turnpike, connecting at South Boston with the horse power railroad authorized from that portion of the city, and reaching the lower part of State through Broad street.

TREATY WITH JAPAN. Com. Perry, of the United States Naval Expedition, has finally succeeded in establishing friendly relations with the Japanese. In about one year our merchantmen will be able to enter and do business in several of the ports of that empire hitherto closed to commerce.

LOST AND FOUND. On Thursday of last week, a five hundred dollar note on the Bank of North America was lost in State street, Boston, belonging to Messrs. Blanchard, Inverno & Co. On the Saturday morning following, it was found close to the sidewalk, nearly covered with dirt, and badly torn, by Lewis Bass, Jr. (a son of Lewis Bass, Esq., of this town), who returned it to the above-named firm, by whom he was liberally rewarded.

Summary of Intelligence.

ORIGINAL AND SELECTED.

It appears there have been six gentlemen elected to the mayoralty of Washington, (D. C.) at different periods, who were printers by profession. Their names are Roger C. Weightman, Daniel Rappine, Joseph Gales, W. S. Seaton, Peter Force and John T. Towers.

CLAM CHOWDER. This favorite dish will be served up this evening, at the Granite Saloon, in Mr. French's usual style.

The Fugitive Slave Law.

To the Editor of the Quincy Patriot:

A fair specimen of Virginia logic was given by a correspondent of the Patriot in the last number. He very appropriately submitted himself Douglas. "No person," says the Constitution of the United States, "shall be deprived of his life, liberty, or property, without due process of law"—that is, "trial by jury." In all attempts to deprive a man of his life or property it is obvious, a trial by jury shall be his of right—and so in an attempt to deprive a person of his liberty, a trial by jury is to be granted as a right. Now "Douglas," instead of denying that the Constitution grants a trial by jury, to try and determine the question whether a person owes service or labor—that is, whether the person claimed shall be deprived of his liberty, he proceeds to denounce the institution of trial by jury, and to impugn the integrity of juries.

Dr. Augustus Plimpton, a regular physician, of extensive practice and long standing, in Woburn, (Mass.) died this week, of cholera, after an illness of eighteen hours.

There are fourteen hundred and seventy-five churches in Massachusetts, forty-one of which are Roman Catholic.

The Chicago Democrat thinks the population of that city, by the first of January next, will be one hundred thousand.

The citizens of Providence, (R. I.) have wisely concluded not to sit in sackcloth and ashes on the Fourth of July. The City Council has reconsidered their former vote on the subject and appropriated two thousand dollars for a celebration.

In Florence, iron rings are fastened in the floors when the carpets are laid, and they have large hooks in the binding, for which these rings are eyes; so that there is no taking out and mauling in of tacks; and carpets are raised, and laid as noiselessly and easily as bed-covers.

At Constantinople and the adjacent ports an American ham is worth five dollars; a six cent bottle of ale, fifty cents; and a two pound cheese, two dollars.

The ability of negroes to "take care of themselves" is well proved in San Francisco, where there are fifteen hundred of them, owning property to the amount of $1,000,000.

The proposed Fair in Marshfield, for the improvement of the old Winslow burying ground, which contains the tomb of Webster, will be opened on Wednesday and Thursday, Aug. 23d and 24th.

The Washington (D. C.) Star says that the Department considers the loss of a mail key by a Postmaster, in the absence of full and satisfactory explanation, as a sufficient cause for his removal.

It is estimated by the most experienced agriculturists in the country, that the span worm and caterpillar damage our crops to the amount of $100,000,000 annually.

The Crystal Palace in London, (Eng.) covered twenty acres; that of New York covers two acres and a half. That cost £176,000; this at least $300,000. That occupied eight months in its erection; this about one year.

The new Mayor of Washington, (D. C.) T. W. Higginson of Worcester, has been arrested in that city, by an officer of Boston, charged with participation in the Court House riot. He waived an examination, and gave bail in three thousand dollars for his appearance at the Municipal Court for trial.

GREAT TEMPERANCE CONVENTION. We learn that the most extensive arrangements have been made for a large State Temperance Convention, to be held in Lowell, commencing on the evening of the 20th, and continuing through the 21st day and evening.

The State has made a heavy loan to construct the Hoosac Tunnel.

All Banks of Discount are to be closely looked after. Returns are to be made every Monday morning, under oath, of the condition of the Boston Banks, and once a month, of all the Banks in the State, out of Boston.

The Governor's Salary is raised from $2500 to $3500 per annum.

Cities and Towns may appoint a Superintendent of Schools, to be under the direction of the School Committee, or rather cities and towns may require their School Committees to make such appointment.

Some material alterations have been made in the Militia Laws.

THE LONDON DAILY TIMES. The amount of money in active circulation in the United States, is estimated at $295,477,257, which, reckoning the population at 25,000,000, would make twelve dollars per head. It was but $5 50 in 1830.

The London Daily Times has a circulation of sixty thousand copies; the Philadelphia Daily Ledger has a circulation of fifty thousand. The New York Weekly Tribune has a larger circulation than any other general newspaper in the world. It now circulates one hundred and ten thousand copies.

Three murderers were sentenced at New Orleans, during the week ending June 3d, two of them for murdering their wives.

William F. Ritchie, an editor of the Richmond, (Va.) Enquirer, has been married at Ravenswood, (L. I.) to Mrs. Anna Cora Mowatt.

Late intelligence from Texas indicates the commencement of a general Indian war along the entire frontier of that State.

JUDICIAL OPINION. Hon. A. D. Smith, Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the State of Wisconsin, ordered a discharge in the case of a fugitive, on the ground both of the defectiveness of the warrant and the unconstitutionality of the Fugitive Act of 1850.—

First.—That Congress has no constitutional power to legislate on the subject of reclaiming fugitives.

Second.—Nor to clothe Court Commissioners with the power to determine the liberties of the people.

Third.—Because the Act denied the right of trial by jury.

The rates of fare upon the Eastern Railroad were increased on the first instant.

The Enfield (Conn.) Shakers are building a granite barn for their cows. It is to be two hundred and fifty feet in length, fifty feet wide, and will probably cost fifteen thousand dollars.

The small pox is more prevalent in Boston than at the same period for many years. The ratio of deaths, however, is not alarming.

On Friday of last week, one of the steamers carried from New Jersey to New York the enormous quantity of sixty-eight thousand one hundred bushels of strawberries. This delicious berry sells in that city for five cents per basket—equal to about twenty-five cents a box in Boston.

They punish people queerly in China. For robbing a pedlar, a man was lately put into a cannon and fired against a stone wall.

Miss Julia M. Pelby, late of Boston, was married at San Francisco, (Cal.) on the 30th of April, to James G. Pearson, Esq., formerly of Gloucester, (Mass.)

The Board of Mayor and Aldermen, of Boston, have passed an order directing the Committee on Internal Health to provide a building suitable for a cholera hospital.

It is an amusing fact that the initials of the four Congressmen from Ohio, who voted for the Nebraska bill, spell—dogs—Disney, Ogle, Green, Shannon.

A meeting of gentlemen, connected with the Press in Norfolk and Plymouth Counties, will take place at the Hancock House, in Quincy, on Tuesday, June 27th, at 9 o'clock; A. M., for the purpose of adopting such measures as may be deemed expedient relative to the rates of advertising, and for a more general understanding of matters connected with the newspaper business.

QUINCY PATRIOT.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.
Stanzas.

BY THOMAS MONTJOY.

With tears my cheek is gleaming beneath the green

Which even hope cannot restrain.

Where is he? Where is my dear lord?

The idol of my trusting heart!

Gone to receive the great reward

Of those who nobly act their part?

Perhaps the last of all his crew,

He laid him on the wreck to die;

To home and country ever true,

For them he breath'd his latest sigh.

And well may home and country mourn,

And of their Hero still be proud,

If far on Northern Ocean borne,

The closing iod should be his shroud.

But hope still whispers trust again;

A gracious God is everywhere;

His mighty Arm may break the chain,

And free the sufferers from despair.

In some lone bay he may be found,

Hemmed in with ice compact as steel,

Or girt with lofty icebergs round,

Cold as the heart that cannot feel.

He may be found—the thrilling hope

Is flitting through my fever'd brain,

While reason gives to fancy scope,

And brings him to my arms again.

Ye noble souls who freely sought

A rescue for your kindred braves,

May Victory, by your daring bought,

Bring you exulting 'er the waves.

Go Ahead.

Go ahead—and do not tarry,
Nought is gained by standing still;
When you're sick, you're miscarry,
Far away.

What care I for praise? with man's breath it hath birth;

Oh what's immortality, even on earth?

A name not worth having, then give me in love,

That wreath that ne'er fades, oh! my Father above!

For life's but a moment, an age but a day,

In the sight of that Eye that at once can survey,

All the depths of eternity, endless, profound,

All the worlds of infinity wheeling around,

Far away.

Ye gay ones with whom I have mingled so long;
When the goblet went round, and the dance and the the song,

Ah! ye knew not my heart, though a smile lit
my brow.

There was sorrow in solitude brooding below.

But it soon will be o'er; ah! the moments fleet fast,

And I'll rest in the clay with my fathers at last,

Not dream of the storms o'er my bosom that's buried;

But think on a better, and far brighter world,

Far away.

Quincy, June 12th.

Growing Old Together.

You have promised that through life
We shall journey heart united,
Husband fond, and faithful wife,
And I trust the vow thus plighted.

Hand in hand, and side by side,

Through life's storms and sunny weather,

We will our one fortune bide,

And at last grow old together.

What if Time's unspiring wing
Of some pleasure has bereft us?

Let us not by murmuring

Lose the many that are left us.

What though youth and bloom depart,

Swift as birds of lighted feather?

Why repine with feebly heart,

Shall we not grow old together?

Few indeed have been our years,

Yet enough our hearts to bind, love;

And to show how many tears

In Life's brightest cup we find, love!

Since in our united youth,

We two sported on the heather,

Dearest! it is meet in truth,

That we should grow old together.

Auroras.

"Pa, has the world got a tail?" asked an urchin of his father.

"No, child," replied the old 'un, impatiently, "how could it have one when it is round?"

"Well," persisted the heir, "why do the papers say 'so wags the world,' if it ain't got a tail to wag about?"

"Your ma wants you," replied the nonplussed daddy.

A gentleman, named Dunlop, being present at a party where one of the company had made several puns on the names of persons present, remarked that he had never heard his name punned upon, and did not believe it could be done. "There is nothing in the world more easy, sir," replied the punster;
"just lop off half the name, and it is Dun."

A minister, while preparing his Sunday's sermon, stopped occasionally to review what he had written, and, as a matter of course, to erase some portions, which, on consideration, seemed to require improvement. While doing so, he was accosted by his little son, a child, about three years of age:

"Father, does God tell you what to preach?"

"Certainly, my child."

"Then what makes you scratch it out?"

"I wish you had been Eve," said an urchin to an old maid who was proverbial for her meanness.

"Why so?"

"Because," said he, "you would have eaten all the apples, instead of dividing with Adam?"

QUINCY PATRIOT.

SATURDAY, JUNE 24.

fact, that there is more Port drank in the United States in one year, than passes through the Custom House in ten; that more Champagne is consumed in America alone, than the whole Champagne district produces; that Cognac brandy costs four times as much in France, where it is made, as it is sold for at our corner groceries; and the failure of the whole grape crop in Madeira produced no apparent diminution in the quantity, nor at all corresponding increase in the price of the wine.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, June 24th, 1854.

Convention of Editors and Publishers.

On Tuesday next, there will be a Convention of those interested in the Press of Norfolk and Plymouth Counties, in this town, at the Hancock House. We trust we shall meet on that occasion some representative of each of the newspapers of these counties. We promise them that they will meet with a hospitable reception from Major French, such as will render the meeting one of agreeable recreation, even if no plan or system shall be devised to promote the pecuniary interests of those met together.

We need not repeat the advantages to be derived from concerted action, they are so obvious. The necessity of a local press is proven by experience. It quickens the energies and excites a healthy emulation among the inhabitants of a town. It mirrors the industry and the works of private and individual enterprise. It serves to make known the wants of individuals, and facilitates the satisfaction of them.

Notwithstanding the benefits conferred by a local press, it is too true that the proprietors and printers of it are scantily and niggardly rewarded for their labors. They are reduced down to a degree but one above starvation point. To remedy this evil and to elevate the sentiments of the community with respect to its local press, is an object worth struggling for. Much can, and much will be effected in promoting the object, by those interested, in meeting together. Let each one declare his opinions as developed by his experience—and we doubt not that it will prove to all an occasion of pleasant remembrance, both for its social and pecuniary results. We hope to have a full meeting.

In closing, we would suggest that, so far as practicable, those who intend to be present, should send their names to us, that we may be prepared for their coming.

MAIL FACILITIES. We are at a loss for an answer to our correspondent—"A Fast Man." There are various reasons which might be given as the cause of our deprivation of two mails a day. It is well known, we presume, that the expense of transporting the mails in Virginia is far greater than the income derived from postage; while it is equally well known that the receipts of the post-office in Massachusetts are greater than the expenditure for the same. By transferring the balance in favor of Massachusetts to the credit side of the account with Virginia, Uncle Sam is enabled to balance his books, so far as these two States are concerned. No one can object to such an arrangement; for it is well known to all who read the census report that the dark cloud of ignorance is overshadowing rapidly the Old Dominion, the number of those who cannot read and write in Virginia having increased more than ten thousand between the year 1840 and 1850. Any deprivation of mail facilities in Massachusetts, calculated to benefit the Treasury of the Union and to spread the light of knowledge in the old Dominion should be borne with cheerfulness and pride, rather than with murmur and complaint.

Another cause may be, that the great men who conduct the government of the Union, suppose that decay and desolation have come upon the Old Colony, as they have upon Jamestown, and that owls and bats and wild beasts are the only inhabitants.

We have heard it intimated that when the union of the Fall River and Old Colony Railroad corporations shall have been effected, that possibly some arrangement may be made whereby the favor of two mails a day shall be conferred upon us.

SEVERE TEMPEST. The thunder shower, on Monday last, was very severe along the South Shore.

At Kingston, the shower is represented as the most severe ever experienced in that town. Little rain fell, but much damage was done by the lightning. The spire of the Unitarian Church was struck and completely demolished. Three houses were also struck and somewhat damaged. Providentially the inmates escaped unharmed.

At Duxbury, a man was struck and remained insensible for two hours.

At North Bridgewater, a young man of 22 years of age was instantly killed.

MOVE FOR REPEAL. In the House of Representatives, in Congress, Hon. Thomas D. Eliot, of this State, gave notice of his intention of introducing a bill for the repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law.

The usual annual Camp Meeting of the Methodists of this State, will be held at Eastham, in Millennial Grove, on the 15th August next.

MINOT'S LEDGE LIGHT-HOUSE. A minute survey of these dangerous rocks has just been completed for the United States Light House Board. The base of the outer Minot will permit the construction of a stone light-house of sufficient dimensions to resist the force of the most powerful wave, and it is expected immediate measures will be taken to commence the work.

A YEAR AFTER MARRIAGE. This work by T. S. Arthur is an admirable story and should be read by all. There is no cant, and there is nothing sickly in the writings of this author. The story contains many fine and delicate touches of character, which evince a knowledge of the heart. Its spirit is gentle and elevating. It is interesting, from its connection with occurrences of every day life. It has a domestic and moral tone that affects the reader with delight and deeply impresses moral and practical lessons of life.

T. B. Peterson, No. 102 Chestnut street, is the publisher, where all the works of Arthur may be obtained.

GODFREY, FOR JULY. This number of Godfrey's Book is deserving especial notice, from the fact, that it is the first number of the second quarter of a century. A work that has secured a generous support for a quarter of a century finds in that fact a sufficient pledge for the future. We have been a reader of the book for many years, and cordially concur in the opinion that "in all possible cases it was the first to take a decided lead in the cultivation and presentation of the earliest and purest flowers of literature, the rarest efforts of genius in the fine arts, and the arts of industry; with all which, it has so interwoven the innocent but ever varying devices of fashion, as to leave nothing to be charged against us which could not, or would not, be defended by any virtuous and consistent lady of the land."

In this number there is a scriptural plate of Noah, A Day at a Ship Yard, and other plates in addition to its reading articles of interest.

PENSIONS TO PRIVATEERSMEN. The Commissioner of Pensions has issued a notice stating that Congress has made an appropriation for paying the pensions of invalid privateersmen, (wounded during the last war with Great Britain) up to the thirtieth of the present month. The following evidence must be produced before parties interested will be entitled to receive the benefit of the law:

1. Sworn declaration of memorial, setting forth the vessel to which the pensioner belonged; his rank or station; when and in what manner disabled; monthly rate of pension, and date to which last paid.

2. Evidence of identity, either by affidavit of two credible witnesses, or the certificate of a justice of the peace.

The above evidence to be authenticated by the certificate under seal of the proper officers, showing the official character of the Justices of the peace, and to be forwarded with the original pension certificate.

CHOWDER. Whoever loves good chowder will not fail to drop in upon our neighbor in the basement of Goodnow's Building, this evening. No one knows better than he how to temper the ingredients of a rich and luscious clam chowder. If any one doubts, let him taste and tell us.

TOWN MEETING. At the meeting of the inhabitants of this town, yesterday afternoon, of which Edwin W. Marsh was Moderator, it was voted to indefinitely postpone the article in the warrant, relative to obstructions on Canal street, in the vicinity of the Orthodox meeting-house. It is understood that a petition will forthwith be presented to the Selectmen to lay out a road in that locality.

It was also voted, to purchase the land on which the Vulture Engine House stands, for the sum of two hundred dollars.

MUSTER. The annual encampment of the First Division, under command of Maj. Gen. Edwards, will take place in this town, on the 8th, 9th and 10th of August next. The ground selected belongs to the estate of the late Daniel Greenleaf, and lies west of Mount Wollaston. It is an excellent location, and well adapted for this purpose.

RAILROAD MATTERS. A dividend of four per cent. on the earnings of the Fall River Railroads Company has been declared by the directors, payable on and after Monday, the third of July next.

It is understood that the union between the Old Colony and Fall River Railroad will be accomplished on the 1st of July. The necessary arrangements are nearly completed, and a committee is busily engaged in appraising the property of the roads.

It is now stated, that F. B. Crowningshield, Esq., President of the Old Colony Railroad, resigned his situation on Tuesday last. Alexander Holmes, Esq., one of the Directors, is now acting as President.

TELEGRAMS. The State Temperance Convention, which met this week, at Lowell, chose for its President Hon. Samuel Hoar, of Concord. Resolutions were adopted to support independent nominations for State officers at the next election—all candidates to be pledged for the prohibitory liquor law.

The usual annual Camp Meeting of the Methodists of this State, will be held at Eastham, in Millennial Grove, on the 15th August next.

The railroad to the summit of Mt. Holle is now in successful operation. There is also a flight of four hundred and seventy-five stairs, the longest in the United States, for those who wish to walk up.

The usual annual Camp Meeting of the CHEERING. The growing wheat crops throughout the Union are represented to be unusually promising. Everywhere in the north and west there is an increased breadth of land under wheat—say twenty per cent.—and the prospect is, that the yield in Ohio, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois, and other Western States, will be twenty to twenty-five per cent. greater than that of last year, in spite of the fly, the rust, and the hard winter.

FOURTH OF JULY. The celebration of the approaching "Fourth," in Boston, promises to be one of unusual splendor and novelty. The Floral procession occupies an important part of the programme, and a beautiful feature will be an infant's Cortège, in little carriages, decorated with flowers. The Regatta on the Back Bay will be novel and attractive, and the Fire Works must of course form the grand finale.

FIRE. Two wooden buildings near the foot of Fourth street, South Boston, used by the Old Colony Railroad Company for storing cars, were destroyed by fire on Thursday morning last. Two new cars, which had been placed in the houses to be painted, were also burnt.

SUMMER CLOTHING. George Savil & Co., in Goodnow's Building, are clothing the multitude with well made and fashionable articles of Summer Clothing, at prices ranging downward from cheap to almost nothing. Call and see them.

The Mails.

To the Editor of the Quincy Patriot:

I was not particularly friendly to the last administration of the general government in the time of it, but I must now admit that, in some respects, it accommodated us at Quincy much better than the present one. It used to give us two mails per day from Boston;—we now have but one. What can be the cause of this change in the wrong direction?

The mail is now transported, it is said, in a wagon, which is certainly not very creditable reform to the Postmaster General.

Matt. F. Ward, the murderer of Professor Butler, has sought refuge from the public scorn by going to the Hot Springs of Arkansas, his health being very bad.

A gentleman has gone to Cincinnati, with some twelve Chinese tea culturists, for the purpose of testing the practicability of growing tea in that vicinity.

The Trustees of the Pilgrim Society, after two or three meetings for consultation at Plymouth, have voted to purchase the wharf property on which "Forfeathers Rock" is situated, thus taking the first step towards the erection of a monument to the memory of the Pilgrims.

An Arkansas paper states that not less than one hundred horses have been killed in Union county, by the guangs, within the past two or three weeks.

In China, if a young man is not married by the time he is twenty, he is drummed out of town.

The Boston Herald has come out in a sparkling new typographical suit. It is a well conducted sheet, and enjoys a respectable share of influence.

The New York Journal of Commerce says the proceedings attending the celebration of the fourth of July, in that city, will this year be upon a scale of grandeur hitherto unprecedented. Preliminary arrangements demonstrate this fact beyond contradiction.

The City of New York is unprecedentedly crowded with young men from the country, who are seeking employment.

Grasshoppers have appeared in swarms at Cumberland, (Md.) to the great injury of vegetation.

New England, alone, is organizing an emigration of twenty thousand persons, for New York city, together with his associates, for violating the State law against raffling and lotteries.

It is a remarkable fact, that of the eighteen States admitted into the Union since the formation of the Constitution, only eight of them have had permission from Congress to erect State governments.

Capt. Sutter, who first opened the ball in California, and who was, at one time, worth his millions, is now in reduced circumstances, and has been obliged to mortgage his farm.

In 1850, Russia contained a population of nearly sixty-three millions.

Thirty newspaper publishers, from various parts of Connecticut, recently met in convention, to fix upon specific rates for advertising, &c.

The United States army numbers about ten thousand men, who cost the country last year $8,525,240 for pay, subsistence, clothing, &c.

Men are now employed at the Charlestown Navy Yard, in repairing the dry dock gate, lengthening out one of the ship houses for the construction of the new steam frigate, and getting timber ready for the keel of the same.

Among the presents sent out by the United States Government to the Emperor of Japan, were some bottles of American whiskey.

Chloride of lime cannot be used too freely in sprinkling the gutters and all places emitting unsavory smells.

The Boston Evening Transcript has been enlarged and otherwise beautified, which makes it one of the handsomest and best newspapers published in this country.

The death of Christopher C. Dean is recorded, who, for some twenty years, was the Treasurer and Agent of the Massachusetts Sabbath School Society, in Boston.

All hopes of any tidings ever being heard from the ill-fated steamer City of Glasgow, are now given up. She was probably overwhelmed in the ice, and with her, nearly four hundred souls on board were immediately destroyed.

A petition for the Repeal of the Fugitive Slave Law, signed by three thousand of the influential citizens of Boston, has been taken to Washington, by Mr. Rockwell, the new Senator.

The United States Deputy Marshal John H. Riley and his assistants have arrived home, from their journey south to return Anthony Burns. They were assured that Burns would not be punished.

It is said that the remains of Gen. La Fayette lie in a neglected graveyard in Paris, with only a plain horizontal slab to mark the spot.

A newspaper published in the Chinese language and printed in Chinese characters, has been started in San Francisco, as the organ of the Celestial population. It is entitled the Gold Hill News. California being known among the Chinese as the Gold Hills.

The railroad to the summit of Mt. Holle is now in successful operation. There is also a flight of four hundred and seventy-five stairs, the longest in the United States, for those who wish to walk up.

The usual annual Camp Meeting of the London (Eng.) Observer says, that if the present annual emigration continues until 1851, there will not be a single Irishman remaining on his native soil.

The Northern States are represented in Congress by thirty-two Senators and one hundred and thirty-five members of the House; the Southern by thirty Senators and ninety members.

An appointment has been made of a Fire Marshal for New York City, for investigating the origin of fires. He acts with the co-operation of the city authorities, but is paid by the insurance companies.

The 17th, 18th, and 19th of June are anniversaries of three important events in history, viz.—the Battle of Bunker's Hill, on the 17th of June, 1775; the Battle of Waterloo, on the 18th of June, 1815; and the proclamation of President Madison, on the 19th of June, 1812, announcing the declaration of war by the Congress of the United States against Great Britain.

The City Council of Providence, upon petition of six hundred citizens, have rescinded the vote to have the church bells of the city tolled on the Fourth of July, and have appropriated two thousand dollars to celebrate the day in the usual manner.

The cigar-makers—employers and employees—are about to establish a journal, to be mainly devoted to matters pertaining to their calling, to be denominated "The Tobacco Plant."

Donald McKay of Boston, the great ship-builder, is building a magnificent fleet of European packets, for the purpose of bringing emigrants to people Nebraska and Kansas.

A teacher in one of the public schools in Troy, (N. Y.) has been discharged by the Board of Education, on the ground that she was a believer in the "spiritual rappings," and attended the "circles."

For the ten years ending January 1, 1854, 1880 aliens were naturalized in England.

The Rhode Island Legislature has adjourned after passing, among other things, an act prohibiting the use of any jail or prison for the purpose of confining fugitive slaves, and makes it penal for any officer of that State to aid in the arrest or detention of any fugitive slave.

The number of shop hands turned out of employ by the late fire in Worcester is eight hundred and fifty-nine, and the whole number dependent upon the various establishments which were destroyed is over one thousand.

Coffee is an excellent disinfecting agent; when roasted and ground and exposed in an open vessel, its effect is quite as powerful as chloride of lime, without its disagreeable smell.

The Thames Tunnel is twelve hundred feet in length; seventy-six feet below high water mark; was eight years building, and cost £446,000. Opened 25th March, 1843.

The New York Sun says there is a large building in that city, one hundred and fifty feet in height, which is occupied by three hundred Irish families. One entrance on the street suffices for the use of one hundred and eighty families. A number of persons have died of cholera there within a few days.

There were ten cholera deaths in Boston last week, and fifty-three in New York.

By the new liquor law just passed by the Connecticut Legislature, no debt contracted for liquor can be collected.

Josiah Perham, the gift enterprise man, has been arrested and held to bail in New York city, together with his associates, for violating the State law against raffling and lotteries.

The Hall and Rooms above will be occupied as usual as a

Furniture Sales Room, where GARMENTS will be made to order, at short notice, in a superior manner, and SATISFACTION given in all cases.

Poetry.

For the Quincy Patriot.
Stanzas to —

BY JENNY.

Forever thine, though distance parts us—
Though many weeks have intervened;
Though many pangs the present costs us,
Still o'er the past I'll fondly dream.

Forever thine, though oft I mingle
In life's bright scenes, amid the gay;
They little dream the part I'm playing—
To chase far deeper thoughts away.

Forever thine, the cup of pleasure
That thou hast filled in by-gone hours,
I would return, love, double measure,
In this, my offering, memory's flowers.

Forever thine, no goblet brimming,
Or bubble on the wine cup brake,
That I'll e'er taste, though overflowing;
That holds no joy, for thy dear sake.

Forever thine, in hall or bower,
Mid every scene for thee I pine,
At morn, or eve, in midnight slumber,
A voice, low—whispers—ever thine.

Forever thine, these lips shall murmur,
When death's cold hand upon my breast,
In its embrace—a voice will whisper
Thine, ever thine—thine, thine, in death.

The Contented Man.

Why need I strive and sigh for wealth?
It is enough for me
That heavens hath sent me strength and health,
A spirit glad and free;
Grateful these blessings to receive,
I sing my hymn at morn and eve.

On some, what floods of riches flow!
House, herds and gold have they;
Yet idle their best joys they never know,
But fret their hours away—
The more they have, the seek increase;
Complaints and cravings never cease.

A vale of tears this world they call,
To me it seems so fair;
It countless pleasures hath for all,
And none denied a share;
The little birds on new-fledged wing,
And insects revel in the spring.

For love of us, hills, woods and plains
In heathenous hues are clad;
And birds sing far and near sweet strains,
Caught up by echoes glad.
"Rise," sings the lark, "your tasks to ply;"
The nightingale sings "lullaby."

And when the golden sun goes forth,
And all gold appears,
When bloom o'er spreads the glowing earth,
And fields have ripening ears,
I think these glories that I see,
My kind Creator made for me.

Then loud I thank the Lord above,
And say, "Joyful mood,
His love indeed his father's love,
He wills to all men good.
Then let me ever grateful live,
Enjoying all He deigns to give.

The Summer Webs.

The summer webs that float and shine,
The summer dews that fall,
Though light they be, this heart of mine,
Is lighter still than all.
It tells me every cloud is past,
Which lately seemed so lower—
That hope hath wed young joy at last,
And now their nuptial hour.

With light thus round, within, above,
With naught to make me sigh,
Except the wish all we love
Were at this moment nigh.
It seems as if life's brilliant sun
Had stopp'd in full career,
To make this hour its brightest one,
And rest in radiance here.

Anecdotes.

A person who was present at a conversation in which a very dull play was talked of, its ill success in acting, attempted a defense of it by saying it was not hissed. "True," says another, "I grant you that, but no one can hiss and gape at the same time."

"Captain, what's the fare?"
"What part of the boat do you wish to go—cabin or deck?"

"Hang your cabin," said the gentleman. I live in a cabin at home, give me the best you've got."

A good deacon, making an official visit to a dying neighbor, who was a very churlish and unpopular man, put the usual question: "Are you willing to go, my friend?" "O yes," said the sick man, "I am." "Well," said the simple-minded deacon, "I am glad you are; for all the neighbors are willing."

"If we're so unlucky," said an officer, "as to have a stupid son, I would certainly by all means, make him a parson."

A clergyman, who was present in the company, calmly replied:—"You think differently, sir, from your father."

"Pa," said a little fellow, "wasn't Job an editor?" "Why, Sammy?"

"Because the Bible says he had so much trouble, and was a man of sorrow all the days of his life."

During the war of 1812, an old gentleman, who was always on the alert to obtain the latest news from the army, made his usual inquiry of a wag. "The latest news from the army," replied the wag, "is, that they are in St. Louis?" "Ah!—how far is that from Montreal?" asked the gentleman. The wag vanished.

Miscellaneous.

Right Across the Street.

"Well, this is a terrible cold night—terrible cold!" repeated Howard Ingersoll, as he removed his coat and wrappers, and ensconced himself in a large easy chair, drawn up at precisely the proper angle with the fire.

"God help the poor!" continued the gentleman in a tone whose fervor would have done honor to any member of the Long Parliament; and he drew his feet into the tastefully embroidered slippers which loving hands had placed there in anticipation of his return.

"I know it, Howard, that's just what I said as I sat here listening for the sound of your footstep in the hall," answered Mrs. Ingersoll, a gentle, dark-eyed woman, as she stirred up the glowing bed of anthracite, and the light that waved and glided over the opposite wall like the great wing of a spirit, grew broader and brighter. "I heard the wind moaning and howling at the windows, and shrieking mad like up and down the street; and I suppose it was because I had nothing else to do I fell thinking of the poor—of helpless mothers with their little hungry children, and it was more than I could stand. I crept on tiptoe into the children's room, and bending over those two dear little cribs, (I had tucked up Charlie and Ellen myself, and they were sleeping so sweetly) I thought may be some other mother was bending over her children, and she loving them just as dearly as I did mine, and yet not bed-clothes enough to keep them warm, and perhaps they went to bed without any supper. Poor things! I can't get over thinking about them."

And the lady whose maternal sympathies were strongly aroused, dropped the poker on the ring and lifted her pretty dark eyes to her husband's face, while two tears of genuine womanly sympathy twinkled and sparkled in their travel down her cheeks.

"Why, Mary, you are really getting nervous. What can have put these thoughts into your head, child? Do, pray, dismiss them; they only make one fidgety; I put down a good round sun on the charity list this year, so you'd better think of the old tree in front of our house. Don't you remember it, Lizzie? And those pretty roses that used to look in at our window; and the spring under the rock, with the mint that grew all around it. Oh, we were so happy then, and father would take us on his knee, when the stars looked out of the sky like the sparkling eyes of little children, and tell us such pretty stories. Oh, Lizzie, if they hadn't buried him under the great willow in the grave yard, we should not have been here all alone in the dark to-night." And then both the children cried again.

"Oh, I hope she will," said Lizzie, in a more hopeful voice, but it grew sad again as she asked, "but what is to become of us? we have no food and no fire."

"I don't feel any better, Lizzie," said the little girl. It seems as if my head would crack open, and I'm so thirsty. Oh, Lizzie, if I could have some water!"

"Well, Mary, I'll get you some at the well in the yard down stairs," answered Lizzie, as she sprang from the bed, and drew on a pair of very old slippers.

"Sister, ain't mother awake yet?" asked Mary rather impatiently.

Lizzie glanced towards the opposite bed. The face was turned towards her, and she saw the sunshine and the strange smile. She could not understand it, and she set down the pitcher, which she had taken up, and walked towards the bed.

"Mamma, mamma," said she, bending down to the white face, "won't you wake up, for it's morning. How long you have slept! Are you dreaming of home, that makes you smile so?"

But the white face did not stir, and the eyes did not close.

"Mamma, said the child in a louder voice, and bringing her face down close to her mother's, "do you not hear me? It is your little Lizzie calls you. Open your eyes and speak to me;" and she laid her cheek down against her mother's. But the next moment her head was lifted, and the face on the pillow was not whiter than the child's, for a chill—fearful paralyzing chill—had crept to her innmost heart, and a sudden terrible thought had darted through her brain. She gazed wildly on those ghastly features, laid her hand on the stony forehead, and then a shrik of exceeding agony rang through the room; and Mary lifted up her head and stared wildly at her sister, for the fever had mounted to her brain, and the shrik had bewildered her senses.

"Mary, Mary, mamma is dead! dead! and left us here alone," ejaculated Lizzie, in a voice hoarse with agony.

"Dead! dead!" repeated Mary, as if trying to comprehend her sister's words; "Well, Lizzie, let's you and I die too, and go to her;" and she fell back heavily upon the pillow.

"Mary, said the elder child, after she had put her hand on the burning temples, "I mean to go over to the brick house to-morrow, and ask the lady that lives there, if she won't give us something to eat. I know they've got a great deal more than they want, and we shall starve if I don't."

"Burning up! burning up!" ejaculated the other, her surprise getting the better of her caution. "Why, Mary, the water has frozen in the pitcher, and I feel just like ice all over, only my hands and feet ache so."

"Well, get in quick, Lizzie; there, take half the pillow, and put your hands in mine. Oh, how cold and good they feel! Lizzie, have you said your prayers?"

"Yes," said her sister, hesitatingly. "I tried to, a long time ago, when I stood at the window, watching for the people in the brick house to light up their parlor; and when the girl came in with the lamps, just before she drew the curtains, I could look down and see all that was in the room. Oh! it looked so beautiful, with the fire dancing in the grate. It seemed so cruel that we couldn't have one, too, and there was that little boy and girl there, Mary, and they looked so happy as they ran round the room, trying to catch each other, that I began to feel angry with them. I know it was wicked, but I could not help it; I shut my eyes and tried to pray, but all the time that pleasant room and those happy children stood right before me, and the words came dreadfully hard. It didn't seem as if God heard them. Don't you think He's forgotten us, Mary?"

QUINCY PATRIOT.

SATURDAY, JULY 1.

Near him stood Jimmy, his elbows resting on the fence, and his head upon his hands. The tears which had flowed from his now glazed eyes were congealed upon his cheeks. He, too, was a frozen corpse.—Temperance Journal.

THE QUINCY PATRIOT.

Saturday, July 1st, 1854.

"BORN TO NO MASTER, OF NO SECT ARE WE."

THE CONVENTION. We had the pleasure of meeting, on Tuesday, gentlemen connected with the Press in Norfolk and Plymouth Counties. The papers represented were the Norfolk County Journal, Dedham Gazette, North Bridgewater Gazette, Hingham Journal, and the Quincy Patriot. From editors of the other papers of these counties, letters were received, explaining the cause of their absence, and expressing a cordial approval of the objects of the meeting, and their willingness to concur in such action as the Convention should adopt to further the interest of the Press.

Having expressed their several opinions of the course to be pursued, and freely interchanged their sentiments, the Convention adjourned to meet in Boston. We are confident that this meeting will prove to have been beneficial to all concerned, and one of pleasant and agreeable recollections.

Major French freely welcomed the members of the Convention to his house and beautiful table—again imposing additional obligations for his liberality and kindness to the fraternity of the Press, and in their name we would thank him for his attention and courtesy on this occasion.

FOURTH OF JULY AT WEYMOUTH. It will be seen in another column, that the young ladies connected with Rev. J. P. Terry's Society, in Weymouth, will hold a Fair in the Town Hall of Weymouth, commencing on the fourth of July.

Rev. Dr. Storrs of Brooklyn, New York, is announced to speak on the occasion. Those who wish to hear a Fourth of July oration in the spirit of the day, had better attend. He is a gifted speaker, and eloquent after the manner of his esteemed and revered father, Dr. Storrs of Braintree. He will not, we assure our readers, postpone the occasion by saying one word in favor of the seeming triumph of the slave power over the rights of humanity, by the passage of the Nebraska-Kansas Bill. He was born too near the birth-place of those great patriots of Revolutionary memory—John Adams, John Hancock and Josiah Quincy, Jr., to entertain for an instant a feeling of submission to the domination of the enemies of the human race.

ADAMS LITERARY ASSOCIATION. At a meeting of this Association, on Monday evening last, for the choice of Officers, the following gentlemen were chosen for the term ensuing:—

President—Jonathan Jameson.
Vice President—Charles L. Veazie.
Secretary—James White.
Treasurer—Edward A. Adams.
Librarian—William Baxter.
Trustees—J. Jameson, C. L. Veazie, W. M. French, H. G. Wildman, Thomas Curtis.
Directors—C. C. Brackett, Benj. Curtis, G. P. Hardwick, Warren Stetson, Lyssander Richards.

HUNT'S MERCHANTS' MAGAZINE. At the celebration of the inauguration of the new building of the Mercantile Library Association in New York, which recently took place in that city, the Hon. J. R. Broadhead delivered an address on the occasion, in which he traces the commercial history and growth of the "Island of Manhattan," from the time of its discovery by the Dutch to the present period. He is reported in the New York Times and other papers, to have said, he "took great pleasure in referring to the fact that one of the best, if not the very best, commercial magazines of this day, in the whole world,—Hunt's Merchants' Magazine,—was edited and published, as it ought to be, in the city of New York." This is all very well for a distinguished New Yorker to say, but the Boston Transcript informs Mr. Broadhead that Hunt's Magazine is as highly appreciated in the second commercial emporium of the country, and has quite as large a circulation in Boston as in New York, and probably larger in proportion to the population of the two cities; and further, that New York is indebted to Massachusetts for its founder—editor and publisher—as Mr. Hunt is a native of Quincy, in this State.

DEATH OF A JUDGE. Hon. Daniel Wells, Chief Justice of the Court of Common Pleas of Massachusetts, died suddenly on Friday of last week, at his residence in Cambridge, his malady appearing to be a disease of the heart. He was about sixty-three years of age.

Liquor Selling. Elizabeth Ford and Margaret Coffee, both of this town, were brought before Justice E. F. Hall of Weymouth, on Thursday last, and were each fined forty-three dollars and sixty-two cents, including costs, for violation of the liquor law, in two instances. The fines were paid.

WHAT DO YOU MEAN? We find in the Dorchester Chronicle the annexed paragraph. What are you driving at, brother Bacon? We have not prescribed Peristaltic Lozenges for some years, but think a dose might make things intelligible.

"What is the trouble in the camp of the Quincy 'Tigers'?" What say you, brother Green?"

"PUB. Doc." Our thanks are due to Hon. Charles Sumner of the Senate, and Messrs. Banks and Goodrich of the House, for Congressional speeches, etc.; also to Senator Seward of New York, and Hon. Mr. Meacham of Vermont, for like attention.

READ AND "DO IT." The following, from the pen of a celebrated author, should be attentively read by every man who appreciates sound truth and wholesome instruction:—

"Breathes there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said—I will my town paper take, both for my own and family's sake? If such there be let him remain, and have the paper to him sent—and if he'd pass a happy winter, he in advance should pay the printer."

CLAM CHOWDER. This luxurious preparation will be served, to-day and evening, at the Granite Saloon, to the rush of customers, in the popular style and manner which distinguishes the proprietor of this neat and pleasant saloon.

We are requested to state that Clam Chowder may be procured, as above, on the day of our National Independence.

MEXICAN TREATY. The President has notified Congress of the ratification of the Gadsden treaty, and asked the House to make provision to pay Mexico seven millions of dollars immediately, and three millions more within six months. Mexico releases us from our obligation to protect her frontiers from the Indians, yields us additional territory and secures the Tehuantepec transit way to our government and citizens.

For the Patriot.

Ho! For no Higher Law.

So we travel on towards Jordan—some go erect, some on all-fours, and others after the manner of Eve's tempter. Every one to his fancy, say the masses, so that none violate our own laws.

Stealing babies and selling them for gold is deemed honorable business in this country; it enhances your national popularity and proves you are not tainted with a sickly sentimentality that does not appreciate the blessings of liberty as defined by the constitutional expounders of this age.

There are one hundred lodges and twenty thousand Free Masons, in the city of New York. A Masonic paper has been started.

The Richmond Enquirer estimates the boot and shoe trade of Virginia at two millions dollars (including five hundred thousand dollars at Richmond) of which not over two hundred thousand dollars is manufactured in the State, the balance, amounting to $1,800,000, coming from the North.

Red Ants may be driven away by sprinkling fine sea shore sand upon the shelves.

An act passed by the last General Court of Massachusetts authorized two "elementary drills" of the field, staff, commissioned and non-commissioned officers of regiments and battalions each year, between May muster and the encampments.

The President of the Natural History Society, thinks that the Great Tree on Boston Common must be three hundred years old, and that it sheltered not only our forefathers, but the aborigines before them.

The class that is about to graduate, is the largest that has ever graduated at Harvard, and what is remarkable, not a single death has occurred in its ranks during the whole four years.

The "True Delta" says that though there is, on an average, a murder committed in New Orleans every twelve hours, there have been but two convictions for the crime in eight years.

A white man and two negroes have been recently hung at Versailles, (Ky.) for murder, in the presence of ten thousand people. They made no confession.

They advertise to celebrate the coming Fourth of July, in Hamilton, (N. Y.) by the purchase of a pig, the tail of which shall be greased, the pig to be presented to the individual who shall catch it by the tail, and hold it.

It is stated that the Hon. John G. Palfrey is engaged in writing the history of New England.

For the Patriot.

School Report of Brighton—1854.

The Town of Brighton, in Middlesex County, incorporated in 1805, is one of the smallest towns—in territory—of our State. It now has a population of some twenty-five hundred inhabitants, and lies but three miles from the western borders of Boston. The cultivation of the soil is so high, that a great portion of this very pleasant town, presents the appearance of a garden. A generous spirit is here manifested for the cause of Education; Brighton being the eleventh among the towns of the State as to the amount, which its appropriation for teachers' wages and for fuel would divide to each child between the ages of five and fifteen years.

The number of the public schools, by the last Report of Rev. Frederick A. Whitney, (whom we shall ever claim as a Quincy boy,) was nine. Pupils 475—appropriation $4000. Among the 328 towns of the Commonwealth it stands the thirty-ninth in rank as to the largest average attendance. Brighton has for the colony of Pennsylvania (principally Quakers) subsisted in the midst of six Indian nations for more than seventy years, without so much as a militia for defence.

In Chicago (Ill.) there is said not to be a single American in the municipal government.

School, in a prosperous condition, under the auspices of John Ruggles, Esq. as Principal, whose salary is $1000 per annum. Mr. Ruggles is the only son of the late Hon. John Ruggles of Milton, and a graduate of Harvard University in 1836. We knew him well in his school-boy days. There are also two grammar and six primary schools. Salaries of the grammar masters, $700 each.

All the female teachers receive $4 50 per week.

To our mind, the arrangement of the Report before us is highly judicious, and gives indubitable evidence of great vigilance and attention on the part of the School Committee, to whom the citizens of Brighton committed to their charge the schools at the annual town meeting. We notice that the Prudential School System is retained, and their dimensions taken with express reference to their capacity for the transportation of troops to the Island of Cuba, from the American shores."

A resident of Philadelphia lost his wife, seven children, and upwards of twenty thousand dollars, in the steamship "City of Glasgow." All his property was in the steamer.

The Ohio State Journal says that the prospect of the wheat harvest was never better than it is now. Ohio will this year raise grain enough for four States as large as itself.

The Inspector of Liquors in one of the counties of Ohio, an eminent chemist, says that nearly all the liquor sold for brandy, which he has examined, is nothing but whisky colored with drugs.

State Conventions, composed of men of all parties, opposed to the Nebraska Perfidy, are held on the 13th of July, the anniversary of the passage of the ordinance of 1787, in Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan and Ohio.

The Connecticut House of Representatives, by a vote of one hundred and sixteen to seventy-eight, (thirty-one not voting) passed a resolution to amend the State Constitution so as to allow negroes to vote, on the same terms as white men; also, (one hundred and six to eighty) an amendment to prohibit any person from voting who cannot read.

Be you ever so pure, you cannot associate with bad company without falling into bad odor. Evil company is like tobacco smoke—you cannot be long in its presence without carrying away a taint of it.

The Connecticut newspapers have resolved to advance their rates of advertising twenty-five cents.

The great bridge of the Illinois Central Railroad is a wonder of human mechanism. It is two-thirds of a mile long, is seventy-five feet high, and contains upwards of one million feet of timber. The top is to be covered with tin, and be made water-tight, the trains of cars running on top of all.

The black fire companies of Savannah, (Ga.) have made their annual parade. The papers of that city say the exhibition was very creditable to the city both in point of numbers and in the excellence of the equipment.

QUINCY PATRIOT,

SATURDAY, JULY 1.

Poetry.

For the Patriot.
My Native Land.

BY F. H. ADLINGTON—WEYMOUTH.

My native land, forever dear,
Tho' mine has been the poor man's lot;
I love thee still with heart sincere,
Nor are thy benefits forgot.

I share the glory of thy name,
The shelter of thy mighty shield;
And I with thee must bear the shame,
If thou to vice or folly yield.

I feel that I am one of those Who form a nation, great and strong;
Engaged to battle with her foes,
To guard the right and check the wrong.

A grain among her sands to roll,
A drop amidst her oceans whirl'd;
I form a part of that great whole,
A refuge for the suffering world.

Co-heir of all her praise or blame;
Her many sons who cross the sea,
And win a justly honor'd name,
Confer a benefit on me.

If there may be excuse for pride,
I am a patriot soldier's son;
And by my country's birth, allied
To thee—Immortal WASHINGTON.

My native land, forever dear,
While o'er my head your colors wave,
I scarce can realize that here
There breathes a tyrant or a slave.

Ah! would those wrongs our hearts deplore
Were blotted out, no more to be;
That all who tread Columbia's shore
Enjoy'd the blessings of the free.

Then would her stars a light disclose
To gazing nations round the world,
Her stripes a terror to her foes,
Where'er her sons their flag unfurled.

A Political Fable.

Once on a time, as authors tell,
The freshets made river swell;
The river, as the story goes,
All the surrounding banks overflowed;
The only neighboring spot of high land,
Was soon converted to an island,
Thence from their holes and burrows routed,
A motley tribe for safety scouted—
The common danger leagued in peace,
Dogs, cats and rats, and fox and geese;
Who, while the flood around them rose,
Forgot they ever had foes;
But when the ground was clear of rain—
Were cats and rats, and dogs again;
All found their safety in their flight,
"And bid civilities good night."

MORAL.

This 'tis with States—when danger's nigh,
"Unite, we live—divide, we die!"—
The North and South in concert join,
And public good's the grand design—
But when peace comes on downy wing,
And poets halcyon ages sing—
Those States coop'd up in legislature,
(The example don't exist in nature)
Opposing interests abound,
And there the local charge goes round.

The Maiden's Rejoinder.

Your home, dear miss, is very fair,
The winds are cold and high,
No splendid moon or twinkling star
Is looking from the sky:
So please, miss, take my proffered arm,
And let the varmints come:
I'll see you safe from harm,
Within your quiet home."

"I know, kind sir, the way is rough,
I know the night is dark,
And certain 'twould seem well enough
For me to have a spark,'
But then, I vowed some years ago,—
Call me you may a humbug—
My arm should never enter through
The hand of a rum-jug!"

Anecdotes.

"I say, Bill, I seed a Know Nothing."
"Where?"
"Why, on the Museum steps."
"What did he look like?"
"Why, he looked like a man."
"No, but what had he on?"
"Clothes."

"Don't be a fool—tell me how you found out that he was a Know Nothing."
"Why, he said so."
"Did you ask him to tell you?"
"No, but I asked him whether he wouldn't give me a sixpence, and he said—'No, nothing.'"

A traveller asked Bob Tipple if he had ever been round the Horn.
"No sir," replied the innocent Bob.
"I never goes round a horn; I ain't ashamed to take it, no matter who's by."

A woman was giving evidence in a certain case, when she was asked by the lawyer:—"Was the young woman virtuous previous to this affair?"
"Was she what?"
"Virtuous." Was she chaste?"
"Chaste? She was chased about a quarter of a mile."

"The moon," said a total abstainer, "is not quite a tee-totaler; but she lets her moderation be known to all men, for she only fills her horn once a month." "Then she fills it with something very strong," observed a bystander, "for I have seen her half gone!"

A little boy seeing a drunken man prostate before the door of a grocer, opened the door, and putting in his head, said to the owner, "See here, friend! Your sign has fallen down."
